U.N. SECRETARY REPORTS CEASE-FIRE AGREEMENTS BY ISRAEL, 4 ARAB STATES

TO SEEK FULL COMPLIANCE WITH OTHER SECTIONS OF 1949 TRUCE

Hammarskjold Indicates in 'Progress' Message He May Return in June to Solidify Mideast Accords.

(Text on Page 15D)

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., May 3 (AP)—U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold told the Security Council today he has obtained new unconditional cease-fire agreements from Israel and its four Arab neighbors — Egypt, Lebanon, Syria and Jordan.

He told the Council in a "progress report" the next step in the uneasy Middle East situation is to re-establish full compliance with other sections of the general armistice agreements of 1949, which ended the Palestine fighting.

There are indications he may return in June to work for such compliance and put the cease-fire agreements on a more solid basis.

The Secretary General thus completed the first part of the assignment given to him by the Security Council April 4. He filed his report to the Council president, Ambassador Joza Brilej of Yugoslavia, from Jerusalem, where he engaged in last-minute talks with Israeli officials.

Cairo Conference.

He later flew to Cairo for a brief conversation with Egyptian officials and will then fly to Rome. He is expected at the U.N. this weekend to write his final report, to be given the Council next week.

The Secretary General's report contained mostly background and a report of his efforts to stop the fighting and border incidents. He made no recommendations. He is expected to include some in his next report.

Hammarskjold recalled that he had reported earlier assurances of Egypt and Israel not to engage in hostilities except in self-defense. He then said he had concluded "with positive result" the negotiations with the parties to the other three armistice agreements, Syria, Lebanon and Jordan.

The latter three nations, he noted, made "a reservation as to self defense." But in a letter to Syrian Premier Said Ghazzi, made public in Damascus a few hours after Hammarskjold's report was published here, the Secretary General had this to say:

"I also take notice that Syria reserves the legitimate defense right recognized by the U.N. Charter. This reserve does not weaken the unconditional pledge to respect the provisions of . . . the armistice agreement."

Point of Distinction.

"In carrying out my mandate," Hammarskjold reported, "I have stayed strictly within the scope set by the Security Council resolution. (The resolution requested Hammarskjold to survey the various aspects of enforcement and compliance

GOV. EDWIN C. JOHNSON of Colorado presenting fishing license and an invitation to use it to PRESIDENT EISENHOWER at the White House today. MAYOR WILLIAM NICHOLSON of Denver looks on.

PRESIDENT HOPES TO USE COLORADO FISHING LICENSE

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP)—President Eisenhower today received Colorado's No. 1 fishing license for 1956 and said with a smile: "I hope I get to use it."

The license was presented by Gov. Edwin C. Johnson and Denver Mayor Will Nicholson.

It was in Denver that the President suffered a heart attack last Sept 24 and was hospitalized for seven weeks. He has vacationed in Colorado for the last four summers, but there has been speculation that his doctors might advise against a return to that altitude.

Denver is a mile high and the President's favorite Rocky Mountain fishing camp at Fraser, Colo., is more than 9000 feet up in the Rocky Mountains.

Johnson told the President he hopes the fishing license presented to him will get some use.

"I hope to get to use it," the President said. "As a matter of fact, if I get out there I'll use it, but I may not go up in the mountains."

Yesterday Mr. Eisenhower told another friend, Denver golfing companion L. M. Pexton, that he had not decided whether to vacation in Colorado again.

TRUCK DRIVER'S CHOICE RESULTS IN CLEAN STREET

Chief of Police Marshall Whitecotton of Rock Hill gave a gravel truck driver his choice today and as a result a section of Manchester road, between O'Day avenue and Berry road, is cleaner than it has been in a long time.

The truck driver, an employe of Crestwood Contracting Co., was driving along with a full load of gravel when his tailgate flew open. Two inches of gravel was spread over a lane and a half of the four-lane roadway. Chief Whitecotton caught up with the truck.

"I told the driver," the chief said, "he had a choice. Clean up his mess, or be arrested for littering the streets. He was happy to take the first choice."

STATE WILL PAY FOR PORTION OF TRAFFIC SURVEY

Highway Department Pledges $255,000 for Origin-Destination Phase of Study.

The Missouri Highway Commission agreed today to finance an origin and destination traffic survey of St. Louis and St. Louis county.

Such a study had been requested by the Citizens Metropolitan Transit Committee to assist it in an over-all survey of the transit problems of the metropolitan area.

It was explained by the Highway Department that the citizens' committee already had obtained an agreement with the engineering firm of Smith and Associates of New Haven, Conn., to conduct the major part of the survey for $205,000. To get other necessary details will cost an estimated additional $50,000, bringing the total cost to $255,000, a commission spokesman said.

The entire cost of the origin-distinction survey will be met by the commission with state and federal funds.

James E. Crowe, chairman of the citizens' transit group, who presented the request to the commission, said the study would involve interviews with residents of 17,500 homes in the area to determine their use of transportation facilities. This would constitute the minimum five per cent sample considered necessary for a valid survey, he said.

By assuming the cost of the origin-destination phase of the study, the highway commission will enable the city and the county to meet their commitments in financing the transit survey, which will include the feasibility of some form of rapid transit system.

The remaining portion of the cost of the full transit study, including a land use and population density survey as well as a review of the adequacy and efficiency of present transit facilities will cost the city and county $280,000, Mrs. Jerome J. Spector, secretary of the citizens' committee, said. Each is expected to pay equal shares.

St. Louis Soldier Crashed Way Into the Wedding at Monaco

St. Louis was represented at the Kelly-Rainier wedding festivities at Monte Carlo last month by Pfc. Philip J. Leahy, 21 years old, who along with two buddies from an Army unit in Germany managed to attend most of the major events, his friends here said today.

Leahy and the other soldiers rented top-hats and tails at a shop in Frankfort, Germany. They drove to Nice, arriving almost broke, and donned their finery to mingle with international society. None had invitations, but that did not cramp their style.

After crashing the cathedral wedding, Leahy and colleagues strolled across to the palace reception where they had champagne and caviar, and chatted with Ava Gardner. The Stars and Stripes, Army newspaper, quoted them as saying food and wine were "excellent."

Leahy was identified as the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Leahy, 1089 Roth avenue, University City. He wrote a St. Louis friend, Marvin Sandweiss, 6663 Kingsbury boulevard, University City, that he had quite a time in Monaco.

U.S. AND ALLIES AGREE ON LINKING DISARMAMENT, GERMAN UNITY

Mollet and Pineau Will Take Proposal to Moscow May 14 for Talks With Kremlin Chiefs.

PARIS, May 3 (UP)—The United States and its Western allies today agreed on a parallel plan for world disarmament and German reunification which French leaders will carry to Moscow.

French Premier Mollet and Foreign Minister Christian Pineal are scheduled to fly to Moscow May 14 for talks with Soviet Premier Bulganin and Communist party chief Nikita S. Khrushchev.

"Full agreement" on the plan to link disarmament with German unifiration was reached earlier today by the French leaders and West Germany's foreign minister Heinrich von Brentano.

It was a major attempt to break the long deadlock between East and West on the two pressing international issues.

Von Brentano announced the Western agreement on the French plan after meeting with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd.

"Secretary Dulles and the British government fully agree with the French plan," Von Brentano said. "The Secretary told me he fully supports the French plan, which means that the three Western allies and Germany have a common plan."

'Inner Cabinet' Proposal.

In another development on the eve of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization council meeting, Britain and the United States proposed to set up an "inner cabinet" of Western foreign ministers which would inject new life into the Atlantic defense alliance.

The plan was discussed at a morning conference and lunch between Lloyd.

The "inner cabinet" would be a committee of three to five foreign ministers which would be formed to deal with ideas put forward at this week's council meeting. This group then woul dreport back its findings and recommendations to the full council.

The effect would be a sort of steering committee to concentrate the main points of the various proposals offered, and then present them for consideration to keep the alliance alive and vital.

By the Associated Press.

British sources said Lloyd told Dulles that Britain opposes any extension of NATO into the foreign aid field for the benefit of the world's undeveloped regions and suggested instead that such aid be channeled through the International Monetary Fund, the Colombo plan for southeast Asia or agencies of the United Nations.

By account of the British sources:

Lloyd told Dulles that Britain is willing to expand consultative functions of NATO in the political field, but opposes the creation of a new organization to channel aid to underdeveloped nations. He said Britain also opposes using the NATO framework for sending aid to Southeast Asia and the Middle East.

In this, he was joining French Foreign Minister Pineau, who said yesterday that France opposes using such aid as a weapon in the cold war.

Both Britain and France obviously believe the NATO label would handicap the program in neutralist areas such as India or the Middle East.

One Question Still Open.

American sources said it was generally agreed that NATO should not distribute funds to other nations. One question still open was whether the NATO machinery should be used to give aid within the NATO community, as, for example, to underdeveloped regions of southern Italy, Greece and Turkey.

As such, NATO might be duplicating the work already being done by the Organization for European Economic Cooperation, which includes 17 nations. The United States and Canada are not O.E.E.C. members, but are closely associated with its work.

American sources said there is general agreement that NATO may be useful in coordinating aid policies of member states.

Von Brentano indorsed the link between disarmament and reunification in a meeting this morning with Premier Guy Mollet and Pineau in Mollet's offices.

The French leaders informed Von Brentano of instructions sent two weeks ago to Jules Moch, French representative on the U.N. disarmament subcommittee in London.

Pineau later told newsmen the West Germans were in "perfect accord" with the instructions. French sources said these would provide for token reduction of conventional forces, followed by a start on German reunification.

The final stage would be complete German reunification and general controlled and su-

HOUSE REJECTS EISENHOWER'S PRE-PAYMENT SOIL BANK PLAN

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP)—The House voted down today President Eisenhower's politically charged request for authority to pay farmers up to $500,000,000 in farm soil bank payments this year.

The vote was 181 to 157 in a teller count of members passing down the center aisle.

The bill still was subject to roll call vote on final passage.

It was a straight party vote with Democrats — behind the leadership of House Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas—denouncing the pay-in-advance proposal as an election-year "vote buying" gimmick.

Proposal by Hope.

The Eisenhower proposal was advanced by Representative Hope (Rep.), Kansas. It would have afforded Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson specific authority to pay farmers up to one-half of their soil bank entitlements in the year before they complied with their agreements to retire acreage.

The House voted tentative approval of an amendment that would give cattlemen a break by making grazing lands eligible for $50,000,000 of soil bank payments.

The amendment, sponsored by Representative Albert (Dem.) was backed solidly by Democrats and a large number of far western Republicans. It was put into the farm bill on a 103 to 66 unrecorded voice vote.

The House voted approval also of a compromise provision to insure corn farmers a guaranteed price support of $1.25 a bushel if they put a percentage of their land in a soil bank. This, in effect, settled disputes over corn and feed grain supports. Later, to yells of glee from the Democratic side, Representative Hays (Dem) of Ohio, offered an amendment which would have required Benson to report soil bank prepayments to the clerk of the House "on the same date and in the same manner as other political contributions."

'No Question of Reason.'

Hays, in arguing for his proposal, declared "there is no question in the minds of any one in this country about the reason for putting this (soil bank advance payment) money in the bill.'

"Reports have come in from a couple of primaries that have disturbed Mr. Benson," he said.

The pay-in-advance proposal, chief feature of the President's soil bank program, would have made up to $500,000,000 available to farmers this year on promises to take land out of surplus crops next year.

After trouncing the Eisenhower proposal of advance soil bank payments, the House then voted approval of an amendment by Representative Cooley (Dem.), North Carolina which would specifically authorize Benson to pay soil bank farmers in 1956 for complying with his soil bank agreements.

Cooley said under his plan farmers could plow up crops already planted this year to join the soil bank program.

"I am proposing to give them full payment this year—right now, not next January, or February, or March," Cooley said.

He said farmers could start getting their checks "in July and August and all the rest of this year."

Rayburn's Plea.

Rayburn called on the House to adopt the Cooley proposal to clarify the intent of Congress and make it clear that farmers can get soil bank payments this year for complying.

Cooley proposed it earlier, but withdrew it to permit a direct test of the Administration pre-payment plan. He reoffered it after the House voted down the pre-payment proposal.

(The United Press said the House also voted 168 to 152 to boost cotton price supports this year to 84 per cent of parity. The present price guarantee level is 82.5 per cent—the same as provided in the proposed farm bill.)

The Albert proposal, an unexpected entry in the farm bill fight, would direct the Secretary of Agriculture to pay livestock growers for putting a percentage of their grazing land into the soil bank. It would authorize payments of $50,000,000 for a four-year program.

Republican floor leaders opposed the proposal, attacking it as a device to "bail out" cattle growers. G.O.P. floor leader Halleck of Indiana warned it might "jeopardize" the bill.

Approval of the corn compromise was shouted through by voice vote on a series of four amendments by Representative Poage (Dem.), Texas.

TWO WHITE HOUSE AIDS MADE CALLS IN BEHALF OF CLIENTS, CHOTINER SAYS

Nixon Backer Testifying

—Associated Press Wirephoto.

MURRAY M. CHOTINER, Vice President Nixon's campaign manager, testifying today before Senate subcommittee which is investigating armed forces clothing contracts.

BUT HE DENIES HE EVER USED NIXON'S NAME IN SEEKING FAVORS

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP)—Murray Chotiner, 1952 campaign manager for Vice President Richard M. Nixon, testified today two White House officials made telephone calls for him on behalf of his law clients.

Chotiner emphatically denied, however, he ever used his connection with Nixon or any other Government officials to seek favors for persons he represented in dealing with Government agencies.

Chotiner told a Senate investigations subcommittee that "on one or two occasions" phone calls were made for him at the White House to get information about pending cases of his or to set up appointments with Government offiicals.

Names Two Officers.

He named the officials who made these calls as Maxwell M. Rabb, President Eisenhower's assistant in charge of minority problems, and Charles F. Willis Jr., former White House patronage aid in the Eisenhower Administration.

Neither Rabb nor Willis could be reached immediately for comment on the testimony. Rabb's office reported he was at lunch. Willis is now living in New York.

Chotiner was called in the subcommitte's investigation of alleged payoffs to Government officials by Atlantic City garment manufacturer Herman Kravitz and associates.

The Los Angeles attorney said he represented, solely as a lawyer, both Kravitz and Marco Reginelli, Philadelphia area garment industry figure.

Chotiner said the White House calls were not related "in any way whatsoever" with either of these clients.

'The Top Hoodlum.'

In bringing up Reginelli's name, subcommittee counsel Robert F. Kennedy described him as "the top hoodlum in the New Jersey-Philadelphia area." He added that Reginelli had been "involved in two or three murders, including one this year."

Kennedy said Reginelli is a part owner of a garment factory in New Jersey, which he did not identify. He said this company obtained a government contract of some kind before Reginelli's association with it was known.

Kennedy told the subcommittee Reginelli now is in a Baltimore hospital "in a delirious condition." He said he considers Reginelli a key figure in what he termed the subcommittee's effort to show that gangsters have got into the garment manufacturing field and obtained government contracts.

McCarthy Quoted.

(The United Press quoted Senator Joseph R. McCarthy (Rep.), Wisconsin, as saying Reginelli was "a notorious hoodlum" and that the subcommittee had information he was involved in pay-offs to or from Herman and Samuel Kravitz, blacklisted uniform makers who were also clients of Chotiner. Samuel Kravitz is Herman's father.)

Chotiner declined to say much about his legal work for Reginelli on the ground that to do so would violate privileged communications between attorney and client. He agreed to give some information behind closed doors.

McCarthy asked whether Chotiner knows of "any payoffs to or from Reginelli" in connection with Government contracts.

"None whatsoever," Chotiner replied, and added that he never had heard of any.

He said his work for Reginelli was some time between 1953 and 1955 — in connection with deportation action against Reginelli, and his citizenship troubles. The New Jersey State Supreme Court reportedly revoked Reginelli's citizenship last Jan. 4.

Chotiner refused to tell why he was retained as counsel for an A. W. Parzow, described by Kennedy as the "middle man" in some pay-off deal. Chotiner said the Parzow matter was "completely afield" from the subcommittee's inquiry.

Won't Say Who Paid Fee.

Chotiner said another man—a Pennsylvanian — paid him a fee in the Parzow matter. He declined to name the Pennsylvanian publicly but said he would give the name in closed session.

Later Parzow, of Miami Beach, Fla., was called to the

TUCKER WARNS OF POLITICS ON CHARTER BOARD

Says Election of Inadequate Freeholders Would Defeat Efforts for Efficient Rule.

Election of a politically-committed or inadequate board of freeholders next Tuesday will result in defeat of efforts to modernize the charter to provide more efficient and more economical city government, Mayor Raymond R. Tucker declared today.

In a talk at a luncheon meeting of the Women's Chamber of Commerce at De Soto Hotel, the Mayor said:

"If this occurs, I predict our city government will struggle for at least another 10 years under the present antiquated charter which not only permits, but in some cases, requires inefficiency.

"Our best assurance of a new modern charter which will meet the needs of a large city in 1956 and for many years to come, is a qualified, capable and representative group such as that being recommended by the St. Louis Citizens Charter Committee."

Pointing out that St. Louisans have approved a $110,639,000 bond issue to finance a huge public improvement program, Tucker declared the important question before the voters is whether the money is to be spent in an efficient manner, or by an "archaic" municipal government hampered by the inadequate 1914 charter.

'Issue Clearly Drawn.'

He said a new charter drafted by 13 competent freeholders, who are not committed to political organizations, will enable the city to spend the bond funds more efficiently and expeditiously. He pointed out that the city's professional engineering services are now scattered among four different municipal departments.

"The issue is clearly drawn in this campaign," the Mayor asserted. "Do we want the political organizations, or uncommitted citizens to write our new charter?

"If a politically-inspired charter is proposed by the board of freeholders, and it is adopted by a vote of the people, we may have a worse charter than we have today. Personally, I believe a politically-dictated charter will be defeated.

"If the people defeat the new charter because it is unacceptable, we will have to continue to operate our government with our present outmoded 1914 charter for many years to come."

Circuit Judge John K. Regan today ruled that both major political parties have the right

Sum Is $512,784,000 Less Than Asked For — Emphasis on Airpower, Weapons.

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP)—The House Appropriations Committee voted today to give the Defense Department $33,635,066,000 in new money.

This is $512,784,000 less than the total President Eisenhower asked for in his original budget last January and in a supplemental request last month for the fiscal year starting July 1. But more than half of the reduction was a bookkeeping saving which the committee said would not affect specific military programs.

The committee said it expects that the $276,319,000 involved in this cut will remain available in the form of foreign currency under mutual defense and occupation agreements.

The amount recommended is $1,741,832,374 more than Congress appropriated for the present year ending June 30.

The recommendations were contained in a bill which the House will consider next week. The Senate will act later.

Emphasis on Airpower.

"Barring unforeseen developments," the committee said, "the amount appropriated is generally adequate to fully implement our projected military requirements . . . and will enable the (Defense) department to give the country an increasingly strong and well-balanced force."

It said emphasis in the coming year will be on airpower and new weapons "being phased in at an increasing rate."

The new money, plus funds carried over from previous appropriations, would give the Defense Department $46,233,000,000 in the new fiscal year. It contemplates military strength of 2,865,200 in mid-1957, compared with 2,820,100 next June 30.

What Each Service Would Get.

Army—$7,497,582,000, a budget cut of $263,843,000 but $167,629,000 more than this year.

Navy—$9,999,534,000, a budget cut of $48,066,000 but an increase of $871,774,444 over this year.

Air Force—$15,479,125,000, a budget cut of $187,375,000 but an increase of $739,361,830 over this year.

The rest of the money in the bill was allotted to the office of the Secreatry of Defense and to interservice activities, none of which was cut deeply.

In addition to the actual cash cuts, the committee canceled the availability of about $320,-

Mail Man's Defense Strategy: Fight Dogs With Bigger Dog

SACRAMENTO, Calif., May 3 (AP) — The best protection against unfriendly dogs, reports Postmaster Kenneth R. Hammaker, is a bigger dog.

Hammaker said Sacramento postmen, victims in 96 biting cases last year, are trying the system.

"They make friends with the biggest dog in the neighborhood and get that pooch to go along on their routes," Hammaker said.

REFUGEES IN U.S. FROM HUNGARY CALLED VICTIMS OF TERRORISM

Exiled Lawmaker Accuses Legation Officials of Trying to Force Them to Return to Homeland.

WASHINGTON, May 3 (UP) —Bella Varga, exiled former Speaker of the Hungarian Parliament, today accused Hungarian legation officials of conducting a campaign of "terrorism" and "blackmail" to force Hungarian refugees back to their homeland.

Varga, a Roman Catholic canon who fled a Russian death sentence after World War II, made the charges before the Senate Internal Security subcommittee.

"I, herewith, formally accuse Charles Szarka, the Minister of the Hungarian Communist legation in Washington, and two members of his staff, Mr. Laszlo Hars, who meanwhile has left America, and Mr. Vince Csapala, second secretary of the legation, of having committed acts of terrorism in the United States against selected, innocent victims," he said.

"In circumvention of their obligation to the United States Government, they have been traveling in the United States, visiting their prospective victims, threatening, terrorizing and blackmailing them with reprisals against their families in case they refuse."

Varga testified as the subcommittee broadened its investigation into the "redefection" to Russia of five Russian sailors who had sought asylum in the United States. The subcommittee took new testimony designed to refute statements by that group since return to Russia.

Chief counsel Robert Morris made public copies of letters written early in March by the five sailors to Russian Ambassador Georgi Zarubin. The letters expressed a strong desire by the sailors to remain in the United States.

A statement issued in Moscow last week quoted the five seamen as saying that they were pressured to remain here. They said they were prevented from communicating with Russian diplomatic officials.

Varga said the intimidation campaign is controlled by Hungarian "secret police." He said they have in this country "a secret Communist organization reporting in detail on all Hungarian refugees who may be of any political importance or who could be used for propaganda purposes."

He testified that "shrewdly conceived letters" from family and friends have been sent to refugees by mail or by members of the diplomatic staff who "then use various enticements and threats to induce the refugees to return."

U.S. AND ALLIES AGREE ON PLAN ON ARMS, REICH

pervised disarmament. The French argument is that general disarmament would remove any possible Soviet fears of a rearmed and reunited Germany.

Mollet and Pineau recently dismayed their allies with criticism of western policies. They demanded that disarmament take precedence over German reunification. The stand shocked Bonn officials, and led to fears that the West might make agreements with the Russians which would leave Germany divided indefinitely. France now has brought its thinking into line with that of the rest of the West.

The French and Germans also discussed the Saar dispute and made what Pineau described as some progress in eliminating the differences which still exist. Pineau said French and German officials will meet here on May 15 and 16 in an attempt to reach agreement on points still at issue.

Shortly after he got here yesterday, Dulles was given a French plan calling for a new international agency to distribute economic aid to the world's needy. Dulles conferred for two hours with Pineau on the proposal, which, informants said, urges United States co-operation in forming an aid agency outside NATO.

FOUR-DAY WEEK IN 1961 PREDICTED FROM AUTOMATION

LINCOLN, Nebr. (INS) — A 32-hour work week and a three-day weekend will be the rule rather than the exception in America in 1961, according to Dr. David Wendt, former Science Education Director for UNESCO.

The noted author and nuclear scientist predicts the shorter work week will result from automation in the office and factory.

Wendt believes the increased amount of leisure will cause a new boom in recreation, with more Americans spending more money for sporting goods, automobiles and real estate.

"The age of materialism is about over," he adds, and the new interest in leisure activities will be creative.

The scientist also predicts that life expectancy in this country will be 80 years by 1968. Today's children, he adds, must be educated to live part of their lives in the Twenty-first Century."

Rocket 3 Miles High Misfires, Plunges to Ground, No One Hurt

—Associated Press Wirephoto.

Boiling smoke cloud shoots into the air a split second after the Navy's new Aerobee-Hi research rocket plunged to earth after misfiring at White Sands Proving Ground, N.M., yesterday.

Aerobee-Hi Had Been Expected to Reach 185-Mile Altitude—Valve Fails to Open.

WHITE SANDS PROVING GROUND, N.M., May 3 (AP)—The new Navy research rocket, the Aerobee-Hi, misfired on its first test yesterday and fell to the desert after rising about 18,000 feet. No one was injured and Navy scientists said they planned to go ahead with another test next week.

They believe a new altitude record of 185 miles for a single-stage rocket is possible with the Aerobee-Hi.

The rocket was started at a 142-foot tower and a booster mechanism, similar to a jet-assisted take-off, took it into the air. It had risen more than three miles when the main motor failed to fire and it fell to the ground about a mile from the tower. Project officers who examined the debris said an oxidizer valve, which permits flow of the rocket's fuel supply, was found closed. Whether it had jarred closed when the rocket hit the earth or whether the valve had failed to open was not immediately known but the belief was that it had failed to function.

Other Tests Scheduled.

The original shoot had been scheduled at dawn Tuesday but was postponed 36 hours because of a 100-mile-an-hour wind at high altitudes which might have forced the rocket out of the firing range boundaries, 30 by 120 miles. Three more tests are scheduled at White Sands and another one at Fort Churchill, along Hudson's Bay in Canada.

By the United Press.

Rocket experts said that the chemicals which mixed in the rocket motor and provide a 4000-pound thrust failed to get together.

The motor which had been expected to take the rocket up 185 miles at a speed of 4850 miles an hour is propelled by red fuming nitric acid and a mixture of analine and alcohol. Nearly half a ton of the fuming nitric acid is in one tank and the mixture of analine and alcohol in another. Valves are supposed to open automatically allowing the analine-alcohol mixture and nitric acid to flow together.

Spontaneous Burning.

These, then, burn spontaneously in the rocket's motor, furnishing the terrific thrust. When one valve failed to open, one chemical, probably the analine and alchol, flowed into the motor, but couldn't come in contact with the nitric acid.

But when the Aerobee-Hi hit the desert the acid and the other chemicals were suddenly mixed and exploded violently.

The exploding rocket tore a hole 15 feet across and 10 feet deep in the hard desert. The booster container buried itself except for a few inches.

Chief Gunner's mate A. D. Weaver, in charge of the project, said it looked to him as if an "oxidizer cut off" was responsible for the fizzle.

The oxidizer was the acid, Weaver explained, Weaver explained that the oxidizer can be cut off by remote control by missile flight safety personnel.

They track rockets continually by radar and if it appears that one is going off the proving grounds they cut off the oxidizer by radio, thus stopping the rocket motor.

2 ON RAIL RETIREMENT BOARD FAVOR INCREASED BENEFITS

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP) —Two of the three members of the Railroad Retirement Board yesterday supported bills to increase benefits for present and future retired railroad employes bq 15 per cent.

Raymond J. Kelly, chairman of the board, and Horace W. Harper, labor member testified at a hearing of a Senate Labor subcommittee.

Kelly said the proposed 2 per cent increase in payroll taxes, half to be paid by the rail lines and half by the employes, would mean that the solvency of the retirement system would not be "seriously" threatened by the increases in benefits.

At present the railroads and employes each pay 6¼ per cent of salaries into the system. The bills would boost it to 7¼ per cent each.

ARMY GIVEN RESPONSIBILITY OF TRAFFIC MANAGEMENT

WASHINGTON, May 3 (UP) —Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson yesterday gave the Army responsibility for arranging commercial passenger and freight transportation for all the armed forces.

The Army will set up a military traffic management agency to handle rail, highway, air, inland waterway, coast-wise and intercoastal transportation used by the armed services. Military Sea Transport Service and Military Air Transport Service will not come under jurisdiction of the new Army setup.

The Hoover Commission had proposed that traffic management be consolidated in Wilson's office but Wilson placed it under the Army.

FORMER U.S. OFFICIAL DIES

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP) —Jack Garrett Scott, Under Secretary of Commerce for Transportation from 1950 to 1953, died yesterday at his home in suburban Georgetown. He was 60 years old.

Mr. Scott came to Washington in 1933 as a lawyer in the National Recovery Administration. He also served as chief attorney for the bureau of motor carriers in the Interstate Commerce Commission from 1935-42, and as general counsel for the wartime Office of Defense Transportation until 1944.

COURT UPSETS NLRB ON SHARING VIOLENCE BLAME

Can't Penalize Peaceful Pickets for Misconduct of Other Strikers, Panel Rules.

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP) —The United States Court of Appeals held today that the National Labor Relations Board cannot penalize strikers who picket peacefully, for the misconduct of others.

The unanimous decision written by Judge David L. Bazelon, struck down an NLRB ruling that peaceable pickets share responsibility if they do not repudiate violence by others.

The court quoted and agreed with an earlier finding by the board itself to the effect its authority to deny reinstatement extends only to strikers "who authorized or participated in the wrongful conduct and their aiders and abettors."

The labor board's decision grew out of a strike incident to the 1950 campaign of the AFL International Ladies' Garment Workers Union, to organize women employes at the Pascagoula (Miss.) plant of the B.V.D. Co. In connection with the campaign, 46 employes were discharged or denied reinstatement.

The board found the company committed unfair labor practices when it dismissed, and refused to reinstate, certain employes for their union activities. It found also the company interfered with the employes' organizational activities by threats of reprisal.

The court said these findings were supported by substantial evidence and it did not disturb them.

An NLRB examiner recommended reinstatement, with back pay, of 37 of the 46 employes who, the board found, were discriminatorially discharged or denied reinstatement by the company. But the board, by a 3-2 vote, withheld reinstatement because of incidents in the strike, involving various degrees of misconduct.

Judge Bazelon said none of the name-calling and threats engaged in by pickets involved any of the employes "whose rights are at issue in the case before the court."

NATIONALIST, RED CHINESE EXCHANGE FIRE AT QUEMOY

TAIPEI, Formosa, May 3 (AP) —Chinese Communist forces in Amoy fired 42 shells in 20 minutes today at the Nationalist-held offshore island of Quemoy. Announcing the shelling, the Nationalist Defense Ministry made no mention of casualties.

TOKYO, May 3 (UP)—Four Nationalist Chinese warplanes and artillery guns on Big and Little Quemoy islands attacked Fukien coastal areas Tuesday, Peiping radio said today.

The areas are across the Formosa straits from the Nationalist island of Formosa. The Nationalist planes were "driven off" by Communist Chinese anti-aircraft fire, the broadcast said.

WOMAN TELLER THWARTS ATTEMPTED BANK ROBBERY

HOUSTON, Tex., May 3 (AP) — A woman teller dropped to the floor and foiled the attempt of another woman to rob the downtown Bank of the Southwest yesterday.

The teller, Mrs. Elton Morris, said the woman handed her a note demanding $7000 and stating that the latter's husband, carrying a pistol, was standing in the lobby.

After dropping to the floor, Mrs. Morris handed the note to another teller who spread the alarm.

33 DEAD AFTER SECOND DAY OF MOROCCO RIOTING

Houses in Marrakech Set Afire — Most of Victims Were El Glaoui Followers.

MARRAKECH, Morocco, May 3 (AP)—Rioters armed with guns, knives and torches raged through this region again today. The number of killed climbed to 33 in two days. A score of houses were set afire.

Most of the victims were Moroccan followers, friends or relatives of the late Thami El Glaoui, pro-French Pasha (Governor) of Marrakech and leader of southern Morocco's Berber tribesmen.

In Rabat, Sultan Mohammed Ben Youssef called a special night Cabinet meeting on the outbreak. The Interior Minister, Vice Premier and director of police were sent here to investigate.

French troops from Rabat and smaller cities were posted around the Medina (native quarter) of Marrakech. Firemen sped to the quarter, and local police were ordered to shoot looters.

But the pillage and massacre went on. Just what set off the attacks was not clear.

El Glaoui died in his Moorish palace here Jan. 23 after an operation for cancer of the stomach. He was 78 years old and had had a long and turbulent career.

Long a staunch supporter of French rule, El Glaoui won the hatred of Moroccan nationalists when he took the key role in the exiling of Ben Youssef. He switched to support of the Sultan after nationalist violence forced the French to bring him back.

The wave of killing, apparently well organized, flared up about noon yesterday. Bands of Moroccans, armed with submachine guns, clubs or knives, swept into the sprawling native quarter in the eastern part of the city of 250,000. They also ranged through the European quarter and in the suburbs, but the city's 15,000 European residents were not molested.

The killers burst into homes of El Glaoui's friends and associates—some of them palatial mansions at the edge of the city—and dragged the old Pasha's allies into the streets. There they were shot or cut up with hatchets, sprinkled with gasoline and burned while crowds looked on.

Among the victims was Ben Mekki, former right-hand man of Glaoui. He was hauled into a street in the Medina and shot. His body was mutilated and tossed on a garbage heap where gasoline was poured over it. Thousands of Moroccans crowded into the area as the body was burned.

Local police apparently were powerless, or made little effort, to halt the attacks. During the night the Moroccan governor of Marrakech called out a native troop unit stationed 30 miles from the city. The troops were expected to be reinforced by mobile gendarme units.

Officials tended to minimize the suggestion that the riots were politically motivated, but no motive other than political revenge was immediately apparent.

France recently recognized the independence of its former Moroccan protectorate and only last week control of city police was put under the new Moroccan administration. Months of nationalist fighting against the French had died down since the Sultan won recognition of independence.

U.S. Communist Party Meets Policy Crisis With Self-Criticism

Concludes Views of Anti-Stalinists Jibe With Those Held by American Reds All Along.

NEW YORK, May 3 (AP)—The American Communist party, faced with an ideological crisis since the recent denunciation of Joseph Stalin, said yesterday its leaders had concluded a four-day meeting described as the "most self-critical in the party's history."

An announcement from the party said Eugene Dennis, general secretary of the American Communist party, had emphasized the party's "shortcomings and mistaken estimates" over the past 10 years during the conclave which ended yesterday.

The announcement said about 50 party leaders attended the meeting of the party's national committee and unanimously adopted Dennis's critical report "after a vigorous three-day debate."

The meeting apparently was the first get-together of American Communist leaders since Nikita Khrushchev denounced the "cult of the individual"—worship of Stalin—at the recent twentieth congress of the Communist party of the Soviet Union.

In recent weeks, writers in the Communist Daily Worker have expressed puzzlement and admitted past errors in following the Stalin line too closely.

Errors said to have been listed by Dennis were "mistaken estimates on the imminence of war, . . . tendency to underestimate the deep democratic traditions among the people and their willingness to defend the Bill of Rights, (and) . . . an overestimation of the imminence of a deep cyclical economic crisis.."

The announcement quoted Dennis as saying "wrong tactical conclusions had frequently followed" from these mistaken estimates.

The party announcement said Dennis mentioned "startled press comments" on Khrushchev's anti-Stalin speech and added "Dennis pointed out that the idea of a peaceful transition to Socialism had been developed in the American Communist movement years ago."

The announcement quoted Dennis as saying:

"As world experience has shown, and as the twentieth congress analyzed, there are many paths to Socialism, and each country will find its own path depending on its own traditions, the conditions of its struggle for progress, and the desire of the vast majority of its people . . .

"As for the United States, we American Communists reaffirm that we do not advocate force and violence. We do not consider civil war inevitable nor in any way desirable. We desire and seek constitutional and democratic solutions to current and fundamental problems."

Dennis last year completed a five-year prison sentence under a Smith Act conviction for teaching and advocating overthrow of the United States Government by force and violence.

CHEMIST TO RECEIVE MEDAL

NEW YORK, May 3 (AP) — Prof. Melvin Calvin of the University of California yesterday was named the 1956 winner of the Theodore Williams Richards medal, one of the highest awards in American chemistry. Calvin's field is photosynthesis, the process by which green plants build their tissues from air, water and sunlight.

ARMY WIVES SHOW GERMAN WOMEN U.S.-STYLE HOMES

HEIDELBERG, Germany, May 3 (AP)—A group of American Army wives went all out today to prove to German women that in the United States you can put on costmetics, dress well and still make your husband a comfortable home.

Nearly 150 members of the Heidelberg American Women's Club set up a "typical" stateside living room, dining room and kitchen at the Wuertemberg-Baden state fair here. German women jammed the stand to see the display.

"It just fascinates them," said Mrs. Gilbert D. Suesskind, Newark, N.J., pointing to the refrigerator, oven, dishwasher, mixer, garbage disposal unit and freezer.

"One thing they don't seem to go in for here is the freezer," said Mrs. Jerry Kruschke of Baldwin, N.Y. "These people cannot understand why we have to store up so much food. They prefer their daily shopping tours."

Some Army women were turning out buns, cookies and small cakes. They handed out samples of American cooking to the Germans.

HIKE IN REDISCOUNT RATES QUESTIONED BY MITCHELL

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP) —Secretary of Labor Mitchell said today he saw no danger of inflation and questions the need of the recent Federal Reserve Board action increasing borrowing rates.

Mitchell expressed confidence in the capacity of the economy to continue absorbing higher wage rates for workers. He said pay rates increased about 25 cents an hour on the average in the past three years without affecting the living cost level.

The Labor Secretary indicated some concern, however, about the possibility of wage and price increases in the steel industry as a result of new labor contract negotiations soon to begin.

Mitchell said he is no expert economist but feels the board's recent increase in rediscount rates, tending to tighten credit as an anti-inflation move, "may not have been necessary."

NEW PRESERVATION METHOD

DAVIS, Calif. (UP)—A new process for dehydrating peaches and apricots is being studied in the food research laboratories on the University of California campus here.

The process—freeze-drying—removes more water from the fruit than do commercial methods and lengthens storage life, according to authorities here.

COUNTY COUNCIL APPROVES BIDS ON BUILDING FOR HOSPITAL STAFF

Contracts of $488,000 for 18-Apartment Structure Awarded—Project in 1954 Bond Issue.

Four bids totaling $488,817 for construction of a medical staff apartment building on the grounds of the St. Louis County Hospital were accepted yesterday by the County Council.

The three-story brick structure will contain 18 apartments for interns and resident physicians. It was a 1954 bond issue project.

G. L. Cousins Contracting Co. was awarded the general construction contract on its low bid of $347,050. Plumbing will be done by E. J. Fischer on a bid of $45,055; heating and ventilating by Schure-Richardson, Inc., $70,348, and the electrical work by Burgdorfer Electric Co., $26,364.

The total of the four bids exceeded the estimated cost by $78,817 as a result of a continued increase in construction costs, the addition of fire escapes to comply with the Clayton building code and addition of a project to integrate the building's utilities with those at the present nurses' home.

Two bids on each of two additional projects — installation of lighting standards on a road and parking lot on the hospital grounds and construction of emergency electrical facilities at the hospital—were referred to Dr. Curtis H. Lohr, hospital commissioner, for study. Gamp Electric Co. appeared to be the low bidder on each project with a total of $20,270.

A resolution calling for the employment of a firm of consulting engineers to co-ordinate all road, bridge and expressway projects planned under the 1955 bond issue was passed. Such a step had been recommend by the Citizens Bond Issue Public Works Advisory (Watchdog) Committee because the county highway engineer's department lacked sufficient personnel and funds to do the job. The resolution directed the highway engineer to suggest a firm, subject to approval by the committee.

Road, Bridge Projects.

Also passed was a motion approving another recommendation of the Watchdog Committee to employ a number of engineering and surveying firms to prepare plans and specifications for 15 road and seven bridge projects under the bond issue. The firms had been recommended previously by the highway engineer.

A report recommending enactment of a minimum housing standards ordinance for the county was laid over for discussion next week.

County Supervisor Luman F. Matthews was authorized in a resolution passed by the Council to enter into a contract with the Social Planning Council for a study to determine the need for and type of facilities required for detention of delinquent or neglected children. Not to exceed $10,000, the cost of the survey will come from a 1955 bond issue proposition of $800,000 for construction of a children's welfare center and detention home.

V. J. Wind Turned Down.

Matthews's nomination of Vernon J. Wind, vice president and cashier of the Lemay Bank & Trust Co., to fill the vacancy on the county board of police commissioners left by the death of Walter L. Metcalfe was rejected by the Council.

Councilman L. Gordon Davis (Rep.), Seventh District, had asked that the vote on Wind be delayed until he could study Wind's qualifications. Chairman Harold D. Carey, who had proposed Wind's name to Matthews, declined to delay the vote.

When it was taken, Davis was joined in opposition to the appointment by Councilman Thomas C. Dunne (Dem.), First District, while Councilman Frank L. Martini (Rep.), Fifth District, sided with Carey. With Councilmen Maurice M. Abramson and James H. J. McNary, both Democrats, abstaining, the motion to approve lost. Councilman James A. Singer (Rep.), Fourth District, was absent.

Dunne said he voted against Wind because he believed the 40-year-old Affton resident too young and inexperienced for the post. Carey said he planned to bring Wind's name up for consideration again at next week's meeting. However, County Counselor Herbert C. Funke said there was a serious question whether this could be done. He said he would examine the charter and rules of the Council before passing on the question.

Housing Authority Jobs.

Appointment of two members to the County Housing Authority to fill vacancies left by recent resignations was approved by the council, but a third appointment was held up.

Those approved were Francis Barnes, 7331 Northmoor drive, University City, an attorney, and George Meier, 21 Old Westbury lane, Webster Groves, operator of a wholesale grocery and investment firm. Barnes, succeeding Paul Krueger, would serve until next Dec. 28, while Meier would complete the term of C. R. Warmbrodt which expires Oct. 1, 1959.

The Council delayed action on the appointment of Theodore Kienstra, 17 Royal avenue, Ferguson, at the request of Dunne who told the Post-Dispatch he understood Kienstra did not want the post but wished to discuss the matter with Matthews. He would succeed Walter Deem.

Appointment of seven persons proposed by Matthews to serve as a board of review for juvenile readers under an ordinance recently enacted that prohibits distribution or sale of obscene or crime-inciting publications to minors was approved by the Council. The members are the Rev. O. Walter Wagner, Msgr. Peter Dooley, Rabbi Samuel Thurman, John Kirk Jr., Joseph Holland, Dr. Pearl Ulett and Stewart W. Smith.

Cost of paving certain unimproved streets in Meacham Park, a predominantly Negro community south of Kirkwood, was put at $360,000 in a report submitted to the Council by County Highway Engineer Fred H. Kiburz. The report, which had been requested by the Council, said it would cost another $4000 to improve drainage facilities on presently maintained streets. No action was taken on the report.

An ordinance was passed conferring legal status on the Metropolitan St. Louis Youth Commission which had been appointed last August by Matthews and Mayor Raymond R. Tucker of St. Louis to develop a program for the prevention of juvenile delinquency. Similar action is expected soon by the St. Louis Board of Aldermen.

Maternal Matter

—By a Post-Dispatch Photographer.

PIGEON PICKS OUT MATERNITY WARD TO HATCH EGGS

Today one of her two eggs hatched with student nurses and interns standing by.

The proper pigeon first built its nest on the window ledge, near the nursery, about a month ago. Maintenance men, who have no love for pigeons, brushed the nest away.

Undaunted, the pigeon built a new one in exactly the same spot and laid two eggs. Maintenance men were asked to "lay off." Patients liked to watch its antics and it became a "conversation piece" in maternity. Now there's a contest on to name the mother and her babies.

TRAVELING FAMILY REUNITED AFTER IT GETS SPLIT HERE

A two-vehicle caravan from California became separated near St. Louis today, with the parents of a 7-month-old boy leading the way in a truck and the baby in an automobile with an uncle trying to bring up the rear.

With the help of St. Louis police they joined forces again this afternoon at Highland, Ill., 32 miles east of St. Louis. They are on their way to Buffalo, N.Y.

When the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Bijak, of Whittier, Calif., got to Highland they decided they had better try to find out what had happened to the other machine. A motel owner suggested that the St. Louis police might know by then, and they did. The baby was at headquarters, enjoying a bottle of milk.

The uncle, Ted Dasykiewicz, had asked a St. Louis traffic officer for help, saying he had lost sight of the Bijak truck about five miles out of the city on Highway 66. He was low on cash and getting low on gasoline, and did not want to risk further pursuit across Illinois. Police then radioed a description of the truck to Illinois State Police and waited. The call came in about four hours.

ROBBERS PAY SECOND VISIT

DETROIT (UP)—Anton Ahee, a grocer, thought there was something familiar about two men who walked into his store but he didn't realize who they were until one announced they were the robbers who had robbed him two weeks earlier. "We're sorry, but we're broke again," one said. They made Ahee put $145 in a paper bag and fled.

FARM EQUIPMENT SLUMP GREATEST IN THE MIDWEST

Sales Stronger in Far West, Deep South — Decline in Income Is Chief Villain.

That plaint was sounded last week by a Colorado dealer who had watched his sales shrink to the vanishing point.

His comment was somewhat extreme, for farmers are far from broke. Their income has dropped, however, by a well-publicized 26 per cent in the last five years. Nobody knows it better than farm equipment makers and dealers.

A New York Times survey of manufacturers and retailers discloses that their business held up well until the first of this year. But now, even though spring planting is well under way, sales are skidding. The retail dip is as great as 80 per cent in some cases, though the average is probably closer to 20 per cent.

There are variations in the pattern. Farm equipment volume has slumped most in the Midwest farm states. Sales have been stronger in the Far West and Deep South.

Weather Big Factor.

As with new-car business, the weather has been a big factor this spring. Drouth has hit large parts of Nebraska and Iowa. Dust storms have plagued northern Texas and parts of Kansas and Oklahoma. Uncertainty over the farm legislation to come from Congress has deterred farmers from planning and buying. But again and again, the decline in farm income is cited as the chief villain.

Typical is the remark of Charles Trethaway, assistant sales manager of the Great Lake Tractor & Equipment Co. in Birmingham, Mich. Reporting retail sales of farm equipment down 50 per cent in his area, Trethaway adds: "Future prospects are not good. The farmer is reluctant to spend his money. If he can get a super-super deal he may loosen up, but he's just not looking for equipment."

Orland V. Mannke, Allis-Chalmers dealer in Omaha, says his business for the year up to April 15 nosedived 80 per cent below the year-ago level. "The reason," he comments, "is 80 per cent drouth and 20 per cent the decline in farm prices."

Bud Parker, a J.I. Case dealer in the same area, is contending with a 50 per cent drop in sales. He believes farmers have simply quit buying, waiting for a break in the weather. Leroy F. Barry, managing director of the Midwest Retail Farm Equipment Association, agrees. "Without rain," he says, "the outlook is terrible."

UNION LEADER IS CONVICTED IN CONTEMPT CASE

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP)—A federal judge today convicted union leader John T. Gojack of contempt of Congress for refusing to answer questions before a House committee.

Gojack is the general vice president of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers Union and president of its District 9 (Indiana and Michigan). United States District Judge David A. Pine, who heard the case without a jury, found Gojack guilty on six counts of a nine-count indictment.

The judge found him not guilty on two counts and dismissed the ninth count at the request of Government attorney William Hitz.

Judge Pine delayed sentencing Gojack pending a report from a federal probation officer. The maximum sentence is one year in prison and $1000 fine.

Defense Council William Donner said the case "will be appealed all the way to the Supreme Court if necessary."

Gojack was indicted for refusing to answer some questions before a House subcommittee on un-American activities Feb. 28 and March 1, 1955. He pleaded the First, or "free speech," amendment in his refusals.

One of the counts on which Gojack was found guilty involved his refusal to say whether he was, at that time, a member of the Communist party.

Gojack protested to the subcommittee that he had a non-Communist affidavit on file under the Taft-Hartley law and that "speaks for itself." The subcommittee refused to accept this answer.

The other counts on which Gojack was convicted were based on his refusal to say whether he:

1. Was acquainted with an Indiana Communist party leader.

2. Knew the UE's Washington representative, Russell Nixon, to be a Communist.

3. Took part in an American Peace Crusade pilgrimage to Washington, and what method was used to enlist him as an "original sponsor" of that crusade. Gojack was informed at the time that the peace crusade was a Communist front activity.

Judge Pine found Gojack innocent of contempt in refusing to say whether he had been a Communist party member in 1948 and in refusing to say whether he was acquainted with Henry Aron, identified as secretary of the Indiana Communist party.

Judge Pine said the record shows that the subcommittee had not directed Gojack to answer these questions.

The judge rejected defense arguments that the subcommittee lacked a legislative purpose in investigating Gojack but was conducting the inquiry only for the purpose of exposing him in an effort to break his union.

Sons Bid Each Other to Record Price for Land Left by Father

Two sons of the late Chris Bischoff today still owned the 215 acres of Madison county farmland their father worked so many years to acquire, but they had to pay a record price for it in outbidding rivals and each other at an unusual public sale.

A price averaging $614 an acre for the land, which is good land for raising the profitable horseradish crop, was paid by the brothers, Herbert and Udell Bischoff, Granite City farmers. Rival bidders went as high as $600 for a few of the choice acres but they dropped out when the brothers, bidding against each other, offered more than $700 an acre for 101 acres.

Herbert Bischoff of Rural Route 1, paid $57,600 for 80 acres, an average of $720 an acre. Herbert also acquired the remaining 114 acres for $58,500, or $513 an acre.

The late Chris Bischoff settled in the Sand Prairie area of Nameoki Township, east of Granite City, many years ago. Parcel by parcel, he purchased the acres of rich, sandy loam around him until at his death in 1952 he owned the 215 acres. When his wife died in 1954 the land was left to four sons and one daughter.

Herbert and Udell, both anxious to farm the parental acreage, bought out the interests of the others, until each brother owned a half interest. They were unable to agree, however, on an equitable division of the land.

The problem was presented to the Madison county probate court, which ordered a public sale. The sale, supervised by Master in Chancery Harry W. Patton of Alton, was held last Friday on the Bischoff farm.

Had there been little interest in the land, it could have been purchased for $375 an acre, which is two-thirds of the appraisal price. But the price quickly mounted as bidding became spirited.

Sold Deed by Deed.

The parcels of land were sold in the order the elder Bischoff acquired them, deed by deed. Eyebrows of some of the 35 spectators at the sale rose when the bidding went beyond $600 for the first 80 acres. But Herbert and Udell Bischoff, both determined to own it, kept bidding until Herbert's bid reached $720.

Some veteran horseradish growers expressed the opinion they could not realize a profit from horseradish if they had to pay more than $500 an acre for land. The farmland is in an area not suitable for subdividing at this time.

But the brothers were apparently satisfied. Herbert Bischoff, recently elected to the Granite City School Board, now owns most of his father's land and both will share equally in the proceeds of the sale after taxes and court costs. Final settlement of the estate will be made tomorrow at Edwardsville.

JEWISH CENTERS RECOGNIZE UNION, STRIKE IS AVERTED

A strike of about 50 employes of the Jewish Community Centers Association was averted yesterday when the association's board of directors agreed to recognize a union representing the employes.

In a joint statement, Milton Greenfield Jr., president of the association's board of directors, and Clarence Lipschutz, president of the union, said negotiations will now begin for a contract. It was anticipated the contract would be signed in 60 days.

Included in the agreement is a monthly checkoff of dues of union members. Discussions of the demand for recognition by the union, Local 1250 of the Government and Civic Employes Union, have been carried on for 14 months. The J.C.C.A. agencies include the Y.M.-Y.W.H.A., Council House, Camp Hawthorn, County Branch and Golden Age Program, all members of the United Fund.

WAITRESS SEIZED WITH BET TABS IN GAMING RAID

Members of the police gambling squad raided the Regal Sandwich Shop, 5001 Delmar boulevard, today and arrested a waitress whose apron pockets contained tabs listing about 40 bets on horse races, police reported.

The waitress, booked as Miss Hattie Bombardieri, 43 years old, admitted, the officers said, that she had been handling bets for six months. Under surveillance for several days, she was arrested when placing bets by telephone to a man she said she knows only as "John." In addition to the betting notations, she also had $93 which she said was to be paid to successful bettors of yesterday.

Miss Bombardieri, who gave an address in the 4700 block of Washington boulevard, was booked suspected of setting up and keeping a gaming house.

PLAZA CHURCHES AGREE TO PLAN ON USE OF LAND

They Accept Formula Limiting Buildings to 40 Pct. of Area of Lots.

The two churches in the Plaza redevelopment area have reached an agreement with the Land Clearance for Redevelopment Authority on use of property being acquired for church improvements, it was announced today.

The plan for redevelopment of five and one-half blocks with a private housing project requires that buildings cover no more than 40 per cent of the net land area, the remaining 60 per cent to be landscaped. The churches have agreed to conform to this 40-60 formula in developing the property they are acquiring.

The Catholic Basilica of St. John at Sixteenth and Chestnut streets has agreed to pay $105,000 for a tract of 30,726 square feet on the north side of the church, plus a section of Sixteenth street which is to be vacated. Centenary Methodist Church at Sixteenth and Pine will pay $100,000 for 26,743 square foot fronting on Olive street.

If the church tracts are utilized solely for parking lots, automobiles will use only 40 per cent of the ground, it was agreed. If underground parking is developed, the entire area could be used for this purpose, but the roof would have to be landscaped. Should the churches build on their property, any structure taller than two stories would be limited to land coverage of 25 per cent.

The Basilica may build a new parish house, and a Methodist district administration center ultimately may be erected beside the Centenary Church.

The agreement with the churches will be submitted to the Federal Urban Renewal Administration for approval. Meanwhile, the Land Clearance Authority is soliciting bids for the site of the housing project. Approximately 1000 air-conditioned apartments for middle-income tenants are to be erected with private capital. Bids are to be opened May 29.

SPEAKER URGES NEW U.S. FOREIGN ECONOMIC POLICY

The foreign economic policy of the United States needs to be re-evaluated and when a new policy is developed, it must be based on knowledge that other countries are becoming self-sufficient, John G. McDermot of Monsanto Chemical Co. said here last night.

Speaking at the last in a series of eight weekly sessions of a foreign trade school for junior executives, McDermot said that in order to protect long-established foreign markets, American companies must invest capital in foreign countries and see that an increased flow of technical know-how reaches those countries.

ERA OF PROGRESS IN ST. LOUIS HAILED

Powell B. McHaney Tells New Jersey Group of Advances.

St. Louis offers proof that older cities, far from being "played out," can experience eras of progress never seen even in the booming days of their youth, Powell B. McHaney, one of the leaders of Civic Progress, Inc., declared today in a talk to the Civic Clubs Council of Newark, N.J.

Economic redevelopment in St. Louis began with public rehabilitation, he said, citing stabilization of municipal finances through the earnings tax, bond issues for public improvements and enlistment of big business in support of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra.

"This first phase is now completed," he said, "and Civic Progress is turning to other fields—to such matters as an economic survey to determine what business advantages St. Louis really possesses, the encouragement of new business, investment of private capital in new buildings downtown and support of promotional activities like the Mid-America Jubilee.

"Meanwhile, private capital has poured into St. Louis in an encouraging fashion. Last year, industrial and commercial development in our metropolitan area amounted to over $225,000,000. St. Louis business men have finally started believing in St. Louis and are talking it up, doing their individual best to keep on improving their city."

McHaney, who is president of General American Life Insurance Co., reviewed the activities of Civic Progress, the organization of 21 leading business men, and showed how it has worked with other organizations for redevelopment of St. Louis.

MAN FOUND SHOT TO DEATH

Frank R. Pickering, a tavern owner, was found shot to death yesterday in the bedroom of his home at 1207 Chambers road, Bellefontaine Neighbors. He was shot in the chest and a .45 caliber revolver was by his side.

Police said Pickering, 50 years old, had left a note on a dresser indicating he was despondent. He had been under a physician's care for a nervous condition.

U.N. SECRETARY REPORTS TRUCE BY ISRAEL, ARABS

with the armistice agreements between Israel and the four Arab states.)

"I have considered it appropriate to give the aim of the resolution and interpretation according to which I should not merely survey and report on the state of compliance which existed at the time of my arrival in the region, but also try to get the parties to re-establish compliance to the greatest extent possible."

Hammarskjold said that he considered the resolution a mandate to negotiate for re-establishment of compliance with the agreements.

"I have considered the basic clauses of the general armistice agreements to be those which established a general cease-fire," Hammarskjold said.

"It has, to me, been obvious that no measures for establishing full compliance with procedural or substantive clauses of the general armistice agreements would be fruitful and lasting unless firmly anchored in a reaffirmation of the duty of all parties concerned to observe a cease-fire.

"You have already circulated documents indicating that, at an early stage, I received such assurances from the governments of Egypt and Israel. These reciprocal assurances served to relieve the threatening situation in the Gaza area where conditions have since considerably improved as a result of strict orders issued by the two governments. I have already informed you that I received notification that such orders were in force as of 6 p.m. 18 April, 1956, and from that time on.

"Negotiations for similar reciprocal assurances unconditionally to observe a cease-fire with a reservation as to self-defense have been conducted with the parties to the other three armistice agreements. The negotiations have in all cases been concluded with positive result. The texts of the messages exchanged will be annexed to my final report."

Gives Background.

In addition to giving the background of the Security Council resolution which sent him on his mission, Hammarskjold said that the task had been such he was not able fully to observe the time limit. He said the need first of all had been to try "to stop the dangerous developments which dominated the situation in the region on my arrival."

Diplomats here said they believed he had successfully lowered tension in the area.

The Security Council is not presently in session. It is expected to meet about May 10, after Hammarskjold's return to the United States.

Meanwhile, the Secretary General, near the end of his peace mission, had a final meeting with Israeli officials in Premier Ben-Gurion's office in Jerusalem this morning.

Then Hammarskjold flew to Cairo on the last stop of his current tour. A spokesman said the Secretary General expects to have a final talk tonight with Premier Nasser, then leave at midnight for Rome on his way back to New York.

Tentative Pledges.

A squabble over water rights on the Jordan had threatened his mission, but he received tentative pledges from Syria, Jordan and Lebanon several days ago to help stop the border shooting. That was a prelude to the agreements announced today.

Prior to today's meeting in Jerusalem, a high Israeli official denied a published report that Israel had promised not to resume work on the Jordan river diversion in order to obtain Syrian consent to a cease-fire.

The cease-fire agreement has to be unconditional with Syria in the same way as it is unconditional with Egypt, he said.

It was understood this question did not come up at today's Jerusalem meeting.

However, it was reported Israel earlier had informed Hammarskjold Israel feels authorized to restart work in the demilitarized part of the Jordan valley "at any time she deems appropriate."

A 1953 Security Council resolution called on Israel to suspend work — pending an "urgent" Council examination — on the project to divert waters of the river Jordan for power and irrigation.

Although Israel has not moved to resume the Jordan river project, it has threatened to go ahead unless the Arab states stop opposing a United States-sponsored plan for sharing the Jordan's waters. The Security Council has taken no hand in the dispute since a Russian veto in January 1954 killed a Western resolution calling on the U. N. Palestine truce chief to work out a solution.

Israeli Announcement.

An Israeli Foreign Ministry announcement on today's conference said:

"Talks between the government of Israel and the Secretary General of the U.N. were concluded this morning at the Prime Minister's office in Jerusalem. They covered all aspects of all the four armistice agreeemnts (between Israel and Egypt, Syria, Lebanon and Jordan) and were conducted throughout in a spirit of understanding.

"Details and results of the conversations, as of the Secretary General's conversations with the other four governments concerned, will be published in the Secretary General's report to the Security Council. . . . Meantime it can be said that positive results have been achieved."

In addition to their renewed cease-fire agreement, Israel and Egypt agreed to the establishment of U.N. observation posts and mobile patrols along the Egyptian-held Gaza strip, scene of the most serious recent Arab-Israeli outbreaks, and to an expansion of the U.N. observer force in the troubled area.

Diplomatic sources at U.N. headquarters said that, in view of the apparent success Hammarskjold has attained, he may be asked to undertake a second Middle East mission.

More Binding Accord.

These informants said some Security Council members feel that cease-fire pledges make a fine start but that they can be broken by accident or design. They reportedly believe Hammarskjold should try to work out more binding agreements between Israel and its Arab neighbors.

The cease-fire agreements arranged by Hammarskjold are the first such general agreements since the 1949 armistice ended fighting in the area.

Soon after the Arab-Israeli conflict started in 1948, a truce was arranged by the Security Council on May 29. Fighting flared again, and a second truce was arranged by the Council on July 15, 1948. This truce held until Israel signed armistice agreements in 1949. The armistice was signed with Egypt Feb. 24, Lebanon March 23, Jordan April 3 and Syria July 20.

Since that time there have been many local cease-fire agreements necessitated by shooting and raids along the borders. But there had been no general reaffirmation of the cease-fire established in the armistice agreements until the present arrangements effected by Hammarskjold.

Israel, meanwhile, released a Dutch-owned, Egyptian-chartered Dakota plane forced down by Israeli airmen at Lydda airport near Tel Aviv Monday.

The Israelis also released the five-man Dutch crew, but their departure was held up. The Israelis said Egypt refused to let the Dakota re-enter Egyptian territory without the Egyptian cameraman who had been aboard. The Egyptians said Dutch officials had ordered the craft to stay at Lydda, contending it had been detained unjustifiably.

CHOTINER DENIES HE EVER USED NIXON'S NAME

stand and invoked the Fifth Amendment when asked whether he was "the pay-off" for Herman Kravitz.

Parzow drew threats of a contempt of Congress citation when he refused to say whether he had testified before the subcommittee behind closed doors Saturday, although his lawyer, Bernard L. Lemisch of Philadelphia, said that Parzow had. Lemisch acknowledged he was present at the time.

Altogether, Parzow invoked the Fifth Amendment 47 times in his first 25 minutes in the witness chair.

Chotiner was questioned only briefly about the White House calls.

"There were occasions," Chotiner said, "when I was representing clients, that I interviewed or saw somebody at the White House."

He said that "on one or two occasions" some White House official called a Government agency for him.

On "one or two occasions," Chotiner went on, such a call was made to determine the status of a case in which he was intersted. And he said "I think that one occasion an appointment was made for me" with the federal agency concerned.

Then, under questioning, he named those who made the calls as Rabb and Willis.

Chotiner testified he was so careful to avoid exploiting his connection with Nixon that he sometimes walked down the hall and used a public phone when he was visiting Nixon and had to make calls in connection with his private law business.

"At no time," he told chairman John L. McClellan (Dem.), Arkansas, "have I ever used the name of the Vice President in connection with the name of any client."

McClellan said he asked Chotiner about this matter "with all deference to the Vice President" for whom, the Senator said, he has "a high regard." Nixon once was a member of the committee now headed by McClellan.

McCarthy asked Chotiner, "in your contacts with the Justice Department or other government agencies, did you ever use the name of Dick Nixon?"

"Never," Chotiner replied emphatically.

Chotiner said too that he had made it his policy "never to discuss my clients' business" with Nixon.

He told of receiving a total of $6000 from Herman Kravitz but said he had never received any fee from Abrams.

Invoke Fifth Amendment.

The Kravitzes and Abrams have refused to tell the subcommittee whether they bribed any Government officials in connection with multimillion-dollar military clothing contracts. They pleaded the Fifth Amendment's protection against self-incrimination.

Chotiner testified before an overflow crowd which jammed the subcommittee's regular hearing room. It seats about 75 persons.

At the outset, Chotiner denied he had intentionally broken any agreement to testify last Thursday.

"There may have been and there may not have been a misunderstanding," McClellan remarked.

The subcommittee had recessed the hearings for a week and subpenaed him after Kennedy contended that Chotiner had broken a promise to fly back from the West Coast last Thursday if requested.

Feels No Need for Counsel.

Chotiner told the subcommittee at the outset he had not employed counsel for the hearing —"I do not feel that I need it."

Chotiner testified he does not know who recommended him for employment by the Kravitzes, but said he met Abrams while conferring with the Kravitzes in May 1953, about some "situations," as he described their difficulties with the Government.

(As the United Press recounted it, Chotiner said that when he was in California Herman Kravitz called him from the East Coast in May 1953, and said he had been recommended as a good lawyer. Kravitz said he was interested in opening a clothing plant on the West Coast and wanted Chotiner to represent him, the attorney testified.) Kravitz agreed to pay Chotiner's expenses to fly to Washington for a conference about the plan.

Chotiner said they met first on May 19, 1953, in Washington, and again about 10 days later. He said Herman Kravitz paid him a $5000 fee as a "general retainer" with the understanding this also would cover the cost of the two trips from California, the second one about May 28.

Chotiner said he "wouldn't use the word difficulties" to describe Kravitz's trouble with the Government, but that he finally was engaged to handle "two matters" for Herman Kravitz.

One, he said, involved "a theft charge," and on this one he "called a Mr. Collins of the Justice Department" to discover whether the Government would be willing to drop a charge in the southern district of New York that Kravitz had filed a false affidavit, if Kratvitz would drop his appeal from a conviction on charges of the "theft" of furs provided by the Government for the manufacture of parka hoods for United States troops. Kravitz was convicted in 1954 of embezzling $13,500 worth of furs. He was fined $5000.

The other matter, Chotiner said, was an attempt to settle the Government's claim against Kravitz for the value of the furs. He said he called someone in the Justice Department last February about this case, also.

His work for Abrams, Chotiner said, involved a claim by Abrams that the Government owed him $30,000.

Chotiner said he later received $1000 in cash from Herman Kravitz in addition to the $5000 retainer fee first paid him.

This was in February 1955. Chotiner said, after Kravitz had telephoned him and asked him to make a trip east. Chotiner said he told Kravitz he wasn't planning to come east at that time and it would be necessary for him to make "a special trip."

Chotiner said he estimated the cost of the trip would be $400 and so he quoted Kravitz a fee of $1000.

"He said all right," Chotiner added.

Further questioning developed that Chotiner conferred at the Justice Department with Rex A. Collins, chief of the general crime section, on Feb. 17, 1955, about the Kravitz case.

Asked About Letter.

McClellan asked if Chotiner knew that a letter went out from the department the very next day, Feb. 18, to the United States attorney for the southern district of New York over the signature of Warren Olney, assistant attorney general in charge of the criminal division.

Chotiner replied that he was told that such a letter was in the works, but he testified he had never seen it. He said he was informed later that such a letter was received and was advised of the subject matter.

McClellan said that since Chotiner never had seen the letter, he was not in position to identify it for the record. The contents of the letter were not brought out at the hearing.

Chotiner was asked how many times he had conferred with the Justice Department regarding the Abrams matter.

"I'd say approximately five or six times," he replied.

At the outset, McCarthy, the subcommittee's senior Republican member, said that as a lawyer and former judge he felt "it should be made clear that the ethics of the legal profession require" that any defendant—no matter how serious his crime may be—is entitled to counsel "regardless of how you (the defending lawyer) may feel."

"It doesn't mean you are in any way sympathetic with what he has done," McCarthy said.

McCarthy suggested that "Vice President Nixon had no knowledge of the various clients you were representing" and that Chotiner probably had "represented people you didn't have a very high opinion of."

Chotiner said he agreed, then he said it was his policy not to discuss client affairs with Nixon.

'A Very Sorry State.'

"If we have reached a point in this country where a man hay not have the counsel of his own choosing, we have reached a very sorry state," Chotiner said.

Firmly, Chotiner said he could not disclose the nature of the confidential conversations with clients, and McClellan said he would not be required to do so, but would be required to tell "who your clients are" insofar as they fall within the scope of the inquiry, and "the scope of your employment.

But, McClellan said, in view of some of the testimony already received, "some explanation is due from you. . . . In respect to your employment and the nature of it.

KNIGHTHOOD IS RENOUNCED

COLOMBO, Ceylon, May 3 (AP)—Ceylonese Premier Bandaranaike said yesterday that Ceylon's ambassador to the United States, Sir Senerat Gunewardena, has renounced his knighthood. He was knighted in January in recognition of his work in securing Ceylon's admission to the United Nations.

The new government of Ceylon has said it will ask Queen Elizabeth to refrain in future from conferring honors on the citizens of Ceylon, a British Commonwealth country.

Boom for Bromwich Under Way As State G.O.P. Harmony Move

Top Level Leaders Urge Election of St. Louis Business Executive as National Committeeman.

A campaign to elect E. W. Bromwich, St. Louis business man, as Republican National Committeeman of Missouri, in a move to restore harmony in the state party organization has been started by a group of top level St. Louis party leaders and fund-raisers.

Letters urging that Bromwich be named to the national committee post to succeed the present committeeman A. D. (Bud) Welsh of Ladue, have been sent to 1500 state and local Republican committee members, to G.O.P. state legislators and other party leaders throughout Missouri.

The letters are signed by Chancellor Ethan A. H. Shepley of Washington University, former chairman of the Missouri Republican Finance Committee; Ira E. Wight Jr., investment broker and former treasurer of the Republican State Committee, and Carl G. Stifel, real estate dealer.

Welsh, who was involved in a bitter intra-party feud with a faction headed by State G.O.P. Chairman Perry Compton of Montgomery City and Barak T. Mattingly, former national committeeman, is not expected to seek re-election to the national committee.

Contents of Letter.

The letter, which contains the names of 23 other prominent party leaders, declared:

"This group consisting of individuals who have been active in the financing of the party for many years feel that united and capable leadership is one of the essential ingredients of victory. We are convinced that E. W. Bromwich, a successful business man and former treasurer for nine years of the Republican party, is the man who could best serve the party as national committeeman."

Bromwich, head of a tool supply company, has attracted strong support for national committeeman because he has not been actively aligned or closely identified with either of the warring factions within the party. His backers asserted he is best qualified to unite the party for the forthcoming campaigns.

As reported by the Post-Dispatch last October, the move to elect Bromwich to the national committee was started informally at a party fund-raising dinner in St. Louis. At that time Republican fund-raisers indicated their belief that new party leadership was essential in 1956.

Election on June 23.

Missouri's members of the Republican National Committee will be elected at the State G.O.P. convention June 23 in St. Louis. There is talk also that a new national committeewoman may be named at that tome to succeed Mrs. Estelle Tanner of Jefferson City, who has been aligned with Welsh in opposition to the Compton-Mattingly group.

Mrs. Horace S. Hedges of Kansas City, wife of the state committee member from the Fifth Congressional district, has been mentioned as a possible successor to Mrs. Tanner, who has not indicated whether she will seek re-election.

In support of Bromwich, Shepley praised the St. Louis business man as a person of "real ability." He said Bromwich would "furnish the finest kind of leadership" as national committeeman.

ALL 4 ABOARD KILLED WHEN B-47 CRASHES

LINCOLN, Neb., May 3 (UP) —A six-jet B-47 crashed in flames and exploded on a farm last night, killing all four men aboard.

The plane went down without warning. The Lincoln Air Force Base, a Strategic Air Command installation only three and a half miles southeast of the crash scene, was in radio contact with the plane at the time.

Air Force officials said the pilot gave no hint that anything was wrong.

The big jet was carrying live ammunition, which exploded and sprayed hunks of flaming metal over a wide area.

Only the tail section remained intact. An Air Force investigating crew went immediately to the scene and the area was blocked off to outsiders.

Air Force officials confirmed that the four-man crew had been killed. The victims' names were withheld pending notification of next of kin.

The plane was based at Lincoln AFB and had taken off on a routine training mission.

The plane crashed about 12 miles from the spot where another B-47 went down less than a month ago, killing four men.

MAN ACCUSED OF KIDNAPING HIS SON ACQUITTED BY JURY

ITHACA, N. Y., May 3 (AP) —A jury acquitted Dr. Frank P. Sainburg last night of kidnaping his son from the boy's mother. Two defendants tried with Sainburg also were acquitted.

In addition to two counts of kidnaping, Sainburg was acquitted of third-degree burglary. Those acquitted with him are George Varris of New York City and Murray Morton of Hollywood, Fla., private detectives employed by Sainburg.

Sainburg, of Big Spring, Tex., was accused of twice kidnaping his son, Philip, now 5 years old, from the custody of his former wife, living in Ithaca.

CAA EXPANDING TRAFFIC CONTROL FOR JET AIRLINER

Establishes Planning Group to Channel Vital Data to Military, Civil Aviataion.

By DAVID R. WALLIN
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

TULSA, Okla., May 3—Initial steps are being taken by the Civil Aeronautics Administration to expand air traffic control procedures for the handling of jet commercial airliners, Civil Aeronautics Administrator Charles J. Lowen announced here today.

Lowen spoke at an opening session of the Southwest Jet Age Conference, held under joint sponsorship of the Air Force Association and the Tulsa Chamber of Commerce. The meeting is patterned after one held last February in Washington, and is designed to provide an opportunity for discussion of problems arising from increasing jet flight operations.

A jet planning group has been set up within the CAA to act as a clearing house for new information which is vital to all civil and military aviation interests, Lowen said. The same group is to direct the agency's resources where it has a direct responsibility in preparing for the jet age, he said.

Problems Listed.

Among the 100 problems that have been listed by CAA experts in connection with the shift to large-scale jet operations, Lowen said, are runway lengths and strength, noise control, protection of approach zones at the ends of runways, probable size of future airliners and the connected problem of airport terminal building requirements and navigation systems.

Much of the future air traffic control equipment will be fully or semi-automatic, Lowen predicted. In the next fiscal year the CAA plans to start construction of five radar beacons to be used in keeping track of planes at altitudes above 24,000 feet. This is being done even though laboratory tests of the equipment are not complete, he said, because of the urgency of the problem.

At a dinner last night preceding the formal opening of the conference, Gen. Carl A. Spaatz (Ret.), former Air Force chief of staff, urged a revision of laws to provide more centralized control of military budgeting.

"Traffic control over the United States is important," Gen. Spaatz said, "but the most important problem is that the jet age has for the first time made our continental area vulnerable to enemy attack. That's why we are spending 35 billion dollars a year on our military budget.

"Our present system goes back to the horse and buggy age, when we were thinking of fighting a war on the ground or on the ocean. The amount we are spending, or maybe less, would be adequate if spent properly. But we are spending it on too many things not essential in the modern jet age.

'Concentratin Needed.'

"What is needed is a strong concentration of power at the level of the Secretary of Defense, chief of staff and general staff. There should be no immediate secretaries, joint chiefs of staff meetings or that sort of thing.

"At present the same people are responsible on the one hand to their respective branches of the service for military efficiency, and we for their share of the budget. If they don't get it in full, morale suffers. This wouldn't be the case if they were told from topside, 'Here's what you are going to get. Make your plans accordingly.'

"If each branch of the service got what it wanted we would spend twice our total income for military use. Until we get a new organization we'll have competition among the services. That's why each of the four branches has its own air arm or wants one."

Another dinner speaker, Brig. Gen. William H. Blanchard, deputy director of operations for the Strategic Air Command, said that much of the experience of the military in operating thousands of jet aircraft over a period of several years will be of direct value to civilian aviation.

Many problems are common to both types of operations, he said, and many already have been solved by taking calculated military risks that could not be justified in a civilian operation.

"When you realize that two jet aircraft traveling toward each other at speeds of 600 miles an hour will close from one mile in three seconds, it is no wonder that SAC alone reports one near-miss a day," Gen. Blanchard said. "The wonder is that we don't have a larger number of close shaves.

"We've done a great deal on letdowns from high altitude at rates of descent of 6000 feet a minute. We have shown inadequacies in present facilities for jet letdown procedures. We've shown that jet planes, military or civilian, can't possibly hold over airports for minutes, much less hours as at present."

Military operations also have shown conclusively that many present aircraft instruments are obsolescent or obsolete, Gen. Blanchard said. Experience of the military in "living with" residents near airports used for jet flying will be directly applicable to civilian operation, he said.

Great Need is Money.

"Mostly what is needed in shifting to the jet age is money," he said. "If we have the money there are no technical problems that can't be solved.

"It isn't possible, of course, to solve such problems as jet engine or afterburner noise by hamstringing military operations. Our entire safety depends on our air strength as a deterrent to enemy countries.

"Beyond a certain point we must depend on education of the public, and through the public our legislators and planners."

FIRE DESTROYS 6-FLOOR BUILDING IN DETROIT

DETROIT, May 3 (AP)—A four-hour fire destroyed an 80-year-old six-floor building in the heart of the Detroit business district last night. Fire Marfshal Matthew McNally estimated the loss at $1,000,000.

The building housed the main store of the Fred Sanders Co., Detroit's largest confectionery chain a dress shop and a beauty shop equipment company.

POLITICAL SLATE WILL HARM CITY, TUCKER ASSERTS

to keep challengers and watchers at the polling places but that an individual candidate had no such right.

Declaratory Judgment.

The ruling came in a declaratory judgment suit filed by the Board of Election Commissioners to determine whether it was obliged to honor a request by Candidate Paul W. Preisler for permission to have observers at the polls.

In his order, Judge Regan ruled that Preisler and his "Committee for Preisler for Board of Freeholders" were not political parties within the meaning for the state's election laws.

The presence of challengers and watchers designated by both political parties offered sufficient protection to the rights of the electorate, the court held.

Preisler contended the denial of his request coupled with authorization to the political parties to have poll watchers was a violation of the Fourteenth Amendment which guarantees, among other things, equal protection of the laws to all citizens.

The election board promptly sent out supplemental instructions to its judges and clerks of election advising them to admit one challenger from each political party during voting hours and one watcher from each party during the counting of the votes, provided the observers produced credentials signed by the chairmen of their respective central committees.

Meanwhile, the citizens' committee continued its campaign for its list of 13 recommended freeholder candidates. They are: C. B. Broussard, Negro, principal, Dumas elementary school; Frederick E. Busse, attorney; John F. X. Callanan, attorney and office manager; Major B. Einstein, banker; David M. Grant, Negro, attorney; Dr. Ralph A. Kinsella, physician; Mel H. Krah, sales engineer and former alderman; John J. Nally, union leader; Henry B. Pflager, attorney; Mrs. Conrad Sommer, former president, St. Louis League of Women Voters; George L. Stemmler, former city counselor; William A. Webb, labor leader, and Frank L. G. Weiss, hardware store owner.

Opposition Tickets.

Many Democratic and Republican ward organizations are backing slates of freeholder candidates in opposition to the citizens' group. A few, however, are adopting a hands-off policy in the election and will not support any specific group of nominees.

Magistrate Thomas Gabbert, Republican Committeeman of the Twelfth Ward, said his ward organization will not slate any candidates in next Tuesday's election.

"We believe the voters of the Twelfth Ward are intelligent enough to know whom to vote for," he said. "I don't think our voters want or need anyone to tell them how to cast their votes."

Mayor Tucker will speak on Television Station KWK-TV at 6:20 o'clock tonight, to urge St. Louisans to go to the polls next Tuesday and vote for the citizens' slate of 13 candidates.

He usually appears on the "Meet Your Mayor" program on KWK-TV on Thursdays at this time. This public service program has been canceled for tonight, and the television time for his appearance has been purchased by the citizens committee.

Television Forum.

Mayor Tucker and other experts on municipal government will discuss "The Importance of the Freeholder Election" on the Community Forum program tomorrow night at 9 o'clock, on Television Station KETC, Channel 9.

Other participants will be Victor D. Brannon, executive director of the Governmental Research Institute; Mrs. Virgil Loeb, former president of the League of Women Voters; Dr. Carl A. McCandless, associate professor of political science, Washington University, and Edward G. Schaefer, chairman of the Civic Activities Committee and moderator of the program.

Y.W.C.A. EXCEEDS FUND GOAL

NEW YORK, May 3 (AP)—The Y.W.C.A. of the United States exceeded its goal for a $5,000,000 national centennial fund, the national board was informed yesterday.

Mrs. Laurence S. Rockefeller, general chairman of the drive, reported that $5,220,896.15 had been collected or pledged.

GLASS FIBER LIFEBOATS

OTTAWA, May 3 (AP)—Lifeboats made of matted glass fibers are being tried for one year on Canadian Inland Waterways ships.

The steamship inspection board granted permission for testing so it can decide whether to indorse them for standard use. The maker claims they are lighter, stronger and less perishable than wooden boats.

AUTO DEALERS ANNOUNCE DRIVE AGAINST FALSE ADS

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP) —A campaign against false and misleading automobile advertising was announced yesterday by the National Automobile Dealers Association.

"The public is understandably confused by exaggerated claims of fantastic saving, giveaways and misleading advertising which has been prevalent on the part of a small but vocal minority," a statement issued by the association said.

The association laid down a group of principles which, it said, are "dedicated to removing this type of advertising." Ruled out are exaggerated savings claims; terms such as "need cash," "warehouse clearance" and "over-stocked;" misleading terms such as "no money down" or "no down payment."

RELAXING TRUST LAW TO AID AUTO TRADE OPPOSED

Attorney General's Aid Gives Committee Objections to Special Treatment.

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP)— The Department of Justice yesterday opposed four bills to amend the antitrust laws to permit or to bar certain practices in the automobile industry.

Stanley N. Barnes, assistant attorney general in charge of the anti-trust division, told a House Commerce subcommittee:

"The efficient and impartial enforcement of the antitrust laws will not be served by singling out particular industries for exemption from those laws for conduct which, in other industries, is liable to criminal prosecution."

In addition, Barnes said a bill to permit trade agreements prohibiting franchised dealers from wholesaling new cars to used car dealers would not remove the basic causes of so-called "bootlegging" in the auto industry.

The causes, he said, are "factory sales pressure and factory-set delivery charges."

Furthermore, Barnes said he would be "reluctant to see an increase in the number of causes for which a manufacturer may arbitrarily terminate a dealer franchise."

Barnes said a "series of local monopolies" would be legalized under a bill permitting manufacturers to establish exclusive geographical trade territories for franchised dealers.

He said dealers have "a very real and reasonable complaint" when each is required to perform warranty work on cars sold by other dealers "without adequate compensation." But that, he said, is a matter "primarily between the automobile manufacturer and the dealer."

Barnes said the smaller car manufacturers would be placed at a competitive disadvantage by a bill requiring a car maker to charge a dealer no more transportation that the actual cost of moving a car from the assembly plant.

Only Ford and General Motors he said, now have widespread assembly plant systems to bring the immediate source of cars closer than the factory.

GERMAN BUSINESS LEADER ATTACKS EMBARGO OF CHINA

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Radio.

BONN, May 3 — Otto Wolff von Amerongeer, one of the key figures on Germany's industry's east committee, has demanded revision of the American-sponsored strategic goods embargo against Communist China.

He is the first top-flight West German industrialist to come out openly with a sharply worded criticism of the Chinese embargo. However, Washington's trade restrictions against Peiping have long been under fire by important German business men behind the scenes.

Wolff's attack was made at the Hanover industrial fair last weekend. It followed exactly a month after the Adenauer regime in effect endorsed the persistent efforts of West German business to increase trade with Communist China.

Wolff said that western nations are shipping a wide variety of products to the Soviet Union and the eastern European satellites, but are forbidden to send the same products to Red China. The result, he said, is that the Red Chinese simply obtained these items indirectly through the other Communist states.

One for the Birds.

TORONTO, May 3 (AP)—Bird watchers are coming from miles around to confront a mixed-up meadow lark at the home of Mrs. Lucy MacDougall. It sings the tune of the cardinal. Experts figure it must have got lost from its meadow lark family and been reared by cardinal foster parents.

WATER WORKS UNIT TO HOLD ANNIVERSARY MEETING HERE

The seventy-fifth anniversary meeting of the American Water Works Association, a national organization of water utilities, will open Sunday and continue through Friday at Kiel Auditorium.

More than 50 papers on technical subjects relating to water will be presented at the five-day meeting as well as displays of the latest products of water works equipment manufacturers.

Thirty-three companies which have maintained continuous membership in the association for the last 50 years will be honored. The association was organized on the old Washington University campus in 1881.

RUSSIA SAID TO BE FLOATING MINES TOWARD JAPAN

TOKYO, May 3 (AP)—Russia expanded its naval strength at Vladivostok to 750 vessels last October and started floating mines toward Japan, a former defense chief said last night.

Shigemasa Sunada, now policy adviser for the ruling Liberal-Democratic party, made the statement on a television forum.

"So many mines are now bobbing in the strait separating Honshu from Hokkaido, the national railroads stopped night ferry service about three weeks ago," Sunada said.

Sunada replied that the Japanese Navy and Coast Guard "verified that all these mines now appearing in the strait are of recent Russian make."

Sunada insisted his information on the Russian naval buildup at Vladivostok, on the western side of the Japan sea, has been fully verified.

GRAHAM DEFENSE CALLS 7 WITNESSES

Judge Denies Motions for Directed Acquittal and Dismissal of Case.

DENVER, May 3 (AP)—Seven witnesses were called today for the opening of John Gilbert Graham's defense against a state charge he killed his mother by blowing up an airliner with 44 aboard.

Immediately after the prosecution rested its case yesterday, District Judge Joseph M. McDonald denied defense motions for a directed verdict of acquittal and for dismissal of the charge that the 24-year-old defendant murdered his mother, Mrs. Daisie E. King, 55.

Charles S. Vigil, one of Graham's three court-appointed lawyers, argued that the Denver district court lacked jurisdiction because the plane crash last Nov. 1 near Longmont, Colo., occurred in Weld county, north of Denver.

Virgil also contended Graham's statement to the FBI—which the prosecution calls a confession—"at no point states the defendant committed the crime of killing his mother."

Graham's statement — which he has since denied—said he put a 25-stick dynamite time bomb in Mrs. King's luggage before it was stored aboard the United Air Lines plane that exploded 11 minutes after taking off from Denver.

In denying the defense motions, Judge McDonald ruled "the court is fully convinced the people have made a prime facie case beyond any doubt."

The defense witnesses include Graham's wife, Gloria, 22, mother of his two children. Others summoned by the defense are J. W. Stevenson of San Francisco, a United pilot; Floyd S. Wood and Roland C. Wood, railroad men; Helene West, neighbor of the Grahams; Jerome R. Strickland, Graham family attorney, and Paul Ochs of Industrial Laboratory, Denver.

Stevenson, who testified for the state, was captain of an airliner flying in the area when the other United ship exploded. The railroad men were aboard a freight train in the vicinity at the time of the crash.

Defense attorneys said they were unable to say at this time whether Graham will testify.

300 False Alarms at Once.

DETROIT, May 3 (AP)—The Detroit fire department had 300 false alarms simultaneously yesterday. A thief took a four-foot section of master cable connecting the fire alarm boxes with the department dispatcher. When the cable was cut the alarms went off. The thief escaped.

MAN HE KILLED MURDERED HIS SISTER, FARMER SAYS

MUNCIE, Ind., May 3 (AP)—A young farmhand led state police to the bodies of his sister and brother-in-law in a gravel pit yesterday and said he shot his brother-in-law because the latter had killed the sister.

State police said Chester Schlegel, 22 years old, admitted killing Darrell Spade, 42, and asserted he shot Spade after he found Spade hacking his wife, Mary, 24, with an ax in the yard at their farm home in Blackford county. The killings occurred April 24. Schlegel, who worked for Spade on the farm, reported the couple missing the next morning.

Warnock said Schlegel was being held without charge for further questioning.

END OF SEGREGATION AT HOSPITAL URGED

Episcopal Meeting Calls for Opening St. Luke's Facilities, Staff to All Races.

Admission to St. Luke's Hospital of all patients without regard to race and opening its medical staff to qualified members of all races was urged yesterday by the annual convention of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Missouri at Christ Church Cathedral.

In a resolution passed at the concluding session, the convention noted that all services at the hospital except obstetrical now admit patients regardless of race. The convention requested the board of directors to move as rapidly as possible toward complete desegregation.

The resolution also expressed the conviction that the medical staff should be open to qualified members of all races.

A vote of appreciation was given to Dean Sidney Sweet of Christ Church Cathedral and to Mrs. Theodore Bruere Sr. of St. Charles, Mo. Mrs. Bruere has been active many years in Trinity Church of St. Charles which was admitted to the convention as a parish. The Rev. Roy J. Shaffer is its vicar.

John R. Shepley was re-elected treasurer of the diocese while the Rev. Gordon S. Price, the Rev. Charles H. Washburn, John Sonnenfeld Jr., and Kenneth O. Hansen were named to the council of the diocese.

New Hampshire Fishing.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H. (AP)—New Hampshire's 14-mile coastline is well exploited by fishermen. The federal Fish and Wildlife Service says 5630 fishermen invested nearly $600,000 in boats and tackle in this region.

WORLD BANK HEAD STILL CONSIDERING EGYPT DAM LOAN

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP)—Eugene R. Black, president of the World Bank, said yesterday the bank's offer to lend Egypt $200,000,000 toward construction of the proposed Aswan dam on the Nile river is still an active project so far as he is concerned.

Black talked with newsmen at the White House after conferring with President Eisenhower. Black said he and Mr. Eisenhower discussed "the general foreign situation," and touched on the dam among other things. He declined to say what if any view Mr. Eisenhower expressed regarding the project.

It is estimated that the dam would cost a total of $1,300,000,000 and take about 20 years to complete.

The United States has offered a grant of $55,000,000 and Britain $15,000,000 to get the project started. The World Bank loan would be in addition to that.

Russia has offered the Egyptian a $300,000,000 loan at a low interest rate with provision for repayment over 50 years.

PRESBYTERIANS, U.S.A., WILL CONSIDER MERGER PLAN

PHILADELPHIA, May 3 (UP)—A plan to merge the United Presbyterian Church and the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. will be submitted to the 168th general assembly of the latter organization here May 24, it was announced yesterday.

The plan, drafted by the permanent commission on interchurch relations of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. would create a new denomination known as the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. with a membership of 3,000,000.

A spokesman for the general assembly said the two churches have no theological or doctrinal differences and that the merger would pose no alteration of basic beliefs of either denomination.

DAILY WORKER WRITER MUM ON SPY RECRUITING

The New York Times News Service. (Copyright, 1956, by the New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON, May 3 — Joseph North, a columnist for the Communist Daily Worker, yesterday refused to tell the Senate Internal Security subcommittee whether he had ever recruited spies for the Soviet intelligence system.

He invoked the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution, protecting a witness against self-incrimination, a total of 24 times in response to questions concerning possible Communist activities.

North accused the subcommittee of attempting to "pressure" the press by questioning him. But his objections were overruled by the acting chairman, Senator Herman Welker, (Rep.), Idaho. North subsequently withdrew a prepared statement attacking the subcommittee that he had attempted, unsuccessfully, to read aloud.

Robert Morris, subcommittee counsel, opened the hearing by reading testimony given the subcommittee on June 28, 1955, by Winston M. Burdett, Columbia Broadcasting System commentator. Burdett testified that North recruited him into the Communist party as a spy in 1937. Burdett quit the party in 1942 after a succession of inconclusive espionage attempts in Finland and elsewhere in Europe.

Morris also read prior testimony by Elizabeth Bentley, former Communist courier, to the effect that North was a "lookout" for good Communists who could be used by Soviet intelligence. The counsel also read excerpts from a book by Miss Bentley stating that she once brought North several bottles of rye as a gift from the N.K.V.D., the Red intelligence agency.

The witness said he was born in the Russian Ukraine and came to the United States with his parents at the age of 9 months.

To most other questions, however, including a direct question as to whether he was presently a member of the Communist party, North took the Fifth Amendment.

Two other witnesses also resorted to the protections of the Fifth Amendment in refusing to answer subcommittee questions on Communist activities.

Bernard L. Koten of New York, research librarian for the "Library for Intercultural Studies," refused to say whether he was now or had ever been a Communist. He formerly was research director for the American-Russian Institute.

Morris said the subcommittee had received information that the institute served as a recruiting agency for the Soviet intelligence service. He said he did not know whether Koten knew of this activity, and did not question him on it.

George Mills of East Rockaway, N.Y., said he had not been a Communist for the past five years, but took the Fifth Amendment on all questions prior to that time.

000,000 in carry-over funds for which it said there was no immediate need.

About $1,647,000,000 of the new funds was earmarked for research and development. The committee called for a "comprehensive and integrated" plan of scientific research to prevent Russia from overcoming "our present marginal superiority" in development of advanced weapons and equipment.

Of the $263,843,000 cut from the Army's requested funds, $228,944,000 would have been used to replace foreign currency. The Army wanted the money to substitute for marks it had planned to spend in Germany but which it said it might not get from the German Government. The committee said maybe the marks still would be forthcoming and denied the request.

19-Division Army.

Funds allowed the Army would provide for 1,045,300 men organized into 19 divisions, 10 regimental combat teams, and 140 anti-aircraft battalions. The Army, the committee said, is confident of its "ability to cope with any military problem of the atomic age."

Large Army allotments, in addition to the big items for pay, maintenance and operations, included $306,000,000 for the National Guard and $410,000,000 for research and development.

Funds voted for the Navy call for an active fleet of 1005 ships in mid-1957, with 32 new ships being added to the fleet in the year. The 1957 shipbuilding program provides for 23 new ships, including six Forrestal-type carriers, 13 smaller guided missile vessels, a nuclear-powered guided missile cruiser and six nuclear-powered submarines.

The Navy would have 12,600 active aircraft in the year, with provision for an additional 2000 airplane deliveries a year through the fiscal year ending June 30, 1958. Navy personnel at the end of the year would be 672,000, plus 205,735 Marines.

137 Wings for Air Force.

Air Force allotments include funds to speed up construction of B-52 bombers and expansion of the Air Force to 137 wings by the end of the fiscal year.

Russia's air threat, the committee commented, is growing steadily and the Soviet probably will equal the United States in offensive air power capability within a few years unless domestic plane production is stepped up.

The committee approved the entire $6,048,500,000 requested for aircraft and related procurement, including $1,142,654,000 for guided missiles and $87,256,000 for missile components.

As an indication of why the Air Force needs so much money to keep in operation, the committee said it may cost "as much as $5000" to get a fully loaded B-47 bomber off the ground.

Specific items rejected by the committee included $761,000 for naval reserve training facilities at Glenview, Ill.; $535,000 for a Marine reserve training center in Arlington, Va., and $529,000 for exploration and drilling in the Navy petroleum reserve on San Nicholas island, Calif.

The committee called for better use of the staff in the office of the Secretary of Defense, commenting that there are too many detailed instructions "apparently prepared in a vacuum in Washington." As an example it cited a detailed order on uniform standards for mowing grass.

It complained about "continued leaks and premature disclosures of our military secrets" and said "drastic administrative action of some sort is in order."

ADENAUER INSISTS ON CONSCRIPTION IN RAISING ARMY

BONN, Germany, May 3 (AP) —The Government insisted yesterday that only by conscription can West Germany raise a 500,000-man military force for Europe's defenses.

Chancellor Adenauer's Government released a memorandum rejecting some opposition suggestions that West Germany set up a professional force of 250,000 men instead of a large conscript army.

Parliament opens debate today on conscription. Socialists oppose the draft. The opposition Free Democrats and refugees want action postponed until manpower needs in atomic warfare are assessed.

The three-party Government coalition has 283 votes to the opposition's 203 in the Bundestag, or lower house.

The memorandum stuck to Government demands that drafted men serve 18 months. A limit of 12 months has been suggested.

The Government frowned on the idea of a professional army, saying there was danger it might become "a state within a state."

Streetcar Bombed.

BUENOS AIRES, May 3 (AP) —A bomb exploded under a streetcar in downtown Buenos Aires last night, but it was mostly a noisemaker. No one was hurt and there was little damage. The bomb thrower escaped.

GEORGE GOBEL IS FINED ON OLD TRAFFIC CHARGE

CHICAGO, May 3 (AP)—Television comedian George Gobel, here to promote his first movie, "The Birds and the Bees," got a rude tap on the shoulder from his home town police department yesterday.

It turned out that more than two years ago, Gobel got a ticket for running a stop light. Since that time, he has been living in California. He said he forgot about the ticket. But the Traffic Department didn't.

He was served with a warrant and appeared at traffic headquarters where he paid a $6 fine and $3 penalty.

BROWNELL URGES BROADER POWER ON CIVIL RIGHTS

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 3 — Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr. yesterday urged passage of federal legislation to give his office authority to anticipate civil rights violations and "stop them before they happen."

Noting that the government now only has criminal laws to act on, he expressed indignation at such recorded instances in the deep South as those requiring Negroes seeking to vote to tell "how many bubbles are there in a bar of soap." Brownell spoke after receiving the 1956 award for civil service from the New York Young Republican Club.

Despite the Republican Administration's stand on civil rights, he predicted that President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon would win more votes this year in the South than in 1952. The Republican national ticket carried Virginia, Florida, Texas and Tennessee that year as well as several southern congressional districts.

In line with the Department of Justice recommendations of April 25 Brownell called for the authority to seek civil injunctive relief rather than having to wait to take criminal action against violators of civil rights.

CONGRESSMAN URGES END TO G.I. HOUSING RIGHTS

Teague Introduces House Bill to Substitute More Liberal FHA Program.

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP)—Representative Olin E. Teague (Dem.), Texas, chairman of the House Veterans Affairs Committee, yesterday came out against extension of World War II G.I. housing rights.

Instead, he introduced a bill to make it easier for all citizens to buy homes under the existing Federal Housing Administration program.

Teague's action marked a major step in a struggle over whether to extend the World War II veterans housing program, now slated by law to end July 25, 1957.

Builders and a number of influential Congressmen have called for extension of the program. Administration officials have been cool to the idea.

Teague said the G.I. program was aimed at helping World War II veterans readjust to civilian life. That purpose is now largely taken care of, he said. He added:

"If it is the conviction of the members of the building, lending and real estate interests of this country that Government-guaranteed credit in housing is necessary for the continued economic health of the country, we should face facts and enact a general housing program for the use of all prospective home purchasers in the country and not advocate the extension of a veterans' program which has served its purpose."

Teague introduced a bill to liberalize the FHA program for purchase of single unit residences along the lines of the present Veterans Administration home loan guarantee program.

It would allow down payments from 2 per cent on FHA-backed loans less than $10,000 to 15 per cent on loans from $24,000 to $30,000. A Teague aid said this compares with the present FHA requirements of 5 per cent down on the first $9000 and 25 per cent on the remainder up to a ceiling of $20,000.

As an illustration, the aid said, a $16,000 house would need at least a $2200 down payment under the FHA program as against $1120 under Teague's bill.

Russia Certain to Make Bid To Expand Present Commercial Relationship With Great Britain

Soviet Union Is Playing for High Stakes—Slow but Steady Orientation of the British Away From the West Toward Communist Bloc.

By DREW MIDDLETON
The New York Times News Service.

LONDON.

THE MOST SUSTAINED, imaginative and attractive part of the attempt made by Soviet leaders Khrushchev and Bulganin to weaken Britain's position as a pillar of the Atlantic alliance occurred in the field of trade between the Soviet Union and this country. The effort was great and important conditions argued for its success, but in the end the progress was limited. But there is no room for complacency. The drive to create a closer commercial relationship is only beginning.

The position of Britain in the modern world makes it certain that the Russian efforts will continue. Here is a country whose old pre-eminence as a manufacturer and exporter has been successfully challenged by Germany in Europe, the United States in the Americas and Japan in the Far East. Yet Britain must export to live—and knows it. To it now comes the wealthy colossus of the Soviet Union offering extensive long-term trade relations valuable at any time but doubly valuable now in view of Britain's competitive difficulties in exports.

The superficial view is that Krushchev and Bulganin offered expansion of trade with Britain largely because they wish to end restrictions on the sale of strategic materials to the Soviet Union and they believed that if the bribe were big enough the British government would forget its agreements and approve such trade.

This is part but not all of the answer. Aside from the fact that the offer and conditions attached to it betray ignorance of British character, it does not allow for the fact that a large part of the list of goods which the Soviet Union wanted to order in this country were outside strategic controls.

Orientation of Britain to East.

The Soviet Union is playing for stakes a good deal higher than a few fast tankers. What it seeks is the slow but steady orientation of Britain toward the Soviet Union and its satellites rather than westward toward the Atlantic community. This could be accomplished on the foundation of extensive trade and, as Khrushchev pointed out at last Friday's press conference, trade is the basis on which "friendship" would be built.

Russian trade with Britain is well established. The present Russian drive to expand it did not begin with the visit of Khrushchev and Bulganin. It originated in the winter of 1953-54 when the Soviet Union's post-Stalin policies began to take shape, and received great impetus last year and in 1954 with the arrival here of various groups of Soviet officials to negotiate contracts with British firm and visits of British manufacturers to the Soviet Union.

Consequently British exports to the Soviet Union last year amounted to £22,900,000 ($64,120,000), a rise of more than 100 per cent over the 1954 export figure. The rise has continued this year.

During January, February and March of 1956 Britain's sales to Russia were more than double the value of exports in the same period of 1955. They were valued at £3,900,000 ($10,920,000) in 1955 and £8,800,000 ($24,640,000) in 1956.

Imports to Britain from the Soviet Union in the first three months of this year were only about £1,000,000 sterling ($2,800,000) about those in the comparable period of 1955.

Main Exports to Russia.

The main exports to the Soviet Union last year and in the first quarter of 1956 were, in the order of value, copper wire, machinery, electrical machinery and apparatus, refined sugar, vegetable oils, artifical silk fiber, and yarn, wool and herrings.

Imports from Russia to Britain rose in value by £21,000,000 ($58,800,000), to a total of £62,800,000 ($175,840,000) in 1955.

The most valuable imports were timber, cotton, fur, skins, pig iron, plywood, wood pulp and silver bullion.

Analysis of exports since last August reveals that shipments of copper wire and re-exports of Malayan rubber through the United Kingdom have accounted for most of the rapid expansion. Copper wire exports were removed from the Board of Trade's list of barred strategic goods about 18 months ago. Today they are running at the rate of almost £2,000,000 ($5,600,000) a month. In addition, re-exports of rubber have a monthly value of between £3,000,000 ($8,400,000) and £4,000,000 ($11,200,000).

Other goods that have taken part in the expansion of exports are electrical machinery, textile machinery, machine tools and other engineering products. None of these goods is now affected by restrictions on exports although the shipment of certain types of machine tools and raw materials is forbidden or restricted by an international committee working in co-operation with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and other Western organizations.

Effectiveness Questioned.

Effectiveness of these controls in reducing the military potential of the Soviet Union has long been questioned openly by British business men who want to trade and privately by some Government officials. Khrushchev went out of his way to encourage British doubts about the restrictions by emphasizing that these controls had forced the Soviet Union to manufacture goods which otherwise they would have bought in this country.

The Soviet Union had turned to making the machine tools it has been unable to buy in Britain, he told an audience in Birmingham, heart of Britain's largest industrial area. Although this course was expensive and less satisfactory than buying machine tools in this country, he announced it had been followed and there was now no market for British tools of that type in the Soviet Union.

Needless to say this is the sort of argument which has considerable impact among business men and manufacturers harried by German competition and looking for new markets. Military authorities here doubt whether the Soviet Union would ever have purchased certain machines used in the production of arms from this country, regardless of strategic restrictions. It is the aim of the Soviet Union and its allies, they said, to become strategically independent in the manufacture of the tools of war.

Like the Western powers, the Soviet Union uses trade with other nations to gain its political ends or to express anger. After the Petrov affair in Australia, Soviet purchases of Australian wool were slashed over night. In 1952 when the British textile industry was in difficulties, Moscow's Economic Conference produced orders for British manufacturers. When shipbuilding orders fell off in 1954 British yards were offered extensive Soviet contracts.

Nothing in the past, however, prepared the British for the magnitude of the offers made by the Soviet leaders last week. The Russians offered to extend trade between 1956 and 1960 to as much as £200,000,000 ($560,000,000) annually.

This increase would include orders for various equipment and ships to the value of a little less than half of the increase and what was described by the Soviet Union as "the purchase of a wide range of industrial goods and raw materials." Part of the list of goods sought by the Soviet leaders was covered by strategic controls but a substantial number of items were not. The latter are now being studied and means of facilitating contacts between buyers and sellers will be studied also.

There is as yet no demand in business or political circles for immediate and drastic revision of strategic controls to allow Britain to take full advantage of the Soviet offer. But should economic conditions worsen and the British share in overseas markets continue to fall then such a demand certainly will develop.

Britain OK's 'Greatest Part' of Soviet Trade Offer.

LONDON, May 3 (UP)—Britain told its businessmen today they may accept the "greater part" of trade with Russia offered by Soviet Premier Bulganin and Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev.

Board of Trade President Peter Thorneycroft, the cabinet minister charged with enforcing the Western strategic embargo, said most of the items requested by Russia are clear of the embargo.

The announcement was interpreted as good news for British exporters worried over the embargo's effect on the billion-dollar offer made by the Soviet leaders during their recent London visit.

When a Socialist asked in the House of Commons if Russia wanted to go ahead with its non-strategic orders even if Britain refuses the strategic ones, Thornycroft said yes.

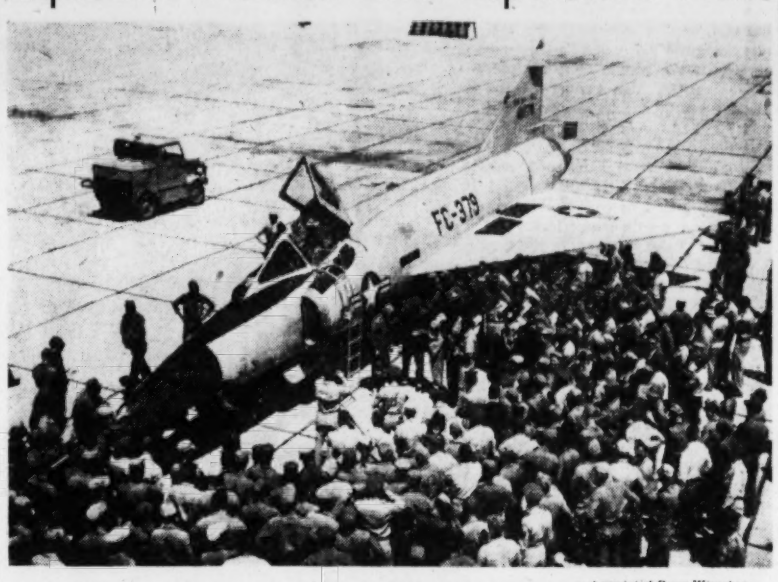

"It (the Russian offer) is not conditional upon removal of the strategic list, and the greater part of the Soviet proposals is not affected by the strategic list," the Board of Trade president said.

He said a detailed list of permissible items for trade will be published later this week.

Meany-Reuther Dispute on Trip To India Puts Strain on Merger

Row Boils Over at AFL-CIO Executive Council Meeting—UAW Head Claims Right to Disagree.

The New York Times News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 3.

A HIGH LEVEL split over international policy has added new stresses to the internal problems of the united labor movement. The conflict between George Meany and Walter Reuther aggravated by Reuther's recent trip to India, spilled over at a meeting of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations Tuesday.

Meany appeared to resent the fact that Reuther publicly took exception to his views of India's relationship to the Communist nations.

Reuther vice president of the AFL-CIO and former president of the CIO, said he respected Meany's viewpoint and his right to it, but insisted on his right to disagree with him. He said he expected Meany to respect that right. He also declared he had always made it plain that he was not pretending to speak for the federation.

Last Dec. 15, Meany said in a speech that Prime Minister Nehru of India and Premier Tito of Yugoslavia "are aids and allies (of Communist nations) in fact and in effect, if not in diplomatic verbiage."

Reuther strongly disagreed. His sympathetic approach to India and its problems made his trip a personal success.

The quarrel led to slighting references to some staff members, to questions about the authorship of Meany's foreign policy speeches, and to the involvement of the Voice of America in the Reuther-India episode.

The Voice made a recording of Reuther's news conference in New York just before he left for India. Reuther disagreed with Meany on that occasion. A representative of the Voice called Meany's press officer, Philip Pearl, to check on the wisdom of broadcasting to Europe and Asia the disagreements of United States labor leaders.

Word reached Victor Reuther, Walter's brother and assistant, that Pearl had put a silencer on the press conference recording. Victor Reuther called the federation and complained. This irritated Meany, who questioned Victor's authority. Walter Reuther said Victor was his assistant and had a right to call in his name.

Pearl said he had told the Voice he was not going to make its decisions, but acknowledged that he had cautiously remarked that the point raised by the Voice seemed reasonable.

The upshot, according to federation sources, was that the Voice beamed Reuther press conference excerpts to India, but not to other parts of Asia or to Europe.

Executive council members had varying reactions to the Meany-Reuther debate. One who is normally a Meany partisan thought the federation president had erred in raising the issue in the council meeting because he apparently was not asking the council to resolve anything.

Another member thought both men had lost something in the debate and that the indicated need was for more private consultation.

COMMERCIAL TV FAVORITE IN ENGLAND, BBC ADMITS

LONDON, May 3 (UP)—British televiewers apparently prefer commercially - sponsored television over commercial-free government programs, the British Broadcasting Co. said yesterday.

The quarterly audience reports of the nationalized BBC admitted that among "those adults with a choice of programs" an estimated 59 persons of every 100 watch BBC's nine-month-old commercial rival.

FLEESON

Little Reaction To Warning by Gen. Le May

SAC Chief Seems Baffled at Refusal to Accept Bad News.

By DORIS FLEESON

WASHINGTON.

GEN. CURTIS E. LeMAY, his thick black thatch now widely streaked with gray, chomped on his cigar and returned dour civilities to those who approached him.

Should the worst for which this country is being prepared really happen, LeMay is the man whose strategic Air Command must confront the Russians on the first—and probably the last—frontier of nuclear combat.

LeMay said that Russian striking power will exceed our own by 1958-60 unless we get more bombers, more tankers and more bases. He said there had been no changes of consequence in the Air Force program of 1953, though we have had to admit that Russian air power has increased far beyond our expectations.

General Seems Baffled.

The general seems a little baffled—understandably. He has run into the greatest phenomenon of the Eisenhower presidency—its optimism in whose engulfing stream nothing hard or difficult or unhappy seems able to survive long enough to attract attention.

It is reliably said that LeMay came here ready to take a firm stand against the present drift, regardless of what it might cost him personally at the Pentagon. If this is true, he must be suffering from a sense of anti-climax.

Nobody—politicians, press and a thoroughly aloof public — is really very interested in bad news or martyrs.

Senator Stuart Symington's subcommittee is making a record. It will be careful and important. But the subcommittee is caught in a vicious circle of its own.

It wants to be responsible and is clearing everything in advance with the Pentagon for security reasons. This cuts down

GEN. PHILLIPS

H-Bomb Observers Will Get To See an Added Attraction

Atomic Fission Explosion Also Scheduled at Test Site—Some Terms in AEC Jargon Explained.

By BRIG. GEN. THOMAS R. PHILLIPS, U.S.A. (Ret.)
Military Analyst of the Post-Dispatch

KWAJALEIN, May 3.

THE small press and civil defense parties arriving at this tropical atoll after a 9½-hour flight from Honolulu to witness the first H-bomb test ever observed by the public were told on arrival that an extra attraction had been added in the form of an atomic fission explosion.

The test explosion, which was first set for about dawn tomorrow, was postponed today for at least 24 hours because of unsuitable weather. The detonation is now tentatively scheduled for dawn Saturday (Friday afternoon, St. Louis time).

The test will be in the kiloton range, Atomic Energy Commission officials said. A kiloton is AEC jargon meaning an explosion that releases energy equivalent to that of the explosion of 1000 tons of T.N.T. This test will probably be less than the energy released by 50,000 tons of T.N.T. The range of atomic fission explosions has been broadened so that it extends from fractions of a kiloton to 500 kilotons.

The thermonuclear or hydrogen bomb power starts where atomic fission leaves off and extends into energy release equal to the explosion of millions of tons of T.N.T. To describe explosions of such awesome power, the term megaton has been invented. A megaton indicates energy equivalent to the explosion of 1,000,000 tons of T.N.T.

It has been unofficially estimated that the largest explosion at Eniwetok in March 1954 released energy equivalent to the explosion of about 15,000,000 tons of T.N.T. It was this explosion that caused radioactive fallout that covered an area of about 7000 square miles. An earlier explosion of a thermonuclear test device that had a reported power of about 3,000,000 tons of T.N.T. destroyed Elugelab, an island in the Eniwetok atoll and left instead a hole 175 feet deep and more than a mile in diameter.

The naval station on Kwajalein is a way station for the Military Air Transport Service. Kwajalein atoll is the largest such coral formation in the world, with 69 individual islands ringing a central lagoon several hundred square miles in extent. It was a Japanese naval base in World War II.

None of the Marshall islanders remain on Kwajalein island. It has been completely taken over for military operations. The natives were moved to the nearby island of Ebeye. About 300 persons are employed on Kwajalein, most at manual labor.

Some palms remain on Kwajalein and there are some small plots of lawn. Every point on the island can be seen from the second story of a building. Trade winds make the temperature and humidity bearable. White breakers foam in against the north shore.

Officers and senior noncommissioned officers have their dependents here with them and a housing project now under way will make it possible for all dependents to join their husbands. This is a lonely spot but servicemen and women find the resources in themselves to lead happy lives under difficult conditions.

The press party of seven reporters and eight other media representatives will fly to Eniwetok before dawn on the day of the fission explosion.

After the fallout in March 1954 that sprinkled the Japanese fishing boat, the Fortunate Dragon, with radioactive dust and covered some of the inhabited Marshall islands so seriously that they still cannot be reoccupied, intense measures have been taken to ascertain the weather with certainty.

On a relatively small explosion, such as is scheduled for Saturday, the danger of fallout is negligible. Cloud conditions and rain could cause the test to be postponed.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

An Architect on Windows

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Your pleasantly whimsical editorial "The Ladies Don't Want Them," successfully poked fun at picture-windows in builders' houses. Alas, as you well observed, these windows too seldom frame a sylvan scene but rather more often . . . street traffic, then by magically switching the picture-gazer's place to the outside—we find that a curious pedestrian is afforded a choice chance to stare into the home—sorry, that's a misnomer—into the glittering glass show windows. The so-called home in many cases having become an abominable show-case on display.

May I present a few questions:

Do inhabitants of suburbia buy these builders' houses because there is a scarcity of ready-built, well-designed houses offering privacy?

Or, have we become a mite exhibitionist—desiring to show off our expensive new table lamps; our TV sets and ourselves at home to the backward or less fortunate man in the street?

Should a good home present a more dignified face or facade to the street or public side and a less formal countenance towards the back—where the lord and lady of the manor might relax in an area sheltered possibly even from neighbor's prying eyes?

Is the home-seeking public timid or insufficiently vocal?

Chapter and Verse

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

In the Gas Appliance section of last Sunday's Post-Dispatch you published a story alleging that the dogwood is the state flower of Missouri.

The article is in error. In the Missouri Revised Statutes, 1949, Volume One, Chapter 10.090, or in the state's current Blue Book, you will find that the hawthorn is the state flower. The bloom closely resembles that of the apple tree.

The "haw," as we country people refer to it, has fruit which is edible. In my home county, Reynolds county, the trees are beginning to blossom.

For a beautiful scenic drive, go south on Highway 21 to Van Buren. Along with the wild cherry, dogwood and red bud, the hawthorn (state flower of Missouri) also adorns the Ozark hillsides, but not in as great profusion.

MRS. TENNIE MARTIN.

The Authority of the Clock

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

In your editorial "P.S. on D.S.T." you speak of the authority of the clock. In our house there are three small authorities—ages 6, 4 and 2—that outrank any clock around. They do not consult the clock either when they wake in the morning or when they decide to give up for the day.

And as you say, the hour hand moves as inexorably to 9 when things begin to settle down for the evening as it used to do to 8. For many, D.S.T. means one more hour of pleasant daylight. For me it means one hour less of evening peace and quiet.

WALTER W. PARKER JR.

Unfair of Gen. Clark

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Gen. Mark Clark was most unfair in his remarks concerning the part which Negro troops played in World War II and his statement of opposition to integration in the military forces.

True, some Negro units failed as he stated, but the top military brass made it a policy to staff many Negro military units with cast-off officers who were proven incompetent leaders in white units. White troops with such poor leadership would have failed as readily.

There were many fine Negro military units which fought bravely for their country notwithstanding the fact that it had not given them equal rights and opportunity. What other citizens in our country fought and died for something they had the least of? And it should be added that they will not have equality if we heed the foolish statements of some of our prejudiced leaders.

It was wisely stated by a brilliant man that: "There is no way to keep a man in the gutter except to lie there with him." This is something that many of us Caucasians need to think about whenever we begin intimating or extolling our superiority over those who have darker skins than we.

A WHITE OFFICER WHO PROUDLY SERVED WITH NEGRO TROOPS.

To Make Books Handier

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The reading of good books nourishes the mind and comforts the spirit. It enlarges the horizon and extends experience. We live through others. They who have lived and died left us open doors.

More people would read if the facilities of the Public Library were extended. Take, for instance, my location. None of the library's branches are within walking distance. People do not want to pay 40 cents carfare to get a book.

There should be numerous branches. Books should be the easiest things in the world to reach for.

Perhaps young people would still prefer television and cars, but there is a vast crowd of mature people who would enjoy the serious study of the thoughts of great men and women.

CATHERINE BROWN.

The U.N. Buys Time

Dag Hammarskjold has achieved a cease-fire agreement in the Middle East, but the circumstances emphasize more than ever that he and the U.N. have only bought time in which to seek a real peace.

Syria, Lebanon and Jordan have now joined Egypt and Israel in agreeing to stop shooting, the U.N. Secretary General reports to the Security Council. It is great news that should be welcomed in every capital. Yet, even assuming that this agreement is respected better than its predecessor, the last-minute hitch in the truce negotiations shows the urgent need for a general Arab-Israeli settlement.

Just when the U.N. Secretary General appeared to have persuaded Syria and Jordan, as well as Egypt, to accept an unconditional cease-fire, Syria threw a monkey-wrench. A cease-fire must be made contingent, Syria demanded, upon an agreement by Israel not to go ahead with its projected diversion of the Jordan river for the production of power. Both Syria and Jordan had previously warned that they would regard the resumption of work on this project as an aggressive act.

It is as unreasonable for the Arabs to set such a condition on a cease-fire as it would be for Israel to set the condition that Egypt end its Suez canal blockade against Israel. Most experience shows that the only way to arrange a cease-fire is without any conditions at all. Otherwise one demand leads to another until the cease-fire objective is lost in a wrangle over a substantive settlement.

Though Israel thus has a right to object to tying up the Jordan river project with the cease-fire, she would be wise to abstain voluntarily from resuming work on the project. For Israel is under a United Nations Security Council injunction to hold up the project temporarily, and she cannot expect others to obey the U.N. unless she does also.

But the U.N. also has an obligation. That is to buckle down to a serious effort for a basic settlement. Israel is being asked to show almost superhuman restraint when the Arabs block any agreement for joint development of the Jordan's water resources, and then the U.N. blocks Israel's effort to develop a portion of those resources within its own boundaries. It is two and a half years since the Security Council urged the canal work be stopped. Israel cannot accept economic strangulation forever.

A strong United Nations initiative, backed by both the Soviet bloc and the West, is clearly needed to bring about a fair territorial settlement, fair solutions of the refugee and Jordan river problems, and a definitive peace.

The U.N. cannot afford to delay much longer.

What's Your Line?

When people refer to an odd-job man, little do they reck how odd a job can be, unless they have browsed through a charming volume entitled Dictionary of Occupational Titles. The jobs of the strong liquor man and the anti-squeak man are only two among 12,000 job classifications listed in the volume, a standard work in employment service offices.

The strong liquor man has an odd job indeed. He pumps caustic soda, carbonate of potash and other chemical solutions to processing departments. But the job of the anti-squeak man is even odder. He pursues his silent, squeakless way brushing melted paraffin on shoe outsoles—to prevent squeaking.

And as for the job of working up a Dictionary of Occupational Titles, we don't know whether it is included in the Dictionary of Ditto, but there's a real odd job for an odd-job man.

Without Batting an Eye

The Republicans were running the show at the Missouri State Capitol back in 1924 when Boyd F. Carroll became the Jefferson City correspondent of the Post-Dispatch. Arthur M. Hyde, a political bright light from Trenton, had been the Governor of the early '20s and Sam A. Baker was about to take over.

In the third of a century that has passed, Correspondent Carroll has seen a lot of a lot of Governors—Caulfield, Park and Stark, the two Forrests, Donnell and Smith, and the only two-term executive, Phil M. Donnelly. That means a lot of legislative sessions, too—some 16 regular sessions and a raft of special sessions to meet emergencies, to say nothing of literally countless state political conventions, primaries and elections. And if there have been some dull moments, the record shows plenty that were anything but dull for the span includes the rise and fall of Boss Pendergast, the heyday of the utility lobbyists, as well as their comeuppance, the insurance scandal and scores of other news breaks.

Boyd Carroll has covered it all and in this instance "covered" takes on additional meaning since few reporters have ever been more thorough in marshalling their facts. So we are glad that the University of Missouri is honoring Mr. Carroll at Journalism Week this year—glad because it recognizes him personally and glad because it emphasizes the importance of the careful, persistent reporting of state affairs.

Our guess is that Boyd Carroll will take his award in stride, without batting an eye, just as he has taken the parade of political big wheels who have come and gone while he stayed on the job of digging out the news in Jefferson City.

A Watch-Dog Grand Jury

Other courts and other grand juries across the nation should note the importance of the instructions given to the grand jury here by Chief United States District Judge George H. Moore.

Judge Moore has asked the new jury to conduct a continuing investigation of compliance with the election laws in this campaign year. He has asked the jurors to keep an eye on what men and money might do to influence the vote.

The charge covers a lot of territory. "Find out," he said, "what has been done by industrialists, munitions makers, labor unions and lobbyists in Washington in an attempt to influence elections in our state."

Political, social or economic position will be no bar to inquiry. Too often, Judge Moore asserted, only the "lowly ballot stuffers" are prosecuted while those "who give the orders and who provide the illicit funds. . . . escape and go scot free."

Judge Moore's words are based on long experience with politics and elections, and they echo history which should serve as a warning for 1956. It is, of course, too early to predict what the grand jury may discover about illegal election influences in this year. The campaign is just getting under way.

But the grand jury has begun work. It will remain at work in the tight anxious months when the candidates are chosen and the rooms are filled with smoke and the self-seekers attempt to buy either men or favors in contradiction to the will of the electorate.

In short, this grand jury will serve as a kind of watch-dog committee on elections and police for the voters. Whatever the jury may or may not find in the way of election frauds, those who would distort the democratic process are warned to think twice.

The Citizens'-Tucker Ticket—IV

If the ward politicians of both parties are able to elect their own slate of freeholders they can undermine the civil service system in city employment and expand the patronage lists.

But if they fail—if the people elect 13 freeholder candidates of the high caliber of the ticket supported by the Citizens' Committee and Mayor Tucker—there is a good chance that patronage will be seriously curtailed if not eliminated altogether. The pros are concerned, and no wonder.

In our opinion St. Louisans can most effectively counter political deceit and trickery by voting for the entire Citizens' ticket. In the last few days we have discussed the qualifications of nine of these 13 uncommitted candidates. Herewith are sketches of the four others:

Mrs. Conrad Sommer, housewife and former child welfare worker, was president of the St. Louis League of Women Voters when the last freeholder board was in session. In that capacity she attended most of the deliberations, thereby acquiring a detailed working knowledge of the Charter's shortcomings. She was educated at Southeast Missouri State Teachers College, the University of Chicago and Washington University. She is a member of the Board of Children's Guardians.

George L. Stemmler, an attorney, was co-counsel to the last freeholder board and, like Mrs. Sommer, enjoys a thorough understanding of the ground covered by that group. A former City Counsellor in the Kaufmann administration, he also has been close to the practice as well as the theory of city government in St. Louis. He is a former president of the Bar Association of St. Louis.

William A. Webb, executive secretary of the AFL Central Trades & Labor Union, is another candidate with more than a passing knowledge of the last freeholder board. As executive secretary of AFL Firefighters' Local 73 he made frequent appearances before the old board. He is one of the more responsible leaders of organized labor in St. Louis, and is serving the city as a member of the Council on Human Relations and the Bond Issue Supervisory Committee.

Frank L. G. Weiss, a North St. Louis business man, brings the point of view of the small merchant to the Citizens'-Tucker ticket. He operates a hardware store on the near North Side and is a past president of the Greater St. Louis Retail Hardware Association. He is vice president of the North St. Louis Business Men's Association, and has been a leader in Kiwanis activities in the Hyde Park and Northwest clubs.

Election of the 13 freeholders supported by the Citizens' Committee and the Mayor stands to assure St. Louis of an impartial, thoroughgoing approach to the charter problem. Election of the slate supported by the politicians will not. The issue is as simple as that.

Committee Seats That Barkley Filled

When Alben W. Barkley returned to the Senate in January, 1955, after his term as Vice President, he went to the bottom of the seniority list. But that was a technicality only. His Democratic colleagues saw to it that he was restored to his old committees and they were two of the most important in the Senate—Foreign Relations and Finance.

Now that the widely-esteemed Kentuckian has passed from the Senate scene, seats on these committees are to be filled. They will be filled by moving other Senators up as Anderson of New Mexico and Neely of West Virginia took the Kilgore vacancies on Appropriations and Judiciary and Symington of Missouri moved into the Anderson seat on Agriculture.

Alben Barkley was a wholesome, steadying influence in any congressional committee and this was particularly true on Foreign Relations. The Democrats owe it to the country as well as to themselves to make the best possible assignments to the committee seats that Kentucky's Barkley filled so well.

About-face by Secretary Wilson

Two admissions brought out in rapid succession at the Senate air power inquiry reveal that there was indeed ample cause for conducting the investigation.

Secretary of Defense Wilson has reversed his stubborn position that all was well and now concedes that Soviet Russia is outproducing the United States in intercontinental jet bombers. Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, Strategic Air Commander, discloses that our big bomber production program has been lagging badly and that "based on present programs" the relative strength of his big bomber command is expected to drop.

Yet it was only last July that Secretary Wilson, answering criticism of his defense program, told a press conference, "Obviously I think the program is about right or I'd be advocating a different one." It was about this time that criticism of his guided missile program began to grow. This led to the resignation of one of his Air Force assistant secretaries, Trevor Gardner, who felt proper research and development was not being carried out, and the appointment of a guided and ballistic missile expediter.

Now Secretary Wilson admits Soviet bomber production is, although "not very high," forging ahead of that of the United States. His concession is followed by some highly important details added by Gen. LeMay. Only two of 17 B-52s produced in the last three months have been accepted by the Air Force. The reason: "a component failure" for which a solution belatedly has been found. And only 41 of 57 of these successors to the B-36 were accepted before last January.

Thus Senators Jackson of Washington and Symington of Missouri, who played a major part in bringing about the air inquiry, appear to have been on solid ground when they led the wave of criticism that is currently washing over the Defense Department. The inquiry should go on until the American people are fully apprised of the status of our air power.

Continued Story

Circuit Judge J. Casey Walsh has overruled a defense motion seeking to dismiss the indictments charging Police Capt. William Greenspan with accepting bribes from brothel operators, but the case has been continued again.

Seeking delay is often a standard defense practice but the police bribery charges are too important to be continued on and on. The indictments were returned last October. Meanwhile two prosecution witnesses say they have been approached in connection with the investigation, and one witness said she was warned not to testify.

In fairness to all concerned the police bribery cases should be brought to trial as soon as possible. Justice is best served by reasonable speed.

THE WEATHER HAS CHANGED, MR. SECRETARY

Barkley Wanted to Live to See—

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Former Vice President coveted for this country a peaceful future, without religious or racial bigotry, with comfortable homes for all, an even chance for health, and development of all our river valleys for water and soil control and power.

From 'That Reminds Me,' by Alben W. Barkley (Doubleday & Co., Inc., 288 Pgs.)

I should like to live to see all our great river valleys improved for navigation, flood control, soil conservation, and power.

Under the Constitution, Congress possesses the exclusive power to regulate commerce. All our navigable rivers are highways of commerce.

They are under the exclusive jurisdiction of Congress and the Federal Government. No person can build a bridge or other obstruction in or across them without the consent of the Federal Government.

Alben W. Barkley

They belong to the people. They should never be allowed to come under the control of private interests.

If every river valley that is feasible for such development could be developed as the Tennessee Valley has been, with similar results, the standard of life throughout the nation would be immensely advanced. No such development can take place except by the Federal Government. This cannot be done at once; it would have to be a gradual process. But it is as legitimate a conception of the functions of government as the regulations of banks or the carrying of the mail.

I should like to see every American family living in a comfortable home, and every American child born and reared in an atmosphere sufficiently wholesome to guarantee an even chance for health and intellectual and moral development consonant with the responsibilities of American citizenship.

I should like to see the world at peace where the inventive genius of man would be utilized to improve the conditions of life throughout the world. I should like to live to see the pledge of every nation respected by every other nation because it was made in good faith and observed to the letter.

I should like to live to see the day when religious and racial bigotry and intolerance would give way to the universal recognition of the rights of every man and woman regardless of race, creed, or color.

Throw the Bums Out!

From the Oregon Labor Press

The time has come to pitch the thugs and racketeers out of the labor movement. They have no right to be among us, anywhere in the country. They soil our good name. Throw them out!

Many years ago, the AFL and CIO did a thorough housecleaning job on the Communists and fellow-travelers in our ranks. Our leaders and rank-and-filers had the courage to fight a pitched battle with the Commies, and to sweep them out of the house of labor.

But there are still a few vermin—a handful of racketeers and thugs—hiding in the basement of our house.

Recently the nation was shocked to read about the brutal acid-throwing attack on labor columnist Victor Riesel, who was investigating corruption in a New York union. A day or two earlier, a national magazine told the sordid story of racketeering in other so-called unions in New York and the Midwest.

The result: all of organized labor got a black eye.

Union members are ashamed to have such acts attributed to anyone connected with organized labor. Doubts are raised in the minds of the general public about the integrity of unions. And the professional union-haters gleefully scoop up another handful of ammunition to use in their never-ending campaign to discredit organized labor.

Who has the responsibility for cleaning out these foul-smelling little nests of corruption? The responsibility belongs to the international unions and to the national leaders of the AFL-CIO.

If one local union is corrupt, other local unions in the same city and state are virtually powerless to clean up the mess—no matter how they may suffer from guilt-by-association. State federations of labor and central labor councils have no police power over the local unions affiliated with them.

But international unions have the power—and the duty—to clean out corruption wherever they may find it among their locals. They have the power to suspend a local union's officers, to insist on election of new officers, to place a local union in "receivership" or to revoke its charter.

(Just last month, the Retail Clerks International Union suspended officers of a New York local who had been accused of extortion. Of course, this swift and decisive action got almost no attention in the nation's press, while the attack on Victor Riesel made headlines across the country.)

The AFL and CIO have proved that they can act decisively against racketeer-infested unions, just as they cleaned out the Communists years ago. The AFL expelled the racket-ridden east coast International Longshoremen's Association in 1953. The AFL-CIO has a strong and clear-cut code of ethics in its constitution.

We urge the national leaders of labor, in the name of all clean and democratic unions, to act swiftly to remove a few rotten apples from our barrel.

'Off to Bolshoi'

From The Providence Journal

There was a Rome before there was a Moscow, and the Romans have good reason to get sore at the Premier for being so bold as to claim it took longer to build Moscow than Rome.

But the really alarming thing about the Bulganin bon mot is that it may spread. Nikita, for instance, with 15 martinis or so under his belt, might essay a czardas and yelp, "Off to Bolshoi." Then there could be "Like hauling coals to Yakutsk" or "Byelorussian Baked Beans" or "Tiflis Scrapple" or the "Main Line of Magnitorsk." Just no end of possibilities.

Between Book Ends

Calm Amidst the Unrest

REMEMBER THE HOUSE, by Santha Rama Rau. (Harper, 241 pgs., $3.)

This is a novel of India at the precise time that that country was gaining its independence from Great Britain. It is not a story of the unrest and uncertainty of that momentous time, but rather a personal one of a group of upper class Indian people and their adjustment to the changes. It is written in the first person and deals with the family and friends of the young Indian girl telling it, and presumably with the author.

Miss Rama Rau is a young Indian woman who was educated in England and the United States, and now lives in New York with her American husband and son. She has written three other books about India, all in her personal experience, but this is her first novel. In effect it is not unlike her specifically expository books and the style is just as lucid. It is more an expository novel than one of character delineation and development, or dramatic incident and impact. There are only three or four definitely dramatic situations and they are handled with the rather calm detachment that is often characteristic of Indian writing, and is especially true of Miss Rama Rau's.

Santha Rama Rau

She develops more than usual detail in describing the various facets of life in India, and several of the accounts are quite fascinating—specifically, the wedding of the heroine's best friend, the live burial of a Yogi, a north country native celebration, and the death and funeral of her father. The adjustment of Americans in India to the country and the Indians sets a strong thematic current in the early part of the book; then, the life and relationship of the leading Indian characters themselves make up the rest, with the Americans, oddly forgotten, in effect.

It moves with the calm pace and unexcited attitude often associated with Indian life, and the finale is an artistic, if unstated, example of the traditional resigned adjustment to that life.

Wise Counsel for Parents

FACTS OF LIFE AND LOVE FOR TEEN-AGERS, by Evelyn Millis Duvall. (Association Press, $3.50.)

Too many parents these days take the view that children are now so sophisticated that they no longer need to be told the facts of life and love. The truth is that while children do admittedly know more on these matters than earlier generations did, they do not possess mature enough judgment to assess that knowledge properly. And mature judgment is precisely what Mrs. Duvall supplies in this admirable book.

She deals frankly with the physiology of sex, but sets it in its proper perspective against the broad background of love and marriage. As an experienced writer in this field, Mrs. Duvall knows how to address teen-agers without preaching or writing down to them, and the result is a book that offers a wealth of wise counsel to parents and their children alike.

The Typographical Art

FIVE HUNDRED YEARS OF PRINTING, by S. H. Steinberg. (Pelican Books, 85c.)

The author of this succinct survey of the art of printing is a British expert in typography. His treatment of the subject is chiefly from the British point of view, though occasional references are made to landmarks in American printing. Allowing for this specialized approach, the reader will find a great deal of information in this compact little book on the growth of printing and its key role in the spread of learning. He writes crisply and conveys his facts and opinions without a trace of pedagogy.

THOMAS L. STOKES

The Eternal Foot Soldier of Politics

WASHINGTON.

FORMER PRESIDENT HARRY S. TRUMAN said what was in the minds of all who knew Senator Alben W. Barkley when he observed that the beloved "Veep" who had become an American institution "died working in the harness."

"That's the way I hope to go," said Mr. Truman, and in that, we know, he spoke for his Vice President. Without knowing it, the Kentucky Senator acted out the perfect climax of his long and happy and fruitful career. He died in the midst of the last of the political speeches he so loved to make. And, in his last words, he wrote his own epitaph and did that, not premeditatively, but naturally in the course of his speech as he was referring to the fact that he was the "junior" Senator from his state in the body where he once had been his party's leader and afterwards its President officer as Vice President.

Barkley

Just before he collapsed while speaking to students of Washington and Lee, he said:

"I am willing to be a junior. I am glad to sit on the back row, for I had rather be a servant in the House of the Lord than to sit in the seats of the mighty."

Without False Pride.

This was, indeed, a fitting end to a career of which the lasting impression is his faithful service to our people, whom he loved, and his abiding loyalty to the vehicle through which he served — the Democratic party, in which he believed so strongly.

He was the eternal foot soldier, ready for whatever political task he was assigned, without any false pride.

One carries me back to the first time I ever saw Alben Barkley, which was also my first experience at a national political convention as a reporter, a very young reporter, wide-eyed and tireless. It was the famous "long-count" Democratic convention at Madison Square Garden in 1924.

Finally, after the nomination of John W. Davis, the eminent New York corporation lawyer, on the sixteenth day and on the 103rd ballot of that bedlam, weary Senator Tom Walsh of Montana, who presided over that political had witches' brew since it started, was excused and Representative Barkley of Kentucky was called to the chair. He was to handle the final job of this convention, which was to nominate a candidate for Vice President.

Balancing the Ticket.

Party leaders had settled, in a conference soon after the night session began, upon Gov. Charles W. Bryan of Nebraska. He was the brother of William Jennings Bryan, who three times had been the Democratic candidate for President.

At this convention he personally led the forces of William G. McAdoo of California in the contest for the nomination with Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York over which the convention had become hopelessly deadlocked.

The general idea was that Gov. Bryan, who was identified through his brother with the rank and file and was a Westerner, would "balance" the ticket to be headed by Mr. Davis, a Wall Street lawyer who was counsel for the J. P. Morgan and Co. banking interests.

The tired, harassed, dejected delegates, thinned by the desertion of many who had gone back home, were in an unruly mood and received the Bryan choice with none too good humor.

It was Representative Barkley's chore to lead them to swallow it. Finally, early in the morning, after several tempestuous scenes, there were enough switches from "favorite sons" and other aspirants to get the job done and the delegates streamed out into the night. In November, the party suffered one of its worst defeats. Those were dark days.

Brighter Days Ahead.

Alben Barkley came in time to see much brighter ones in the tumultuous triumphs of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Memory now picks out a time in 1948, after that Roosevelt era, when the party's fortunes seemed headed down. During that campaign, I crossed and recrossed in the South the trail of Senator Barkley, candidate for Vice President, as he stumped for the Truman-Barkley ticket.

Among other places, at Nashville one day, where, with a convoy of only three newspaper reporters, he was taking off in a small plane to fly over the mountains to Harrodsburg, Ky.

This comes back as a vignette of the wandering political Ulysses who was faithfully canvassing the byways and the wilderness roads, the slogging foot soldier in a cause already given up as lost by all but two men, he and Harry Truman, who dared to disagree with Dr. George Gallup that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York was a "shoo-in."

From the unexpected Truman-Barkley 1948 triumph, before the party went into its present eclipse in 1952, memory jumps me back to a service that Senator Barkley performed for Franklin D. Roosevelt, in 1936.

He Swung a Jawbone.

Senator Barkley was assigned to open the campaign for reelection of Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska, former Republican and a political Independent whom President Roosevelt was supporting despite the fact that Democrats had a candidate in the race, young Terry Carpenter, a first-term member of the House of Representatives in Washington.

The meeting was in a big auditorium in Omaha. Rumors were about that some of Carpenter's henchmen were going to try to break up the meeting. Terry Carpenter, himself, sat on the platform among honored guests.

Senator Barkley rose to the occasion with one of his masterly campaign speeches, with its change of pace from political doctrine to humor to pathos and back around the circle again. He held his audience—and this reporter—enthralled for two hours.

Anybody would know that any attempt to disturb that flow of oratory would have failed completely. So nothing happened and the Senator shouted on uninterrupted to the end, slaying Republicans by the score with his jawbone, and getting the Norris campaign off in a way that led to its eventual success.

And so, through the years, Alben Barkley was always ready for the call until he got the final one at Lexington, and took it smiling.

PARK OPERA TO HAVE 2 DANCE DIRECTORS

Change Made Because Many Shows Require Modern Ballet Numbers.

Modern dance and ballet at the Municipal Opera this season will be handled by two directors instead of one because of the large number of productions requiring ballet numbers, it was announced today.

Dan M. Eckley and Ted Cappy, both formerly associated with the summer theater in Forest Park, will divide the handling of modern dance.

Eckley, who has been associated with Broadway productions and summer theaters, will be in charge of modern dances for the first six shows and Cappy, who has done choreography for Broadway shows and television productions, will handle the final five presentations.

Both men will work under Anthony Nelle, choreographer and ensemble director for the opera. Nelle will supervise final auditions Monday at the American Theater for candidates for the opera's dancing chorus.

Eckley returned to the St. Louis opera as modern dance director last season after having been dance director here from 1942 to 1947. He is a graduate of the University of California, where he produced all the campus musicals for three years.

Cappy was with the summer theater as dance director in 1949, 1952 and 1953. Besides his work on Broadway and in television, he served as an assistant dance director for the all-soldier musical, "This Is the Army."

Productions that will be under the direction of Eckley are "Annie Get Your Gun," "Paint Your Wagon," "The Student Prince," "Hit the Deck," "The Great Waltz" and "The Chocolate Soldier." Cappy will work on "Wish You Were Here," "Kiss Me, Kate," "An Evening of Great Music," "Peter Pan" and "Kismet."

WASHINGTON U. SCIENTIST WINS ELI LILLY AWARD

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HOUSTON, Tex., May 3 — Melvin Cohn, associate professor in the department of Microbiology of the Washington University School of Medicine, was named yesterday as the recipient of the annual Research Award in Bacteriology and Immunology presented by the Eli Lilly Co.

The award, given to a young microbiologist who has performed outstanding research in his field, was made during the fifty-sixth general meeting of the Society of American Bacteriologists here.

Cohn, who received his Ph.D. degree in biochemistry from New York University in 1949, has been engaged in studies on the normal growth of cells and mechanism of protein synthesis. He is now extending this work from bacterial cells to animal and human tissue cells under grants from the American Cancer Society and the National Science Foundation.

Detroit Widow Named American Mother of Year --- Adopted Ten

MRS. JANE M. PRITCHARD

NEW YORK, May 3 (UP)— A 67-year-old machinist's widow who has reared 11 children, all but one of them adopted, and has cared for 34 other girls as foster parent, yesterday was named American Mother of 1956. She now is caring for 17 of the girls, wards of Detroit's juvenile court, in her home.

Mrs. Jane Maxwell Pritchard of Detroit will be guest of honor at the annual mothers conference here May 7. She was chosen the outstanding mother of the year by the American Mothers Committee.

Mrs. Pritchard, a native of Youngstown, O., was only 10 when she took over all her family's household duties, because her mother was ill. At 19, she married machinist Benjamin Pritchard and worked with the children of poor families until she had a family of her own.

Lost First Baby.

The Pritchards lost their first baby and began adopting children because they were told they could have no more of their own. After adopting two girls, however, they had a son of their own, Dale Pritchard, now 38.

A family of five children of a dying mother was the next to be adopted by the Pritchards. They were followed by a boy from a broken home and twins, now 14.

Her husband died in 1947.

In addition to the work involved in having so many young people around, Mrs. Pritchard has been active in work at St. Mark's Methodist Church and in the Eastern Star, the White Shrine and Interracial Wesley-an Service Guild. She has served as a Boy Scout den mother and devotes much time to school activities.

Philosophy of Help.

Mrs. Daniel A. Poling, president of the American Mothers Committee, said that through a philosophy of mutual help, affection, work, study, prayer and play, Mrs. Pritchard was able to keep her family together after her husband died.

Mary V. Beck, president of the Detroit Common Council, wrote to the mothers committee praising Mrs. Pritchard.

"It is inconceivable how so much energy, patience, devotion, courage and love could be concentrated in one individual," she wrote.

Mrs. Pritchard's son also wrote words of praise for his mother.

"It was a privilege to be one of her children, to share in her love and affection," he said. "She is something to marvel at and my most prized possession."

TELLS OF ARTISTS' USE OF COPY-BOOKS

London Teacher Says They Employ Mental Patterns in Depicting Nature.

An artist depicting objects of the outside world uses a mental "dictionary" or storehouse of simple schematic figures, like those in copy-books for students learning to draw, E. H. Gombrich of the University of London said here yesterday.

Gombrich, professor of art history at the Warburg Institute, spoke at Washington University on the influence that artists' "pattern books" have had on the development of art since medieval times.

A specialist on psychology of art, Gombrich said the trained artist, when copying from nature, employs a simple "schema" or diagram already stored in his mind, and then corrects it to conform with what he sees.

Gombrich showed lantern slides of artists' copy-books dating from the seventeenth century and earlier to show the use made even by great artists, such as Rubens, of simple figures. He said the copy-books had not changed much, but the emphasis had changed.

Whereas the seventeenth century artist stressed the conventional pattern itself, as evidence of the similarity of forms and the harmony of the universe, Gombrich said, the artist of the nineteenth century and later stressed the individual differences between objects.

Gombrich pointed out that the onset of the scientific age, with its habit of looking directly at nature, did not eliminate use of preconceived patterns. He showed how Constable, the great English landscape painter of the Nineteenth Century, made a series of schematic clouds to assist him in his work.

"Earlier it was the schema or pattern that mattered," he said. "In the Nineteenth Century it was the correction of the pattern."

Gombrich said modern psychological studies had indicated that persons lacking in stored-up patterns could draw well when copying another drawing, but were deficient when trying to draw an object. His talk was under auspices of the Department of Art and Archeology.

PSYCHOLOGY GROUP OPENS MEETING

About 1000 Attending—Research Papers to Be Presented.

Research papers concerning many phases of psychology will be delivered at sessions of the twenty-eighth annual scientific meeting of the Midwestern Psychological Association, opening today at Hotel Sheraton-Jefferson.

The papers, mainly studies by psychologists and other scientists interested in human behavior, will touch on the fields of child and educational psychology, military and business applications of psychology, mental health and other areas.

Thomas E. Ewing of the University of Illinois and Charles H. Twitty, representing the Radio Corporation of America, will report on a study of attitudes toward parents, as expressed by both normal and maladjusted students.

Dr. Benton J. Underwood of Northwestern University is president of the association. Chairman of a committee on local arrangements is Dr. Marion E. Bunch of Washington University. About 1000 psychologists are expected to attend the meeting.

BARKLEY'S BODY TAKEN TO PADUCAH

PADUCAH, Ky., May 3 (AP) —The body of Senator Alben W. Barkley was brought home today in a bronze casket bearing a cross fashioned from white carnations, sent by President Eisenhower.

Six marines and an honor guard from the Paducah National Guard unit stood rigidly as a special 10-car train from Washington pulled into the station. Aboard was a party of about 100 including more than 40 Senators.

Among those waiting were Mr. and Mrs. David Barkley, the former Vice President's son and daughter-in-law, and their two children.

Mrs. Barkley was in the last car and was met by the Rev. William Evans, pastor of the Broadway Methodist Church where the funeral service was to be held this afternoon.

Paducah's schools were dismissed at noon in memory of Paducah's No. 1 citizen. Paducah's stores were closed at 2 p.m. for the rest of the day. Several industrial plants shut down during the funeral. Construction trades workers paused in their work in final tribute to the "Veep."

Former President Truman, Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee, Senator Stuart Symington of Missouri, Senator Lyndon Johnson of Texas, Gov. Averell Harriman of New York, and former Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois, a distant cousin of Barkley, were expected to attend the service.

The "iron man" of politics, whose colorful career covered 50 years, died of a heart attack Monday while addressing students at Washington and Lee University, Lexington, Va. He was 78 years old.

EDWARD N. BROWN DIES, FORMER FRISCO PRESIDENT

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 3—Edward Norphlet Brown, former president and chairman of the board of the St. Louis-San Francisco (Frisco) Railway who once controlled all railroads in Mexico, died at the age of 94 yesterday at his home here.

Mr. Brown, who joined the Mexican National Railways in 1885 and became president of the new company when all of them were merged in 1907, was the principal figure in long litigation after Frisco trustees sued him for $10,000,000 alleging the railroad's money was misused in stock market transactions in the mid-1920s. The United States Supreme Court upheld dismissal of the suit.

With him when he died were all of his children, William Raoul Brown of Springfield, Mo.; Mrs. William Selden of Coral Gables, Fla., and Iron River, Mich., and Mrs. William D. Moorer of Tulsa, Okla. A widower, Mr. Brown also is survived by seven grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

HENRY GRAF'S FUNERAL TO BE SATURDAY MORNING

Funeral services for Henry Graf, former president of the Independent Steel Workers Union here, will be Saturday at 9 a.m. at St. Michael's Church, 7622 Sutherland avenue, Shrewsbury, with burial in Calvary Cemetery.

Mr. Graf, 77 years old, died Tuesday at St. John's Hospital of a brain hemorrhage. He organized the union at the Scullin Steel Co. in 1947 and was active in its affairs until his retirement two years ago. Mr. Graf lived at 7827 Grove avenue, Shrewsbury.

Survivors include his wife, a son, two daughters and a stepdaughter.

The New York Times News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 3—The United States is expected to agree to a Romanian proposal to negotiate settlement of $88,500,000 worth of United States claims for war damages and property confiscation.

While declining to make any statement on the United States' reply until it is delivered in Bucharest, State Department press officer Lincoln White said that the Romanian gold bullion worth $13,000,000 which the United States seized last March is not subject to negotiation.

White confirmed reports that the Romanians, in a note delivered to the United States legation in Bucharest March 7, had suggested that talks on Romanian assets here and on improvement of trade relations be held along with negotiations on the United States claims.

Other officials said the Justice Department was preparing to seize also Bulgarian and Hungarian assets valued at $3,124,000 and $3,137,000 as partial settlement of United States claims against those countries.

RUSSIA MAY CUT ARMY DESPITE PARLEY DISCORD

LONDON, May 3 (AP)—The Soviet Union may announce a big cut in its armed forces soon in spite of the apparent deadlock in disarmament talks with the West, diplomats predicted last night.

This expectation apparently was based on secret talks which British Prime Minister Eden and Harold E. Stassen, President Eisenhower's personal representative on disarmament, had separately with Soviet Premier Bulganin and Communist party secretary Nikita Khrushchev in the Russians' 10-day visit to Britain.

Since the Russians' visit, Stassen also has had private meetings with Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet deputy foreign minister and representative on the five-nation disarmament subcommittee which is winding up its unsuccessful negotiations here.

Again Deadlocked.

A highly placed Western official said the subcommittee, again deadlocked, decided today to close its current talks after tomorrow's session.

The subcommittee is made up the United States, Russia, Britain, France and Canada. The present series of negotiations opened here March 19, but bogged down quickly.

Tomorrow's session likely will formally approve a report to the parent body, the U. N. Disarmament Commission in New York.

The report will contain the full transcript of the seven-week meeting and all the documents which were presented. These include American, Russian and British-French disarmament proposals.

In talks with Eden and Stassen the Soviet leaders have given the impression that they seriously want to cut down the burden of their great land forces which the West calculates exceed 4,000,000 men, informants said.

They added the Soviet program of industrial and agricultural development urgently needs manpower now in uniform. Additionally they have the feeling that the Russians have come to realize that new warfare techniques in the nuclear age have made the need for great land armies obsolete.

Also the Russians know the great propaganda value in an arms cut, these sources said.

Imitating West.

If the Russians do reduce armaments they will be copying what the Western powers did immediately after World War II.

Informants cited the case of the United States. American armed forces hit a peak of more than 11,000,000 men in World War II, and were cut back to a level of around 1,000,000 after the end of the war. As a result of the Korean war they were boosted to a present level of nearly 3,000,000.

The Russians have cut their military strength much more slowly and, their numbers are estimated not to have dropped below the 4,000,000 level.

"There is a need now to get back to our respective capitals and review the situation," a Western official said. "All the governments tend to move more on their positions toward disarmament between meetings than during them."

One American said the subcommittee probably would get a directive from the full Disarmament Commission to try again in six months.

Fission Control.

Delegates mainly have been exploring the control of future production of fissionable material used in making atomic weapons and hydrogen bombs.

The United States proposed freezing present nuclear stockpiles and whittling them down by turning output toward peaceful uses.

"Agreement on controlling the nuclear threat to the world is not around the corner," one source emphasized, "but we have made important beginnings."

LITTLE REACTION TO WARNINGS BY SAC'S GEN. LE MAY

on headlines—and thus on public attention.

Without public attention governments rarely if ever move, certainly not in an expensive direction, which would also involve an admission that they were wrong the first time.

Another Complaining General.

From a propaganda point of view, LeMay is so far emerging as just another complaining general. He now can join those scientists who have been warning that the Soviet Union is surpassing this country in the training of technicians of all kinds.

Their warnings were equally ominous and have received the sanction of Chairman Lewis Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission. But they have not elicited from the Administration a crash program to remedy the situation. Meanwhile, the long record showing the United States under-estimating Russian capacities continues to grow.

MOLLET WINS CONFIDENCE VOTE IN PENSION DEBATE

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Radio.

PARIS, May 3—Premier Mollet yesterday sidetracked an opposition move to kill the French Government's $400,000,000-a-year old-age pensions project by winning a 350-to-68 vote of confidence in the National Assembly.

The vote of confidence was taken on the motion of Independent Jean Moreau to let the old-age pension issue die by dropping it and discussing instead 1956 budgetary expenses to determine whether the pension outlay would result in inflation.

While the parliamentary maneuver against the Government's policy was overwhelmingly defeated with the help of both Communist and right-wing support, it appeared to be only the first test that the Mollet Cabinet must confront on the question.

Next week, Finance Minister Paul Ramadier plans to ask for ways and means to raise the necessary $400,000,000 — estimated to be a 10 per cent increase in the income tax—and it appears certain that Premier Mollet must ask for another vote of confidence.

POOR MAINTENANCE BLAMED FOR CRASH

C.A.B. Says Errors Caused Airliner to Falter — 28 Were Killed.

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Board today blamed a "series of maintenance errors and omissions" for the airplane crash in which 28 persons were killed and 46 injured at Seattle last Nov. 17.

The board directly charged the Seattle Aircraft Repair, Inc., a repair agency which had contracted for maintenance on the Douglas C-54 airliner, with "poor maintenance procedure, omissions during maintenance and lack of proper inspection."

When the plane was about 300 feet off the ground the No. 4 propeller surged suddenly and drew the plane to the right.

The pilot attempted unsuccessfully to feather the runaway propeller, only to have its revolutions sharply increased. He then made a crash landing.

The C.A.B. investigation showed that when the plane arrived at Boeing Field, the pilot instructed the repair agency to replace the starter mechanism for the No. 4 engine and to examine that engine to be sure it had not been damaged during earlier trouble at Billings, Mont.

The crew also noted an accumulation of oil on the right wing near the engines and told the maintenance workers to take corrective action. Without cleaning the oil from the plane and running the engines to determine the source of leaking oil, the C.A.B. said, the maintenance workers concluded from visual inspection that the leak came from the seals on the Nos. 3 and 4 propeller domes.

The C.A.B. noted that the helper working on the No. 4 propeller had recently been employed, and the certified mechanic in charge had not replaced dome seals for three years. Neither employe was familiar with the recommended procedures for such replacement work.

The report said the mechanic helper helped put the No. 4 dome in position, turned the dome retaining nut a few threads "and left the job to go home."

The C.A.B. said testimony showed that during this work the propeller was not feathered, as required by good practice, and the positions of the blade were not properly checked. The maintenance men said they did not perform the customary engine runup after the work because of their extremely heavy work load.

SEEKS TO FORCE TESTIMONY IN CASE OF MISSING WOMAN

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LOS ANGELES, May 3—A court order will be sought to compel Mrs. Marianne Beaman, social companion of investor L. Ewing Scott, to testify before the grand jury investigating the mysterious disappearance of Scott's wife, District Attorney S. Ernest Roll announced yesterday.

Mrs. Beaman, 46-year-old divorcee, has refused to answer grand-jury questions in the case of Mrs. Evelyn T. Scott, who disappeared almost a year ago. Scott, a former St. Louisan, is under indictment on charges of forgery and grand theft in connection with his wife's $600,000 estate.

District Attorney Roll also said he would seek a court order to direct that the missing woman's attorney produce her will and copies of her income tax returns for the grand jury. The attorney, Charles E. Beardsley, said he would produce the records only if the court ordered him to do so.

HOUSE PASSES MONEY BILL FOR COMMERCE AGENCIES

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP)—The House passed by voice vote and sent to the Senate yesterday a bill appropriating $1,382,003,000 to finance the Commerce Department and related agencies for the fiscal year starting July 1.

The bill was passed in the form recommended last week by the Appropriations Committee.

The total was $140,670,000 less than President Eisenhower had requested. Funds disapproved included $37,900,000 requested to build three experimental merchant ships, including an atomic-powered tanker.

CHESTER E. STOVALL NAMED TO HUMAN RELATIONS POST

Chester E. Stovall, director of industrial relations of the Urban League of St. Louis for 10 years, has been appointed executive secretary of the St. Louis Council on Human Relations, it was announced today by Mayor Raymond R. Tucker.

He replaces Donald Lowe, who resigned several months ago to take a position with the St. Louis Housing Authority. Stovall, a Negro, will assume his new position June 15. Beginning salary for the position is $6400 annually.

In addition to his position with the Urban League, Stovall is vice president of the Missouri Association of Social Welfare, a member of the board of the City Welfare Commission, Thomas Jefferson School in St. Louis county, the St. Louis Nursery Foundation and the Metropolitan Church Federation. He is married and has four children.

19 MAKE NEEDLESS LEAP AFTER 2 SHIPS COLLIDE

DOVER, England, May 3 (AP)—Two women and 17 men leaped for their lives today from the Norwegian motorship Hassel after a pre-dawn ship collision in the English Channel.

It turned out they could have stayed aboard. The 8000-ton Hassel and the 21,000-ton Liberian tanker Andreas V collided in a fog four miles off Folkstone. The Norwegian ship listed and began to sink by the stern.

The 19 on deck leaped to the bow of the Andreas as the two vessels were locked. Twenty-two others stayed aboard while the Hassel was towed safely to shore and beached. The Andreas was lightly damaged. The women were wives of the second and third mates on the Hassel.

CROWS INVADE ALBUQUERQUE

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—A Fish and Wildlife official says that crows are moving into the residential areas of Albuquerque. The gravel-voiced intruders, which used to make the valley farm land their quarters, are infiltrating into the plushier, clipped hedge and patio section of the city.

"They are extremely adaptable," the official said.

FRENCH EXPECT TO CALM ALGERIA WITHIN 5 MONTHS

Oct. 1 Target Date Would Give Authorities Time to Build Up Forces.

By HARVEY HUDSON

ALGIERS, May 3 (AP)—The French administration in Algeria has set itself a target of five months in which to restore order and regain the confidence of the Algerian people, an informed official said today.

The five-month period, expiring about Oct. 1, would coincide with the end of the good weather for troop movements in the mountains. It would also give the authorities the benefit of at least two or three months to build up military strength.

French Premier Mollet has refused to say how many more troops he plans, but the total based in Algeria is expected to rise to 400,000 or 500,000.

U.N. Opening Session.

In addition, the Oct. 1 date would be well before the opening Nov. 12 of the fall session of the United Nations, where strenuous efforts to bring up the Algerian independence issue for discussion are expected from the Asian-African bloc.

"What we want to do is to produce a revolution—but it must be our revolution, not the rebels'," the official said.

Resident Minister Robert Lacoste and his staff are workipg to spur public works construction, to relieve unemployment, to hasten land reform, to boost workers' wages and to give more Arabs government jobs. Officials believe they have already made a start in turning the tide.

As an example, they say tipsters on rebel activity are beginning again to volunteer information. This source of intelligence had been practically cut off.

Request for Help.

More and more villagers, too, are reported asking the French forces to defend them. This can be a source of embarrassment, however, for if a village asks for help and then is later attacked successfully by the rebels a real loss of confidence results.

One official said many rebel attacks in recent days had been limited to a settling of accounts between rival nationalist groups.

Intelligence sources have indicated the rebels may be running short of weapons, but that their greatest shortage is in food. One instance was cited of rebel leaders resorting to the use of pork—forbidden by the Moslem religion.

TEEN-AGE GANGS IN VIENNA PROVE MAJOR PROBLEM

VIENNA, May 3 (AP)—Teen-age rowdies — called "semi-strong ones" by the local press on the ground they are cowardly when alone and courageous only in gangs have become a major problem in Vienna.

Authorities and educators are heatedly discussing ways and means to curb the teen-age crime spree, but no remedy has yet been found.

Recently published statistics show sex crimes committed by juveniles have increased 900 per cent in nine years. Gangs of boys between 14 and 16 years have been rounded up by police for a series of thefts. In various districts of the capital several youngsters were injured in knife fights over girls.

Prof. Anton Tesarek, head of the Vienna youth office, suggested that two factors are responsible: (1) Many mothers are working and thus children and youths lack parental discipline. (2) An "acceleration of maturity" due partly to the influence of movies.

USES YARDSTICKS AS OUTSIDE AND INSIDE OF HOUSE

FORT OGLETHORPE, Ga., May 3 (AP)—Homer Parris built a house largely from wooden yardsticks. He does not know how many went into the outside as weatherboarding but the inside walls, ceilings and floors are made up of 47,600 yardsticks.

He got the sticks—culls and seconds rejected by the manufacturer—for use as kindling but then decided to install an oil burner and sought some use for the big pile of sticks.

He first used some as weather boarding on the back of the house but his wife liked the looks so well he decided to do all the weatherboarding with the sticks and then turned to the interior.

The wood strips came in varying types of wood and colors so he did the bathroom in flamingo and yellow; the walls and ceiling of the kitchen in unpainted sticks with kitchen cupboards in yellow and wine red; the bedroom with walls and ceiling and the living room maple throughout.

The floors of the house are three yardsticks thick, the walls two. Parris says the sticks are good insulation and they are standing up under the impact of the four young children.

GREEDY PAWNBROKER BILKED IN SHORTCHANGING 'DRUNK'

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., May 3 (AP)—City patrolman Bill Holt says a man staggered into a pawnshop, handed the operator a check for $35, and blurted: "Shay, buddy, can you cash thish check for $20?"

The pawnbroker, seeing a chance to pick up an easy $15, said, "sure."

Only after the check bounced did the pawnbroker decide the "drunk" wasn't so drunk after all. Holt added that he was too embarrassed to make a formal complaint.

AIRCRAFTS AND RAILS IN FRONT OF ADVANCE

Carrier Price Index Highest in 26 Years—Volume Expands.

NEW YORK, May 3 (AP)—Strong aircrafts and railroads boosted the stock market ahead today in an advance in which most major divisions had a hand.

Gains ran to around 3 points while losses amounted to about 2 points in key areas of the list.

The market started in a hesitant fashion but gained strength as it went. Prices were around their best at the close.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 90 cents at $190.90 with the industrial component ahead 60 cents, railroads up $1.90 at a new high since 1929 of $152.50, and utilities up 10 cents.

(Dow-Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was 514.03, up 1.25 points at the close; the 20 rails up 1.87 to 178.01 a new 26-year high and the 15 utilities 65.48, up .33.)

There were 1,201 individual issues traded of which 584 were up and 397 down. Eighty-six stocks hit new highs for the year and 38 touched new lows.

With the improvement in prices came an increase in activity. Volume for the day was 2,640,000 shares, compared with 2,440,000 yesterday.

Aircrafts rose as the House Appropriations Committee approved a defense spending program of nearly 34 billion dollars. Boeing moved close to two points while Douglas and General Dynamics were up around a point.

Steels improved, too, on the news with U. S. Steel, Republic Steel and Youngstown improving fractionally.

Oils, higher almost from the start, made good some gains as Gulf Oil moved ahead around three points and Standard Oil (California) and Royal Dutch up a point or better.

A feature was Hudson Bay Mining which jumped up over six points on news of a major strike of gold, zinc, copper and silver.

BUSINESS WORLD

Peabody Coal Co., reported net income of $2,048,266 equal to 25 cents a common share in the 1956 March quarter. This compares with net of $1,725,948 or 20 cents a share in the 1955 three months. AN INVESTING PROBLEM FOR THE MANY

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK, May 3 (AP).

UNITED STATES SAVINGS BONDS face new competition as Series E starts its sixteenth year.

Thrift is commanding higher returns these days. The savings banks and the commercial banks are raising the interest rates they pay the savers. The yields on corporate bonds and on nontaxable state and municipal bonds have been rising. Even worse, some other forms of United States Treasury Bonds are now yielding more than do the non-marketable savings bonds.

Sam Dawson

Series E, which started life March 1, 1941, as a form of the nation's financial preparation for defense, has had its ups and downs in popularity.

IN THE EARLY MONTHS of the bull market in stocks, investors tended to shun the plodding E bonds, seeking the higher returns they could foresee from buying common stocks. In recent months, as stock prices climbed faster than dividends, and the yields on stocks sank closer to the yield on corporate and Government bonds, the E Bond bounced back into favor. It still yields almost as much as many of the highly priced blue chip stocks. But the yield on Savings Bonds doesn't change. It comes to 3 per cent if they are held nine years and eight months, and 3 per cent thereafter up to 10 years of extended life.

BUT NOW, WITH OTHER BOND YIELDS CLIMBING, some of the marketable varieties of United States Treasury securities yield more than 3 per cent, and need be held only a little more than two years, compared to the much longer time money must be tied up in a Saving Bond before it pays 3 per cent. Some investors have been tempted to switch affections. The Treasury minimizes this, feeling that the E Bond will have a fairly steady appeal over the years. Some 8,000,000 employes of 42,000 business firms buy them on a payroll savings plan, accounting for about $160,000,000 a month. These payroll programs change little from month to month.

IN ALL SOME 40,000,000 PERSONS OWN E BONDS today with a total of 38 billion dollars. Some who bought their first bonds in 1941 are still holding on to them. Since they first started coming due in May 1951, about 20 billion dollars of Series E Bonds have matured, but only six billion dollars worth have been cashed in, the rest being retained and still drawing interest. The greatest sale of E Bonds came during the war, when their defense purpose was being stressed, and peaked at 12 billion dollars in 1944. After falling off in the early postwar years and again at the start of the Korean war, sales revived and topped four billion dollars last year.

THE E BONDS ARE A SURE AND CONSTANT THING. Their yield doesn't go down, as can the yields on marketable United States Bonds, corporate bonds and common stock. And their maturity value is stable, in contrast to the daily fluctuations in the market value of common stocks. Many an investor, however, is now lured by the inflation-hedging quality of common stocks and by the big shift in bond yields in the last year. A year ago United States Savings Bonds yielded more than most other Government bonds, and now they don't. The Savings Bonds yielded more than the average corporate bond, and now they don't. They once yielded considerably more than tax free state and municipal bonds, and now they yield only a little more and are subject to tax. In that sense the fifteenth birthday is a trying occasion for the old faithful E Bond.

OLD CROP SOYBEANS CONTINUE RETREAT

CHICAGO, May 3 (AP)—Heavy selling again swept over old crop soybean futures on the Board of Trade today, forcing prices down as much as the 10 cent daily limit at one time.

Other grains did not follow the action of soybeans. Wheat was quite easy at times but always encountered good demand. Corn, oats and rye were ahead most of the day.

Buying in corn, oats and rye followed approval by the House of Representatives of a measure which would boost price supports on corn grown in non-commercial areas, and also raise supports for oats and rye.

In cash markets soybean oil broke sharply to 15¾ cents a pound, down a cent. Loose lard also was weak.

A little selling entered wheat atfer C. M. Gavlin, crop statistician, placed winter wheat production at 720,435,000 bushels. This compared with 716,477,000 estimated by the Government a month ago.

Austria purchased 1,000,000 bushels of corn, giving some support to that grain.

ENGINEERS

What do you have to do to get the job you've always wanted?

It depends, of course, on the kind of position you've been aiming at . . . but if it includes these essentials:

. . . Encouragement of original work
. . . Professional recognition and development
. . . Clear road to advancement
. . . Association with a company known for engineering leadership and management

. . . then the Aircraft Gas Turbine Division of General Electric can help you to the job you want TODAY.

This is an Engineer's company

Each engineer in the Jet & Rocket Engine Sections is given a responsible assignment. The development of one phase of an advanced engine is placed in his hands. It's his incentive capacity and know-how that count. Assistance is provided for routine board work. An engineer here can see his ideas grow from blueprint to prototype stage.

And a professional man at AGT can develop along the line he chooses. Shift from one technical area to another, as his interests change and develop. Train for supervisory and managerial positions . . . or become a specialist in a chosen field. Company policies speed his promotion, through technical courses at the plant and a Full Tuition Refund Plan for graduate study.

AGED LONGER

Back in 1903 . . .
when the fabulous Peerless was the car in which to be seen. And it was then, as now, that famous Griesedieck Bros. beer was a great favorite of folks in step with the times.

That's why G/B is so refreshing!

Griesedieck Bros.

AGE—yes sir, that's what makes a good beer taste better. The finest beer is aged beer. That's why G/B is aged longer to bring out that quality lager flavor. Of course, we use the finest premium-priced hops, sun-ripened grains and crystal-pure water—but it is ageing . . . far longer ageing that makes the real taste difference. You'll notice it in G/B right away . . . a smooth, mellow taste that's unusually refreshing. Try G/B and see!

Homegrown Rhubarb at Its Best

By DOROTHY BRAINERD
Post-Dispatch Food Editor.

THERE is always a certain time when homegrown produce has reached full maturity but when it is still early in its season—and during that brief period the fruit or vegetable is at its very best.

Such is the case right now with homegrown rhubarb. Hothouse supplies have, of course, been in local stores for some weeks. The cool weather held back nearby field-grown rhubarb, but it is here now and is very fine. You will be wise to make the most of it before the weather becomes so hot that it affects the texture.

Homegrown asparagus also was delayed by the weather, but it will grow very fast under the warm May sun, and this rapid growth will assure superb flavor.

Another homegrown item which is excellent is spinach. There is an overlapping of the winter and spring types of spinach, and these extra supplies mean bargain prices.

Two other vegetables rate special mention quality-wise. One is corn; slightly higher in price but very fine. The other, Florida vine-ripened tomatoes which resemble our own homegrowns in flavor. These Florida tomatoes are now right at their peak, so try them if you want mid-season flavor in early May.

Celery is a good buy this week, and excellent values may be found in the smaller green peppers. New potatoes are increasing in volume, with the first of the California long whites just beginning to show up.

There is no appreciable change in eggplant, beans, cabbage or mushrooms. Okra, cauliflower and onions should be in the moderate bracket. Check broccoli on your list. It isn't a real budget buy, but it is fairly priced and of good quality. You will pay more than you have been recently for carrots, squash and the best lettuce.

Here is a real treat—it isn't often that we can enjoy delicious spring peas-in-the-pod at the prices at which they are now being offered. They are coming from California, and certainly do that state credit.

* * *

THAT fine flavor we have been talking about in citrus is still there, although prices went up sharply last week. However, more abundant supplies are expected to ease the situation somewhat.

Pineapples are plentiful, and continue to be very flavorful. Cantaloupes are expected to moderate in price after a climb; watermelons from Florida are good but still expensive.

The first of the Arkansas Blakemore strawberries are coming into this market, and Tennessee has started to ship in a very limited way as supplies from Louisiana taper off.

There are adequate supplies of Winesap, Delicious and Rome Beauty apples, with the smaller sizes representing a much wiser buy than the large, fancy ones.

Here is an interesting thing about apples. The McIntosh variety, greatly favored in the North and East, has not been too popular in this area, presumably due largely to the fact that it is a delicate apple which did not keep too well.

This situation apparently is about to be changed, as due to a revolutionary storage method McIntosh apples are now coming into the St. Louis market in excellent condition.

The fruit is kept in airtight storage rooms which are hermetically sealed after harvest. The apples quickly consume most of the oxygen in the room and convert it into carbon dioxide. The storage operator then maintains, by twice-a-day analysis of atmospheric content of the room, the exact balance of oxygen and carbon dioxide necessary to reduce "respiration rate" to a bare minimum, and in a sense put the apples to sleep and arrest ripening process so that they reach you in prime condition.

NO changes worthy of comment in the meat situation. There are excellent values in chickens, some cuts of beef and pork, and dry sausage items.

NEW in the Markets: Latest addition to a family of soft drink powders is an imitation fruit punch flavor. A delicious combination of fruit flavors have been blended to make a refreshing and very inexpensive drink. Certainly a timely item for busy mothers whose youngsters clamor for a cool drink as the thermometer starts edging upwards.

Three delicious new items in the frozen bakery goods line: French coffee cake with a butter and crumb topping which is delectable; a creamy cheese cake; and a devil's food cake with a thick layer of whipped cream between two layers of cake.

The coffee cake may be kept for about a week in the refrigerator, the other two items for several days, and of course all may be kept much longer in the freezer.

Rosy Rhubarb Cobbler

Tart and yet sweet, this Rosy Rhubarb Cobbler is easy to prepare. A simple homey dessert, it has enough character to give any meal a magical lift. Serve it in an attractive casserole and bring it to the table while still oven-warm; for party fare you may want to top it with whipped cream.

RHUBARB, pink and pretty, is one of the culinary treats of spring. Local retailers report that younger homemakers pass right by this delicacy; that it is the mature women who buy it.

These recent brides may well take a lesson from their mothers on this score. A rhubarb pie is nothing to be scorned—and if they think men don't like it, they might do a little sleuthing in restaurants and cafeterias where husbands choose their own foods without duress from the women in their lives.

Or, if they prefer to conduct their experiments in their own homes, they might test the reaction to this

Fruit Base:
Three-fourths cup sugar.
One tablespoon cornstarch.
One-fourth cup water.
One tablespoon melted butter or margarine.
Three cups rhubarb, cut into one-inch pieces.
Biscuit Topping:
One cup sifted enriched flour.
Two teaspoons baking powder.
One-half teaspoon salt.
Two tablespoons sugar.
One-fourth cup shortening.
One-half cup rolled oats (quick or old-fashioned, uncooked).
Two-thirds cup milk.
One tablespoon sugar.
Grated rind of one small orange.

For fruit base, combine sugar, cornstarch, water and butter in one and one-half quart baking dish. Add rhubarb.

For the biscuits, sift together flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Mix in the rolled oats. Add milk, mixing lightly until ingredients are dampened.

Spoon six mounds of biscuit topping over rhubarb. Combine sugar and orange rind; sprinkle over biscuit topping. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees) about 25 minutes. Serve warm. Yield: 6 servings.

* * *

Or combine rhubarb with strawberries for a combination that fairly sings of spring.

Strawberry-Rhubarb Pie
Pastry for two-crust pie.
Two cups washed, capped and halved strawberries.
Two cups rhubarb, cut in one-inch pieces.
One and one-half cups sugar.
One-fourth cup quick-cooking tapioca OR six tablespoons flour.
One-eighth teaspoon salt.
One teaspoon grated orange rind (optional).
Two tablespoons butter or margarine.

Line nine-inch pie pan with pastry. Combine dry ingredients, add to fruit and toss lightly until fruit is well-coated. Place strawberry-rhubarb mixture in pan and dot with butter. Fit on top crust, trim and crimp edges. Cut gashes to allow steam to escape. Bake in 425 degree oven for 40 to 45 minutes, until crust is nicely browned.

* * *

An easy-to-make pudding which is a combination of colorful rhubarb, bread crumbs and spices, topped with vanilla ice cream, is an old-fashioned dessert which even those young homemakers who scorn rhubarb may enjoy.

Rhubarb Pudding With Ice Cream
Two cups soft bread crumbs.
One-third cup melted butter or margarine.
One pound rhubarb, diced.
Three-fourth cup granulated sugar.
One-half teaspoon nutmeg.
One-fourth teaspoon cinnamon.
One-fourth cup hot water.
Vanilla ice cream.

Combine bread crumbs and butter. Arrange one-third of the mixture in the bottom of a one and one-half quart buttered casserole or individual casseroles. Cover with half the diced rhubarb and with half of the next four ingredients which have been blended together. Cover with one-third crumbs, remainder of rhubarb and remainder of sugar mixture. Top with rest of crumb mixture. Bake, covered, in a moderately hot oven, 375 degrees, for 20 minutes. Uncover and bake about 10 minutes longer. Serve with ice cream. Yield: six servings.

* * *

Rhubarb Strawberry Jam.
Two cups rhubarb, cut in one-half inch pieces.
Three cups sugar.
One quart strawberries.
One-eighth teaspoon salt.

Wash and stem berries; drain and crush. Measure two cups of crushed berries; add rhubarb, salt and sugar, and stir well.

Cook rapidly, stirring frequently, for about 30 minutes, or until jam gives the jelly test. Pour into hot jars and seal. Yield: three one-half pint jars.

* * *

Rhubarb Conserve.
Four cups rhubarb cut in one-half inch pieces.
Four cups sugar.
Two oranges.
Two lemons.
One-fourth teaspoon salt.
One cup chopped almonds.

Grate rind from oranges and lemons and extract the juice.

Blend rhubarb, rind, juice, sugar and salt. Boil rapidly until thick, about 20 minutes. Stir in nuts and pour at once into one-half pint jars or jelly glasses. Seal. Yield: four one-half pint jars.

Tender Young Chickens Cooked in French Style

PLUMP, tender young chickens cooked in the French style, stuffed elegantly and baked gently in milk, are easy enough for the bride and flavorful enough for the most discriminating cook.

Just stuff the chickens and place them in a baking dish. Pour fresh milk around the chickens before baking. Cover and cook, as the French describe it, "gently" to bring out the full flavor.

When serving, cut each chicken in half with poultry shears. (Note to those brides: this is simple to do, and looks impressive.) Serve one-half chicken with stuffing to each guest. Here is a fine dish for a bride's first dinner for four.

Poulet au Lait.
Two (two and one-half pound) broiler-fryers.
One-half cup hot water.
Two two-inch slices French bread.
One-half cup chopped pecans.
One-fourth cup raisins.
One-half teaspoon salt.
One-eighth teaspoon pepper.
Three cups milk.
One small onion, sliced.
One stalk celery.
One sprig parsley.

Remove all pin feathers from chicken. Wash and dry thoroughly. Cook gizzard and livers in boiling salted water to cover until tender. Drain. Chop into small pieces. Start oven at 350 degrees.

Pour the hot water over bread slices. Soak for five minutes, then squeeze dry. Mix bread, pecans, raisins, salt, pepper, chopped liver and gizzard together. Mix well and stuff cavities of two chickens with this mixture.

Truss chickens and place in deep baking dish or casserole. Pour milk around the birds. Peel onion; cut in slices and add with celery and parsley to chickens. Cover with lid or aluminum foil and bake for one and one-half hours or until tender. Baste chickens three or four times during baking period. Yield: four servings.

BABY FOODS PROVIDE PLENTY OF VARIETY

THE nation's baby "crop" is a booming one indeed; for the second consecutive year infant newcomers exceeded 4,000,000.

These babies certainly are the luckiest on record. They will live, on the average, 21.5 years longer than their grandparents who were born in 1900. Then the average life expectancy at birth was only 47.3 years; in 1953 it was 68.8 years. In announcing this good news, the Population Reference Bureau in Washington pointed out that girl babies born now in the United States will have a longer average life than boys.

No doubt these added years of life for babies born in 1955-56 will be due largely to expert medical care, but they also may be attributed in no small measure to the fact that national manufacturers of baby products have seen to it that today's babies are the best-clothed and best-fed in history.

Baby foods now contain all of the elements needed for a complete diet as well as wide variety. Offering the baby variety in his diet develops increased taste experience to start him on the road to right eating habits. If he learns to know, and like, many foods he will not only have a better chance of being well nourished, but he will find life simpler when he is an adult. Strong food prejudices can be a social liability.

Today's babies can test their taste buds on a wide horizon of flavors. Manufacturers now offer more than 70 varieties of baby foods. So don't force your baby to eat everything; let him exercise a little freedom of choice. But do give him the opportunity to taste every food in the gamut of strained and junior varieties.

Baby foods have come a long way from those five basic varieties introduced back in 1928. Peas, prunes, carrots, spinach and vegetable soup constituted the baby foods "department" on grocery shelves then.

Today the displays include not only strained and junior fruits, vegetables and soups, but such things as cereals, strained and chopped meats, junior dinners in various combinations of vegetables and meat, and desserts. Prices, too, are below those asked for the five products introduced in 1928.

The variety of items offered will now carry the young eater right through his first year, his teething and toddling, and up to the family dinner table.

Speaking of the family dinner table, experts urge that Junior's high chair be moved into the circle around the table for the evening meal, so that he won't feel that he is being left out. Little folks like to be part of this family hour, even though their special foods came along earlier. Given a teething biscuit, finger foods or one of his chopped fruits, Junior will happily join the group and learn to associate food with pleasant moments.

'Here's How I Fed You, Dear'

Three can be company. The toddler soon learns that she isn't shut out of companionship with Mother by new demands and baby schedules. Whether baby brother is being bathed or fed, big sister is deftly made to feel important and grownup. As she watches Brother being fed his starting cereal, the young lady enjoys her own snack of strained orange juice. National Baby Week is being celebrated through this Saturday.

MEAT AT ITS BEST

To panbroil meat correctly, place the meat in a heavy frying pan. Do not add water and fat and do not cover. Cook the meat slowly, turning occasionally.

Pour off the fat as it accumulates. Brown the meat on both sides and then season and serve immediately.

2 FUDGE TREATS

MILNOT Fudge and Sundae Sauce

Two sweet treats in one! Served hot, it's a heavenly sundae sauce. Just add extra sugar for the creamiest fudge you ever tasted! MILNOT is more concentrated than whole milk! It's creamier—more nutritious. Economical, too!

1 cup MILNOT — 3 squares unsweetened chocolate
1 cup sugar — 1 teaspoon vanilla
⅛ teaspoon salt

Combine all ingredients except vanilla in a saucepan and mix well. Bring to a boil. Cook, stirring constantly, for 3 minutes. Remove from heat and add vanilla. Serve hot. Yield: 1½ cups sauce.

To make Creamy Fudge add 3 cups confectioners' sugar to hot sundae sauce. Beat well and spread in greased pan. Cool and cut in squares.

A CAKE FROSTING MADE OF BROILED MARSHMALLOWS

Those miniature marshmallows that are so convenient to use have many interesting possibilities.

Broiled Marshmallows Frosting.

Three tablespoons butter or margarine.

Two tablespoons cream.

One-half cup chopped walnuts.

One cup miniature marshmallows.

Cream the butter or margarine. Add the sugar gradually and blend well. Stir in cream. Add walnuts and marshmallows, mixing lightly.

Spread on top of a nine-inch square cake which has not been removed from the baking pan.

Thrifty Note.

Pretty Spring Garden Cake

You will have a prize-winning garden, and a delicious dessert, when you make this chocolate-frosted fudge cake decorated with perky gumdrop flowers.

Here is a cake for your next party (especially a Garden Club meeting), as pretty as the flowers abloom out-of-doors these spring days. Gay gumdrop flowers are planted in a soft chocolate frosting.

Spread the frosting over top and sides of the rectangular cake, using a spatula to mark the "rows." Then with the aid of a toothpick (instead of a trowel) plant the colorful gumdrop flowers.

Spring Garden Cake.

One-half cup hot water.
One-half cup sugar.
Two cups sifted cake flour.
One teaspoon soda.
One teaspoon salt.
One-half cup shortening.
One and one-quarter cups sugar.
Three eggs, unbeaten.
Milk*.
One teaspoon vanilla.
Easy chocolate frosting.
Gumdrop flowers.

*With vegetable shortening, use three-fourths cup milk. With butter or margarine, use two-thirds cup milk.

Place chocolate and water in top of double boiler. Cook and stir over hot water until chocolate is melted and mixture thickens. Add one-half cup sugar and cook and stir two minutes longer. Cool to lukewarm. Sift flour once, measure, add soda and salt, and sift together three times.

Cream shortening, add one and one-quarter cups sugar gradually and cream together until light and fluffy. Add eggs, one at a time, beating thoroughly after each. Then add flour alternately with milk, beating after each addition until smooth. Add vanilla and chocolate mixture and blend.

Pour batter into 13 by nine by two-inch pan, lined on bottom with paper. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) about 40 minutes, or until cake springs back when touched lightly. When cool, spread Easy Chocolate Frosting over top and sides and stick gumdrop flowers in rows across top of cake.

Easy Chocolate Frosting. Melt three to four squares unsweetened chocolate and three tablespoons butter or other shortening over hot water. Combine three cups sifted confectioners' sugar, one-eighth teaspoon salt, seven tablespoons milk, and one teaspoon vanilla; blend. Add melted chocolate and butter and mix well. Let stand, stirring occasionally, until of right consistency to spread. If necessary, place bowl in pan of ice and water to hasten thickening.

Gumdrop flowers. For stems and leaves, use long gumdrops. Split each at one end into four sections. Stick a toothpick lengthwise through one section and spread out the other three. Cut round gumdrops into petal shapes, or use fancy-shaped gumdrops (spades, diamonds, hearts, and clubs), and stick these onto the toothpicks.

'MYSTERY DIP' WELL NAMED DUNK FOR WAFERS

Here is a "dip" that will have your guests wondering just what the ingredients might be. It is rightfully named

Mystery Dip.

One-half cup sour cream.
One tablespoon horseradish.
One-fourth teaspoon Worcestershire sauce.

Zippy Mayonnaise.

SWEET POTATOES IN AN UNUSUAL TYPE OF RECIPE

Cooked sweet potatoes are mashed and combined with tender pieces of prunes; then shaped into balls and rolled in gingersnap crumbs before baking. Try them with ham, since potatoes, fruit and ham are a natural threesome.

Ginger Sweet Potato Balls.

Five or six medium-sized sweet potatoes.
One-fourth cup hot milk.
Two tablespoons butter or margarine.
One teaspoon salt.
One cup cooked prunes.
One-third cup gingersnap crumbs.

Cook sweet potatoes until tender. Drain and peel when cool enough to handle. Mash potatoes with milk, butter and salt. Pit and cut up prunes. Stir into sweet potatoes.

Shape into balls (buttering hands) and roll in gingersnap crumbs. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 20 minutes. Yield: Four balls.

BRITONS BAITED KHRUSHCHEV, PRAVDA SAYS

LONDON, May 3 (AP) — Pravda accused leaders of the British Labor party today of picking a quarrel with Nikita Khrushchev in an attempt to head off the formation of an international Communist-Socialist united front.

Khrushchev, head of the Soviet Communist party, got into a row with Laborite leaders last week when he and Soviet Premier Bulganin were visiting Britain. The British party leaders suggested that Jews and Socialists were being persecuted behind the Iron Curtain and asked the Communist leader to help free those imprisoned.

Khrushchev angrily brushed aside the suggestions as "nonsense." He said there were no Social Democrats in the Soviet Union, and the fate of any elsewhere were no concern of his.

His reaction was regarded here as a blow to the Soviet drive for "popular front" alliances with Socialists and left-wing groups in western Europe. The recent twentieth congress of the Soviet Communist party set the formation of such alliances as one of its international objectives.

As quoted by Moscow radio, the Soviet Communist party newspaper said: "The aim of those who organized this anti-Soviet attack was to encourage the enemies of united action and working class co-operation in other west European countires.

"Such attempts are futile.

"Experience has already convinced many Social Democrat leaders in West European countries that unity of action and international co-operation of workers are the best way of insuring success in the popular struggle for a better future."

British Labor party leaders who attended the dinner with Khrushchev have denied they deliberately baited him. They said they were motivated by genuine hopes that he might do something for Socialists imprisoned in Soviet bloc countries.

EDEN REPORTED TO HAVE SOUGHT BERAN'S RELEASE

LONDON, May 3 (UP) — Prime Minister Eden personally pleaded with Russia's leaders for release of Archbishop Josef Beran of Czechoslovakia and 200 other anti-Communist leaders still jailed behind the Iron Curtain, the Manchester Guardian reported today.

It said Eden brought up a detailed list of imprisoned churchmen, political leaders and World War II military heroes in his talks last month with Soviet Premier Bulganin and Communist party leader Nikita S. Khrushchev.

Eden "seems to have succeeded . . . in making the point that people should not be imprisoned because of the opinions they held," the Guardian said.

No Denial by Eden.

Eden himself did not deny the report when he was questioned about it in Parliment. He said that "if one wants to get results," the matter should be kept confidential.

Eden's own spokesman and the Foreign Office refused to comment on the report.

The Guardian backed up its report with a detailed list of the men whose release Eden had requested. The list included:

Dr. Beran, archbishop of Prague and Roman Catholic primate of Czechoslovakia who was banished from the Czech capital in 1951 and since has been confined.

Lt. Gen. Kiril Stanchev, head of Bulgaria's wartime anti-Nazi underground, sentenced to life imprisonment in 1947.

Jan Jankovski, vice premier of Poland's government-in-exile in London during the war who was sentenced to eight years imprisonment in 1945 and has not been heard of since.

Air Marshal Karel Janousek, commander of the Czech air force in Britain in World War II who was jailed after he returned to his homeland and tried to prevent the Communist takeover.

Dr. Augustin Pacha, 75-year-old Roman Catholic bishop of Timiseara, Romania, who was arrested in 1949 and tried in 1951.

Eden's list apparently paralleled, in part at least, another accounting of Communist prisoners which leaders of the British Labor party tried to hand Bulganin and Khrushchev at a private dinner party. Khrushchev exploded angrily when Socialist leader Hugh Gaitskell brought up the subject.

Foreign Office List.

The Guardian said Eden's list was compiled by the Foreign Office before the Russians' arrival.

It first included the names of 20 Bulgarians, 27 Czechs, 61 Hungarians, 37 Poles and 49 Romanians, the Guardian said, but later was revised to eliminate those released in recent months.

The Foreign Office spokesman referred all questions on the Guardian report to what Eden said in Parliament Tuesday when he was asked about the Bulganin-Khrushchev talks.

"I am convinced that any attempt to deal in detail and in public with the topics which were dealt with would not lead to the result we all desire," Eden said then.

Eden referred to the Anglo-Soviet communique issed after the visit and said, "I do not think it would be helpful to add to this at the present time."

Soviet Cars Are Cheapest.

BUENOS AIRES, May 3 (UP) — Russian automobiles and trucks went on sale here yesterday at prices below those asked for comparable American and European cars. A four-cylinder, four-door sedan was offered for $3853 as against an average $4590 for similar British, Italian and German small cars. A special luxury duty of $2160 is paid on each of these cars.

HOSEA HARRIS FINED $2000 AS BET TAKER

Policy Game Operator Given 90 Days in Which to Pay Fines.

Hosea Harris, a kingpin policy game operator, was fined $2000 yesterday after pleading guilty to two lottery charges before Circuit Judge J. Casey Walsh. Harris was given 90 days in which to pay the fines.

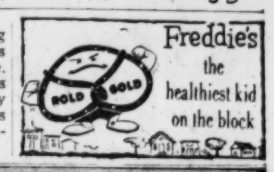

Harris, whose lottery operations with his brother, Ezra Harris, have been described by police as a $3,000,000-a-year business, pleaded guilty to two charges involving accepting bets. Last Jan. 21 police arrested him in the 1800 block of Carr street, after observing him receiving policy slips from several other Negroes.

A second charge was based on an arrest April 3 at Sixteenth street and Cass avenue by members of the gambling squad, who reported finding policy slips in his possession. The formal charges on which he appeared in court were occupying premises for the purpose of accepting bets. He was fined $1000 on each charge.

Following the recovery of jewels and furs valued at $80,500 stolen from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Johnson, 16 Portland place, in a burglary last Nov. 9, Hosea and Ezra Harris and a third brother, Robert, were indicted on charges of receiving stolen property. Their cases are pending in circuit court.

The Harris brothers have had many brushes with a succession of police gambling squads. In 1946 Hosea and four other Negroes were fined $200 each following a raid on the Domino Social Club, 1000 block of North Vandeventer avenue. In 1948 Hosea and Ezra faced gambling charges after a Negro housewife reported they refused to pay her $820 she won on a policy ticket.

In 1951 Hosea Harris was fined $1000 in circuit court on a plea of guilty of possessing lottery tickets. The fine was the maximum on the charge. Both Ezra and Hosea Harris were fined $300 each on lottery charges in 1950. Hosea Harris lives in the 4500 block of Washington boulevard.

TEENAGER CONTRIBUTION!

Lunching with the mother of five "schoolers" the other day, she told me two of her children are responsible each week for the planning and preparation of the sandwich fillings (and with an awareness of cost). "Who does what" is decided upon at the weekly "family meeting." This eliminates doubt and squabbling over a member's responsibilities. In the refrigerator when "Mom" left that morning were containers of: ground luncheon meat, raw carrot, mustard pickles, and salad dressing . . . deviled egg yolks and chopped whites . . . crumbled cooked bacon and chopped olives . . . ground raisins and dates blended with peanut butter and honey.

AS YOU LIKE IT

In spite of the great variety of meats in hundreds of different cuts and weights found in the self-service, refrigerated meat cases in your modern National Food Store, there are times and reasons for wanting an extra thick steak . . . a crown roast of lamb . . . 'specially cut butterfly pork chops . . . steak ground to order . . . or other tailor made cuts of meat for special occasions. You can get them by FINGER TIP CONTROL at National!

On every National self-service meat case, there is a button plainly marked. Push it, and one of the spotless men on our "meat team" responds instantly. In a matter of minutes, you can be on your way, secure in knowing the most satisfyingly tender, juicy meat that ever graced a table is yours, and cut just the way you want it!

Yours for satisfaction,

DRIVER KILLED WHEN AUTO HITS RETAINING WALL

Companion Is Injured — Airman, Girl, 13, Die in Accidents on Illinois Roads.

Eulos Glover, 6415 Manchester avenue, was killed early today and his companion, Mrs. Wanda Loveless, 908 LaSalle street, was injured when an automobile he was driving crashed into a concrete retaining wall at Tenth and Sidney streets.

Glover was driving north on Tenth, which jogs to the east at Sidney, and struck the wall, which is four feet high and 12 inches thick. The impact was enough to break it.

Mrs. Loveless suffered a head injury and possible internal injuries.

Glover, a retired railroad man, was 57 years old. She is 37.

M.-Sgt. Lamon Ferguson, stationed at Scott Air Force Base, was killed early today when the car he was driving struck the rear of a tractor-trailer on U.S. Highway 50 in French Village. Ferguson was going east when the truck made a left turn into the highway ahead of him, police said. He was 40 years old, and lived at Fletcher, Ky.

Becky Ann Lehman, 13 years old, of Sawyerville, Ill., was killed today when the automobile in which she was a passenger collided with a truck at the intersection of U. S. Highway 66 and Illinois Route 138 about 40 miles northeast of St. Louis.

Mrs. William Lehman, of Mount Olive, Ill., the girl's sister-in-law and driver of the car, was seriously injured. She was taken to Staunton (Ill.) Memorial Hospital. Becky Ann was the daughter of Mrs. Edna Lehman.

Fred G. Haper, of Alton, driver of the truck, was not hurt. Illinois state police said Mrs. Lehman drove into the intersection from Route 138. Haper, who was driving south in Highway 66, said he could not stop in time, they reported.

Richard Hemmert, Ottawa, Ill., was killed today when the automobile he was driving plunged off Highway 66 three miles west of St. Clair, Mo., in Franklin county, and rolled down a 50-foot embankment.

Hemmert, 23 years old, was thrown out of the machine, which rolled over him.

His wife, Barbara, 22, was seriously hurt and was taken to a Washington (Mo.) hospital. The pair, hitch-hiking, had been picked up by James W. Hughes, 6000 block of Arthur avenue, Missouri highway police reported. Hughes was not injured.

REDS IN INDIA DEFEND STALIN AS 'GREAT HERO'

MADRAS, India, May 3 (AP) —India's Communist party will continue to regard Stalin as a hero, delegates to the party's annual congress at Palghat told newsmen today.

"How can we join hands with Moscow leaders who throw mud on a great hero of the people because of personal animosity," delegates said, adding:

FINED $100, LICENSE TAKEN FOR DRIVING WHEN DRUNK

Phillip Leach, 3819 Shenandoah avenue, was fined $100 and his driver's license was suspended for 90 days yesterday by Police Judge Robert G. Dowd for driving when intoxicated.

Leach, a laborer, was arrested April 2 after his automobile collided with another machine at Washington drive and Des Peres avenue, police testified. He pleaded guilty.

FLASHING LIGHT USED IN MENTAL STUDIES

Washington U. Psychiatrist Describes Tests to Psychiatric Association.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, May 3 — Studies involving use of rapidly flashing light in a search for the physiological instability that may underlie mental illness were described to the American Psychiatric Association today by Dr. George A. Ulett of Washington University School of Medicine, St. Louis.

Dr. Ulett, associate professor of psychiatry and medical director of Malcolm Bliss Psychiatric Hospital, reported findings on 500 persons, some of them mental patients, who were subjected to intermittent flashing light in a procedure called "photic stimulation."

Subjects Face Screen.

Subjects were seated in a chair facing a translucent glass screen. Electroencephalographic recordings were made to show brain reactions as light, flickering on and off at high speed, played into the screen from the other side.

In some individuals, Dr. Ulett said, fast frequencies of the intermittent light brought about various types of uneasiness and both physiological and psychological symptoms. He said the procedure sometimes produced seizures in persons who had no history of mental trouble.

Dr. Ulett cited a case in which a normal person showed rather violent reaction to intermittent light when he had gone without sleep or food, but no such reaction after resting and eating. The psychiatrist speculated whether changes in metabolism could account for proneness to convulsion noted among schizophrenics.

Use of photic stimulation in mental patients sensitized by a convulsant drug appears to be a more effective type of shock treatment than routine electroconvulsive therapy, Dr. Ulett said. He said photo-shock produced gentler seizures and showed more lasting recovery.

Dr. Ulett also said investigations were being made of the use of intermittent light stimulus as a screening device for the armed services. This work is being done with the United States Air Force and is an effort to find a way of determining how military applicants—flying cadets, for example—will react under stress.

Interviewing Experiment.

A study conducted at Washington University School of Medicine to give a higher degree of objectivity to psychiatric interviews was reported to the association today by Dr. George Saslow and Dr. Joseph D. Matarazzo of Harvard Medical School, and Dr. Samuel B. Guze, assistant professor of medicine at Washington University.

In the St. Louis study, an effort was made to test a hypothesis made originally by Eliot Chapple, an anthropologist. Chapple's theory was that psychiatrists would have a better chance of reaching similar conclusions about a patient if each interviewer behaved in more or less the same way when talking to the patient.

The three set up interviews involving 20 patients. It was stipulated that at times the psychiatrist would talk freely, and at other times he would fall silent, in a pre-arranged pattern. The result was greater uniformity in patients' behavior, and less disparity in psychiatric findings, it was reported.

Two Interviewers.

As in the case of an earlier study by the same research team, the psychiatric interviewers were a young internist and an older psychiatrist. The patients, eight men and 12 women, ranged in age from 18 to 62. They were interviewed in the same room.

While patients were interviewed, reactions were measured by means of an "interaction chronograph," an instrument which permits an observer to record in precise time units the number of utterances, interruptions, nods, gestures and the like.

The investigation was supported by a research grant from the National Institute of Mental Health.

FOUND GUILTY IN SHOOTING THIRD TIME, GETS 4 YEARS

Azzie B. Cook was convicted of assault with intent to kill for the third time when he was found guilty yesterday by a jury which fixed his penalty at four years in the penitentiary. The trial was in the court of Circuit Judge Ivan Lee Holt Jr.

He was found guilty of the charge in 1952 and again in 1954, but both times the Missouri Supreme Court reversed the conviction and remanded the case to circuit court for a new trial. In 1952 he was sentenced to four years in prison and in 1954 the jury fixed his punishment at 27 years.

Cook was charged with the shooting Dec. 13, 1951, of a woman whose name then was Olive Jane Squires in a rooming house in which they both lived in the 5800 block of Page boulevard. Police testified Cook entered the rooming house as Miss Squires talked on a telephone in the hallway and threatened to kill his wife, who was standing nearby. He fired the weapon, the charge striking Miss Squires in the hip. Cook, 55 years old, did not testify.

JOSEPHINE MAKES ZOO NEWS

NEW ORLEANS, May 3 (AP) —Josephine made big news in the zoological world Saturday when she laid an egg. Superintendent George Douglass of Audubon Park said yesterday the event demonstrated that whooping cranes can breed in captivity.

Josephine and Crip, her mate, are two of the 28 whooping cranes remaining in the world, Douglass said, and the first to produce an egg in captivity. Josephine added egg No. 2 to the nest yesterday.

SPEED-UP IS URGED IN POLIO VACCINATION

Scheele Advocates Year-Round Program, Discounts Risk in Summer.

The New York Times News Service. (Copyright, 1956, by the New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON, May 3—The Public Health Service yesterday appealed to state health officers and the medical profession for an all-out, all-polio-season vaccination program.

Last year polio vaccination was halted in many places at the height of polio incidence on the theory that any needle-punch in a child already exposed to polio may be "provocative" and cause the disease.

But yesterday Dr. Leonard A. Scheele, United States Surgeon General, said that studies of Salk vaccine had shown that risk of provocation was minimal and the protection the vaccine offers far outweighs the risk.

Within 10 days after the first shot, Dr. Scheele said, the child at season's height will be protected from the exposures which come again and again, over months.

Dr. Scheele said that the greatly stepped-up program he is asking for is expected to be made possible by "substantially increased" future supplies.

He said he hoped that in the present priority group of children up to 15 years old and expectant mothers, some 53,000,000 individuals, would have had their two-shot protection by October. He even hoped that by then vaccine would have gone also to people in higher age groups.

Dr. Scheele said he is still suggesting postponement of the third shot to stretch the protection to as many persons as possible this polio season. The disease occurs mostly between April and November.

PAN-AMERICAN PROPOSES CUT IN OVERSEAS FARES

NEW YORK, May 3 (AP)— Pan-American World Airways today proposed new low-fare overseas flights that would cut $100 off a round-trip ticket between New York and Paris.

The proposed economy rates would be 15 to 20 per cent less than present tourist fares and 40 to 50 per cent below first-class tickets.

Pan-American President Juan T. Trippe said the airline would operate the new service on the same standards of safety and dependability as its first-class flights. However, passengers would be seated closer together, free meals eliminated and intermediate fueling stops scheduled for maximum payload.

Before the proposed rates can be made effective, they must be approved by the United States and foreign governments.

DEFINITION OF LAW GIVEN BY U.S. JUDGE

Massachusetts Man Speaks Here at Honors Day Banquet.

The Nazi and Soviet Governments were unable to convince their people that the law is what the state orders, United States District Judge Charles E. Wyzanski of Massachusetts said here last night.

Addressing the annual law honors day banquet last night at Hotel Sheraton-Jefferson, Judge Wyzanski said that "law is more than holding the reins for one side or the other."

"Our laws are dependent on the art of living together in neighborliness," Judge Wyzanski said, adding that statutes are intended not "simply to be laws but to regulate our lives."

He said this is a period of the greatest legislation in the history of the United States. He urged young legislators to remember that they are the ones who design our laws because "the laws the Congressmen present are written by our young people."

Judge Nick T. Cave of the Kansas City Court of Appeals was made honorary member of the Order of the Coif, law honorary society, at the banquet.

Students initiated into the society included Edward G. Beimfohr, 22 Faculty lane, University City; Thedore E. Lauer Jr. of Olney, Ill., and Kent D. Kehr, 6186 Pershing avenue.

Other students were honored or cited for work on the Law Quarterly, participation in the law school student governing organization and moot court and services with the Legal Aid Society.

30 NAGA REBELS KILLED

SHILLONG, India, May 3 (AP)—Indian government forces and rebel Naga headhunting tribesmen clashed in their biggest battle last weekend and 30 Nagas were killed, official sources said yesterday.

Nagas started a guerrilla war for an autonomous state several years ago. Officials said the Nagas had light machine guns, sten guns and rifles.

BRONSTEIN GIVES STOCK TO SCHOOL OF JOURNALISM

Sam Bronstein, who got his start in the money-lending business by capitalizing on the financial needs of newspaper men, plans to show his gratitude by giving stock worth $9000 to the school of Journalism at the University of Missouri.

"I'm going to donate 300 shares of Frisco Railroad common stock," he told the Post-Dispatch today. "The presentation will be made tomorrow. The stock is to be held in trust, and the dividends will be used for annual cash prizes to the three students who write the best news stories."

Bronstein made a fortune speculating in securities of the Missouri Pacific Railroad when it was bankrupt. He said he had created a trust for members of his family. After they die the principal will go to the journalism school.

"But that's a long way off," he pointed out. "I intend to do something now to show my old newspaper customers I haven't forgotten how they helped me, and vice versa. I guess you might say I want to smell my flowers now, not when I'm in my grave."

ARGENTINE POLICE RAID REDS

BUENOS AIRES, May 3 (AP)—Police raided Communist party headquarters in Buenos Aires Tuesday and 46 persons were reported arrested. No official information was available.

The newpaper La Razon said yesterday 38 men and eight women were arrested and bales of propaganda seized.

REPUBLICANS DERIDE STEVENSON ON BOMB

The New York Times News Service. (Copyright, 1956, by the New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON, May 3—The Republican National Committee charged yesterday that Adlai E. Stevenson's proposal for suspension of hydrogen bomb tests by the United States "provided dramatic evidence of addleheadedness on a life-and-death issue."

"Straight From the Shoulder," a G.O.P. committee publication, attacked Stevenson in the May issue sent to 350,000 party workers.

An editorial entitled "'General' Stevenson & the H-Bomb," took the 1952 Democratic presidential nominee to task for his speech before the American Society of Newspaper Editors recently, in which he said a temporary cessation of H-bomb tests would demonstrate American sincerity about disarmament plans. The Democratic contender said the Soviet Union had given every indication it would go along with such a bar.

"Stevenson's timing was as poor as his reasoning," the Republican paper declared.

It noted that within a few days of Stevenson's speech, Nikita S. Khrushchev, Soviet Communist party chieftain then in London, forecast the Russians would build a guided missile with a hydrogen warhead, which could hit any point in the world.

"We shudder to think of the course 'General' Stevenson would steer in these perilous times if this plan, which would hand over the initiative to the Russians, is an example of how his mind functions," the editorial concluded.

The G.O.P. journal said that President Eisenhower had to move "with dispatch" to undo the harm of the Stevenson statement. Rejecting proposals for a bar on hydrogen bomb tests, Mr. Eisenhower said such research was linked inseparably with development of guided missiles.

PRESIDENT TO GIVE TALK AT BAYLOR UNIVERSITY

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP)—President Eisenhower will make an address on "important phases of international affairs" at Baylor University commencement exercises May 25.

Announcing this today, the White House said the President would receive an honorary doctor of laws degree at the ceremonies in Waco, Tex.

The invitation for Mr. Eisenhower to speak was extended by the university's president, Dr. William R. White.

Mr. Eisenhower plans to fly to Waco and return on the same day as the speech.

$430,000 APPRAISAL PUT ON TILLES PARK

Report Made for County After City Indicated Willingness to Sell.

Tilles Park was appraised at $430,000 in a report made today to the St. Louis County Park and Recreation Advisory Board by Roy Wenzlick & Co., real estate appraisers.

The appraisal had been authorized by the County Council after the City of St. Louis, owntr of the park, had indicated a willingness to sell it.

Included in the appraisal figure were the 58.8 acres of land valued at $4750 an acre, together with improvements of various kinds. The figure also included a life interest in 7.4 acres not now used for park purposes. The interest, held by one of the heirs of the original Tilles estate, was appraised at $26,940 after a discount for deferred possession was applied to the present value.

In its report, the company concluded that the highest and best use to which the park property could be put was its present use as a public park because of the extensive improvements for park purposes. Such a value for park purposes was considerably in excess of what it would bring as subdivision acreage, the report stated.

Improvements listed included two shelter houses, a park keeper's residence and garage, a frame tool house, two comfort stations, tennis courts, barbecue pits, gate tower shelters, walks, driveways and parking areas. The 7.8-acre tract held by the life interest includes two residences, a barn, garage and other structures.

G.O.P. CAN WIN WITH 50,000 MORE VOTES, HOCKER SAYS

Lon Hocker, a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor, criticized Missouri's present Democratic administration in a speech last night and said a change of 50,000 votes in St. Louis and St. Louis county alone would result in a Republican victory in November.

"Don't worry about the rest of the state," he said. "That will take care of itself." Hocker spoke at a meeting of the St. Louis County Young Republicans Club.

There has been insufficient co-ordination of the work of the various state hospitals, with the result that some—including the St. Louis State Hospital—are badly overcrowded and others have room to spare, he said, adding that the over-all handling of hospital activities should be more business-like.

He noted that only three of 112 recommendations made by the State Reorganization Committee (the "Little Hoover Commission") have been acted upon.

EISENHOWER SENDS H-BOMB MESSAGE TO HIROSHIMA

HIROSHIMA, Japan, May 3 (AP)—This target city of the first atomic bomb has received a message from President Eisenhower saying the forthcoming United States nuclear tests in the Western Pacific are absolutely necessary, Kyodo News Service said yesterday.

The message answered a resolution of the Hiroshima City Council urging that all nuclear bombs be barred. Copies of the resolution were sent to the United States, Russia and Britain March 1.

Kyodo said Mr. Eisenhower's reply stressed that the United States is second to none in its desire for controls on nuclear weapons, but that the forthcoming tests are necessary from the standpoint of self-defense and in the interest of the free world.

SELF-STYLED LONDON KING OF UNDERWORLD KNIFED

LONDON, May 3 (AP)—Jack (Spot) Comer, self-styled king of the London underworld, was slashed across the face by three masked men last night. Scotland yard feared it might mark the outbreak of a gang war.

Comer and his wife were attacked as they came out of their apartment house in central London. Mrs. Comer said she was hit on the back of the head.

Comer has frequently said that other men were trying to take over his leadership and especially his bookmaking business.

Henry Fonda Divorced.

RENO, Nev., May 3 (AP)—Actor Henry J. Fonda's wife obtained a divorce yesterday on a charge of extreme cruelty. They were married Dec. 28, 1950, and have a 2-year-old daughter. Mrs. Fonda received custody of the child.

Flashes of Life

Advice to Mothers.

BOSTON (AP)—Prof. Clifford L. Whitman of Columbia University offered a simple solution for child thumb suckers in a talk to the American Association of Orthodontists. He said if a child is taught to whistle it would take the thumb from its mouth and thus allow the child's teeth to develop normally.

Concentration.

BRADFORD, Pa. (AP)—There will be no problem about having a lot of birthday parties in the Charles H. Schneider family. On May 2, 1947, the Schneiders had their first child, Sarah Jane. Christine was born on May 2, 1950. Yesterday, Mrs. Schneider gave birth to her third child. It was a daughter and was named Denise Louise.

No Co-operation.

CHICAGO (UP)—The lying-in hospital of the University of Chicago, which for years has averaged 10 births a day, prepared a big ceremony for the first child born on National Child Health day.

Only one hitch developed: No baby was born that day.

Use only 3 eggs in this recipe since with Clabber Girl Baking Powder it will be as light and fluffy as with many more eggs. Choose your own filling, if you wish, instead of grape or apple jelly. There's no substitute, here, for your own baking skill.

LEMON JELLY ROLL Yield: 6 to 8 servings

1 cup sifted cake flour
1½ teaspoons Clabber Girl Baking Powder
¼ teaspoon salt
3 eggs
1 cup beet or cane sugar
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
½ teaspoon vanilla
⅓ cup hot water
Confectioners sugar
1 7-ounce jar grape or apple jelly

Sift together flour, baking powder, and salt. Beat eggs in a bowl set in a larger bowl of warm water until light and lemon colored (about 10 minutes). Add sugar gradually, beating continually. Add lemon rind and vanilla. Fold in dry ingredients, a few tablespoonfuls at a time. Add the hot water in a thin but steady stream, folding in. Pour into jelly roll pan, 10 x 15 inches, lined with greased, waxed paper. Bake at 375° F. (moderate oven) for 12 to 15 minutes. Cut crusty edges from cake; turn cake upside down on a clean towel sprinkled with confectioners sugar. Pull off paper, roll cake in towel and cool. Unroll, spread with jelly and re-roll. Sprinkle surface with confectioners sugar

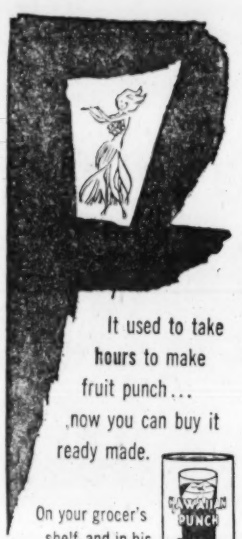

Remember... it's the fresh ingredients in your home baked recipe that make things taste better; stay fresh longer!

Text of 'Progress Report' Sent to U.N. by Hammarskjold

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., May 3 (AP).

Following is the text of a "progress report" submitted to the United Nations Security Council today by Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold on his mission to the Middle East:

MR. PRESIDENT. The Security Council resolution of 4 April 1956 on the Palestine question requested the Secretary General to report to the council in his discretion but not later than one month from the date of the resolution on the implementation given to the resolution.

On 6 April I left for the Middle East for consultations with the governments concerned on the questions raised in the Security Council resolution. My discussions have been going on since arrival in the region and will not be concluded until 3 May. As under such circumstances it is not possible for me to complete my report by the date set, I would ask you to circulate to the members of the Security Council this letter as a progress report explaining my approach to the assignment and giving the reasons for the delay in my final report, which I hope to submit in the course of next week.

Survey Request.

The Security Council requested the Secretary General to undertake a survey of the various aspects of enforcement of and compliance with the four general armistice agreements and the council's resolutions under reference in the resolution of 4 April. The council further requested the Secretary General to arrange with the parties for the adoption of any measures which, after discussion with the parties and the chief of staff, he considered would reduce existing tensions along the armistice demarcation lines. Thus, the scope of the Security Council resolution was set by the general armistice agreements and certain previous resolutions under reference. The aim of the Security Council action was, on the one side, to get a picture of the state of compliance, and on the other side, to further the adoption of certain local arrangements in support of compliance.

In carrying out my mandate, I have stayed strictly within the scope set by the Security Council resolution. I have considered it appropriate to give the aim of the resolution an interpretation according to which I should not merely survey and report on the state of compliance which existed at the time of my arrival in the region, but also try to get the parties to re-establish compliance to the greatest extent possible. Thus I have felt free to read into the Security Council resolution a mandate to negotiate for such re-establishment of compliance. In that spirit, I have regarded the question of local arrangements as subordinate to the general effort. I have submitted proposals for such specific arrangements as could serve to support and protect the degree of compliance achieved.

I have considered the basic clauses of the general armistice agreements to be those which established a general cease-fire. It has, to me, meen obvious that no masures for establishing full compliance with procedural or substantive clauses of the general armistice agreements would be fruitful and lasting unless firmly anchored in a reaffirmation of the duty of all parties concerned to observe a cease-fire.

You have already circulated documents indicating that, at an early stage, I received such assurances from the governments of Egypt and Israel. These reciprocal assurances served to relieve the threatening situation in the Gaza area, where conditions have since considerably improved as a result of strict orders issued by the two governments. I have already informed you that I received notification that such orders were in force as of 6 p.m., 10 April 1956. And from that time on.

Negotiations for similar reciprocal assurances unconditionally to observe a cease-fire, with a reservation as to self-defense, have been conducted with the parties to the other three armistice agreements. The negotiations have in all cases been concluded with positive result. The texts of the messages exchanged will be annexed to my final report.

I wish to draw attention to the difference in character between previous cease-fires, which have been established locally, or between military commanders, and a cease-fire of the character envisaged in my negotiations. The cease-fire I have aimed at under my mandate from the Security Council is one governed by a reaffirmation by the governments, given to the United Nations, to comply unconditionally with the fundamental clause of the various armistice agreements and establishes anew the legal situation on which the armistice regime was to be founded. It furthermore expresses a recognition in this particular situation of the obligation to observe a fundamental principle of the charter.

With the intended background of such reaffirmations of a cease-fire covering the whole region, I have studied with the governments concerned the possibility of re-establishing full compliance with the various other clauses of the general armistice agreements. The wish to reach such full compliance has been shared by all parties. The problems presenting themselves have been of three main kinds. One is the difficulty of maintaining a balance between the remedial action required of one party and that required of the other in a gradual approach to full compliance. Another difficulty arises from the necessary and natural relation in time between the re-establishment of compliance with the several clauses. Other difficulties have their origin in differences of opinion as to the interpretation of various obligations, or their mutual relationship.

Local Arrangements.

As a third stage in the approach to the task set by the council for the secretary general, I have, together with the chief of staff, Maj. Gen. Burns, put before the governments proposals for local arrangements within the framework of the armistice agreements and the relevant Security Council resolutions. In important cases agreement has been reached with the parties concerned. In other cases negotiations are still continuing. In still other cases the final decisions should be postponed.

Finally, I have considered the problem of possible procedural measures aiming at the strengthening of the legal framework for the armistice regime established by the four agreements.

The wide field of study and consultation resulting from my interpretation of the aim of the Security Council mandate, and the difficulties of several of the problems, together with the fact that no less than five member nations are party to the consultations, explain why these have been more time-consuming than anticipated. A further reason why it has proved impossible fully to observe the time limit set by the Security Council has been the need first of all to try to stop the dangerous developments which dominated the situation in the region on my arrival.

Dag Hammarskjold
Secretary General

TALK ON CANCER TREATMENT AT HOMER PHILLIPS SESSION

There is available a variety of technical skills and procedures to stay the progress of cancer, which means that no stage of disease is without hope of properly administered treatment, Dr. Herbert E. Schmitz, professor and chairman of the department of obstetrics and gnecology at Loyola University, said here today.

He spoke at a session of the eleventh annual meeting of the Homer G. Phillips Hospital Interns Alumni Association at the hospital. As the extent of cancer is increased in the cases of delayed discovery, opportunity for cure becomes more restricted, but with proper planning and evaluation a certain percentage of persons can be saver, he said.

At a session yesterday, Dr. W. F. Goins, instructor in the Wayne University College of Medicine, said a medical audit is a logical step in determining a doctor's ability, and is a definite means of protecting patients. The five-day meeting will end tomorrow.

STRAWBERRY CHIFFON CAKE

What you need:
1½ teaspoons unflavored gelatine
2 tablespoons cold water
3 egg yolks
½ cup sugar
½ cup lemon juice
3 egg whites
1 (8-ounce) angel food cake
1 pint sliced strawberries
½ cup confectioners' sugar
1 tablespoon grated lemon rind

How you do it:
1. Soften gelatin in cold water.
2. Beat egg yolks slightly in medium-sized saucepan; add sugar and lemon juice; cook over low heat, stirring constantly until mixture coats spoon.
3. Add softened gelatine; stir until dissolved.
4. Let cool until mixture just begins to thicken.
5. Beat egg whites until stiff; fold into custard.
6. Cut cake to form shell; leave ½ inch outer rim; remove top inside portions of cake to half the depth of cake itself.
7. Spread part of lemon mixture over inside of cake shell.
8. Combine strawberries and confectioners' sugar; arrange in cake shell, filling it to the top with berries.
9. Spread remaining lemon mixture over top and sides of cake.
10. Sprinkle grated lemon rind evenly over top of cake.
11. Garnish bottom edge of cake with remaining strawberry halves.

Quantity: 8-10 servings

WHITE MOUND SALAD

What you need:

1¾ cups hot water
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1½ cups cabbage, finely shredded
¾ cup carrots, shredded
½ cup green pepper, chopped.
½ cup celery, chopped

How you do it:
1. Dissolve gelatin in hot water; cool.
2. Add lemon juice, cabbage, carrots, green pepper and celery.
3. Pour into a star mold; chill until firm.

TOPPING

What you need:
1½ cups creamed cottage cheese
3 tablespoons mayonnaise
¼ cup toasted almonds
1 tablespoon lemon juice

How you do it:
1. Whip cheese.
2. Add mayonnaise, almonds and lemon juice.
3. Remove salad from the mold.
4. Place cottage cheese mixture over top of salad; garnish with green pepper strips.

Quantity: 8-10 servings

PROSTED MEAT LOAF

What you need:
2 pounds hamburger
2½ teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¾ cup shredded carrot
4 slices toast
1 cup tomato juice or milk
1 egg
3 cups mashed potatoes, seasoned
¼ cup chopped chives

How you do it:
1. Combine hamburger, salt, pepper and carrot in mixing bowl.
2. Soak toast in tomato juice until softened.
3. Add with egg to meat mixture.
4. Pack into 8"x4" loaf pan; bake in moderate oven 350° F. 1 hour.
5. Turn out on oven-proof platter.
6. Combine mashed potatoes and chives; use as frosting over top and sides of meat loaf.
7. Brown surface in very hot oven, 450° F. or under broiler 8-10 minutes until surface is golden.
8. Serve with gravy made from drippings left in loaf pan.

Quantity: 8 servings

SURPRISE TOPPED COFFEE CAKE

What you need:
1 egg, beaten
2 tablespoons melted shortening
½ cup milk
½ cup sugar
1¼ cups sifted, all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
Dash of allspice
½ cup brown sugar
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
¼ cup chopped nutmeats
1 cup country style cottage cheese
¾ cup corn flakes, crushed

How you do it:
1. Combine eggs, shortening, milk and sugar.
2. Add 1 cup flour, salt and baking powder; mix well.
3. Pour into well-greased 8" square baking pan.
4. Bake in moderately hot oven, 375° F., 20 minutes.

To make topping:
1. Combine cinnamon, allspice, sugar and ¼ cup flour.
2. Cut in butter with pastry blender.
3. Add nuts and cheese; mix well.
4. Fold in corn flakes.
5. Spread mixture on baked coffee cake; broil 5 minutes; serve immediately.

WARREN DENIES CAUDLE, CONNELLY DELAY IN TRIAL

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, May 3—A delay in the conspiracy trial of T. Lamar Caudle and Matthew J. Connelly, who were officials in the Truman administration, was refused yesterday by Chief Justice Earl Warren. With Harry I. Schwimmer, Caudle and Connelly are charged with conspiring to defraud the Government.

All three had sought postponement so they could appeal a ruling of lower courts which refused to transfer their case to the District of Columbia. They argued they did not have money enough to prepare an adequate defense in St. Louis and that "inflammatory publicity" would deprive them of a fair trial there. The three are scheduled to go on trial in St. Louis Monday.

The request for the delay was turned over to Justice Warren by their attorneys. He could have submitted it to the full court, or to another Justice. He chose to decide the issue himself.

CHURCHILL TO VISIT BONN

RUSSIA DEMANDS THAT U.S. RETURN FOUR SEAMEN

MOSCOW, May 3 (AP)—Soviet Russia is demanding repatriation of the four crewman from the Soviet tanker Tuapse remaining in the United States. It defends the action of Russian U.N. officials in the return of five others last month.

The Moscow press and radio disclosed these developments today. Newspapers published the text of the United States State Department note April 25 on the expulsion of two members of the Soviet delegation at the U.N. for their part in the return of the five seamen and the Soviet Government's reply April 30.

A Moscow radio broadcast said last night the United States charges were unfounded.

The State Department ordered expulsion of Aleksandr Guryanov and Nikolai Turkin of the Soviet delegation in New York. Turkin accompanied the seamen in Moscow and is in Russia now. Guryanov is leaving New York May 9 with his family and the family of Turkin.

The five seamen were among nine members of the crew of the Tuapse who sought asylum in the United States. The Taupse was seized by the Chinese Nationalists off Formosa in 1954.

The Moscow broadcast insisted on the "removal of obstacles preventing" the return to Russia of the four other seamen. The four have spurned Soviet pleas in Washington to return, saying they would go back only when Russia was free. Moscow charged the United States had unlawfully detained all nine.

POLIO CASES HALF THOSE FOR SAME TIME LAST YEAR

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP) — Seventy-four new cases of polio were reported last week, barely more than half the 146 in the corresponding 1955 week. A Public Health Service spokesman said, however, that "it is too early" to tell what will happen later.

He pointed out that there were 74 cases in the corresponding week in 1952 but high incidence in July, August and September that year gave 1952 the record high of 57,000 cases.

Yesterday Surgeon General Leonard A. Scheele and Dr. Alexander D. Langmuir, chief of the service's epidemiological branch at Atlanta, both expressed belief the rise in cases this year would be slower than in the past.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 3 (UP)—Missouri's record of communicable diseases today showed that no new cases of polio were reported in the state for two consecutive weeks. There have been 14 cases of polio reported in Missouri since the first of the year, 13 in the same period last year.

MAN FOUND DEAD IN AUTO

William Luhning, 711 North Eighty-Second street, East St. Louis, was found dead yesterday in his automobile which was parked at a dump about one mile east of the Cahokia Downs race track.

Illinois State Police said one end of a garden hose was attached to the exhaust and the other end was inside the automobile. Death was believed due to carbon monoxide poisoning. Luhning was 39 years old.

METHODISTS PUT INTEGRATION ON VOLUNTARY BASIS

By JOHN T. STEWART
Church Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., May 3—The General Conference of the Methodist Church voted overwhelmingly yesterday to leave the matter of race segregation in the church to local option.

A motion to abolish the Central Jurisdiction, which segregates 360,000 Negro Methodists, received fewer than half a dozen votes from 766 voting delegates.

This action was intended to implement a resolution on principles adopted earlier yesterday saying "there must be no place in the church for racial discrimination or enforced segregation."

Yesterday's definitive action was on a proposed amendment to the constitution of the church laying down the procedure by which Negro congregations may leave Central Jurisdiction and be received by a white conference and white jurisdiction.

Must Be Ratified.

Because what is recommended is a constitutional amendment, it must be approved by two-thirds of the 102 Annual Conferences of the Methodist Church, and by a two-thirds majority in each conference, before its provisions for the shift of Negro churches to white conferences can be followed.

The proposed amendment recommended by the General Conference yesterday includes the following statement on "abolition of the Central Jurisdiction: the Central Jurisdiction shall be abolished when all of the annual conferences now comprising it have transferred to other jurisdictions in accordance with the voluntary procedure" set forth in the amendment.

Under provisions of the proposed amendment, a Negro church may transfer to a white conference upon approval by two-thirds of its members, and by a two-thirds vote of both the Negro conference it is leaving and the white conference which it is joining.

A Negro annual conference may transfer from Central Jurisdiction to a white jurisdiction upon approval by two-thirds of its members, and by a two-thirds majority of both jurisdictions involved.

Action in South Unlikely.

Since most of the Negro Methodists in Central Jurisdiction belong to churches in the Deep South, the largest number of any state being in South Carolina, it is not expected that many Negro congregations will be affected by the proposed amendment, assuming it wins approval of the denomination. For it is exceedingly unlikely that white conferences in the South will admit Negro churches.

The dim view of the amendment held by most Negro delegates was stated in debate by Thurman L. Dodson, attorney of Washington, D. C.: "We are not fooled by this amendment—it does not abolish segregation, but I am voting for it because it is a move in the right direction."

Dodson reminded the conference that "segregation is not confined to the South; there is segregation in Harlem."

The nature of the amendment was described by the Rev. Lance P. Webb of Columbus, Ohio: "There is no forced integration, and no forced segregation. It is a voluntary method, with no attempt to force agreement."

Immediately after the General Conference voted to submit the proposed amendment to the constitution, Bishop Costen J. Harrell of Charlotte, N. C., issued a statement to the press praising the amendment as "a triumph in good churchmanship and brotherhood. It recognizes the right of regional and local self-determination."

The effect of the proposed amendment will be to make it possible for a local Negro congregation to enter a white conference when that conference is willing to accept them.

When the vote was taken on the proposition, few hands were raised against it.

It was announced that the vote in the committee which drew up the amendment was 68 for, eight against, with two not voting.

Present Church Law.

Under present Methodist Church law, a Negro church seeking to leave the Central Jurisdiction must take the following steps; obtain a two-thirds vote of its own members; get the same approval from other churches in the same conference, and in the white conference where the Negro church has applied, also from both jurisdictions involved—a jurisdiction is an area group of annual conferences—and, finally, get the consent of the General Conference and the Council of Bishops.

A Negro church in Pennsylvania has had its appeal for permission to leave the Central Jurisdiction in the ecclesiastical works for four years.

The General Conference last night voted to set up a 70-member commission to study the whole jurisdictional system of the church, including the segregated Central Jurisdiction, and report to the 1960 meeting of this conference.

Creation of a study commission was the only recommendation of the Council of Bishops on the problem of segregation. Both actions taken yesterday on the subject came from the General Conference floor, under pressure from delegates: first, adoption of a new statement of church policy toward segregation, and, second, approval of the amendment on procedure for transferring a Negro church from Central Jurisdiction to a white conference.

Neither statement adopted yesterday is a directive; they are only recommendations.

POLICEWOMEN TO BE ON DUTY AT POLLING PLACES

Uniformed policewomen will be assigned to polling places for the first time for the charter freeholder election next Tuesday, Chief of Police Jeremiah O'Connell announced today.

It has been customary for many years to keep a policeman on duty at every precinct, with time off only for meals and for voting. This time 10 women will be reassigned from the juvenile division to provide that relief.

It will be a long day for all. The officers must make roll at 5:15 a.m., be at the polls by 6 and remain until the ballots are counted after 7 p.m., and then escort the box to the Board of Election Commissioners — without overtime pay.

BIRTH CONTROL DENOUNCED AS 'REACTIONARY' BY RED

PARIS, May 3 (AP)—Communist leader Maurice Thorez yesterday denounced birth control as "reactionary." In an open letter to the Communist author of a book called "Children in Spite of Ourselves," he said:

"It seems to us not superfluous to recall that the road to the liberation of women passes through a social reform, and not through abortion clinics."

Thorez denounced what he called "the barbaric theories of American neo-Multhusianism," and said that they had been put into effect by American influence in Japan. (T. R. Malthus, a political economist who lived from 1766 to 1834, theorized that the population tends to grow faster than its means of subsistence; that population growth, when unrestrained, is checked by poverty.)

NEGROES IN DELAWARE PLAN THEATER BOYCOTT

DOVER, Del., May 3 (AP)—The Dover chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People said last night it would boycott segregated movie theaters in three Delaware towns.

The boycott, announced by Bernard Frisby, a member of the chapter's committee on integration, would affect two theaters at Dover, the state capital, one at Smyrna and one at Middletown. The action also was called against a drive-in theater south of Dover. Frisby said Negroes were required to park their automobiles on one side at the drive-in.

Miss Muriel Schwartz, who said her family owned all five theaters, denied there was any segregation at the drive-in. At the four regular theaters, tickets for downstairs are not sold to Negroes, although they are allowed to make purchases at candy counters and use wash rooms. Negroes make up 15 to 20 per cent of the population in all three towns.

LOYALTY DAY OBSERVANCE

Loyalty day, as opposed to the annual May day celebrated by Communists throughout the world, will be observed here tomorrow by about 40 posts of the Veterans of Foreign Wars with a rally, dance and drum and bugle corps demonstrations at St. Joseph's Hall, 1200 Russell boulevard, at 8 p.m.

Mayor Raymond R. Tucker yesterday issued a proclamation for the day. Primus F. Majda, Loyalty day chairman, said the day marks the 250th anniversary of the birth of Benjamin Franklin, "who well knew the need for loyalty and determination to strengthen . . . the United States."

SYNTHETIC TOBACCO LEAF ROW FLARES

Charge That Binder Contains Glass Fiber Draws Denial.

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP)—Manufacturers of cigarettes and cigars went before a congressional committee today for questioning about use of "homogenized" leaf tobacco in their products.

A controversy already has developed over the reported use of glass substances in cigar binders made of "synthetic tobacco leaf."

But after Strauss and other General Cigar officials left the committee room to return to New York, a research scientist testified he found glass substances in two brands of the company's cigars.

Dr. W. E. Colwell, tobacco research director at North Carolina State College, said "rods of uniform diameter which were suggestive of glass fiber" were found in Robert Burns cigarillos and William Penn cigars.

Strauss earlier had said that the manufactured leaf binder which his company calls "H.L.T. or homogenized leaf tobacco" was used in the cigarillos and William Penn cigars.

He said sales of those products have climbed sharply since introduction of the artificial leaf binders with better burning qualities and the company plans to convert to "H.L.T." binders for all its products. In addition to the cigarillos and William Penn cigars, General Cigar also markets White Owl, Van Dyke and Robert Burns cigars.

There has been no testimony that the manufactured leaf is used in any cigarettes, but strong implications have been given that some type of "synthetic leaf" is in use in some brands.

Spokesmen for cigarette tobacco growers — flue-cured and burley—told of sharply shifting market trends with heavy demands for lower grade tobacco such as is used in making the "homogenized" leaf. The better grades of tobacco once preferable for cigarettes, they said, are going begging at the auction markets.

They attributed some of the shift to increased use of filter tip cigarettes for which a stronger—lower grade tobacco—is used.

But, said Fred Royster, president of the Bright Belt Warehouse Association, representing flue-cured growers, "there's a missing link somewhere and we hope this committee can find it."

The Senate-House committee headed by Senator Clements (Dem.), Kentucky, is looking into all phases of the use of reconstituted leaf tobacco, and its possible effect on 800,000 farmers depending on tobacco for a livelihood.

SAYS J. J. SHUBERT MADE AN ATTEMPT TO CONTROL PRESS

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP)—John J. McManus, editor-in-chief of the Boston Post, testified yesterday "there is no question" that theatrical producer J. J. Shubert "has tried to intrude upon the freedom of the press in Boston."

McManus, testifying before a House Judiciary subcommittee investigating the Shubert theater interests, said "a definite attempt" was made by Michael J. Kavanagh, a Shubert official, to control the writing of Elliot Norton, the Post's dramatic critic.

McManus said the Post was served with "oral ultimatums and threats" that action would be taken against the newspaper unless steps were taken "to see that the shows presented in the Shubert theaters in Boston received nothing but favorable reviews."

"In all of my many years as a newspaper man," McManus said, "I have never known of such a flagrant, brazen, outright attempt to dictate to a newspaper what it must publish in its columns."

The Shubert interests, which own extensive theatrical outlets in other areas, control all of Boston's seven legitimate theaters. A federal court has directed that the Shubert interests dispose of two of the theaters.

McManus quoted Kavanagh as saying he had come to him directly from a conference with J. J. Shubert and was at McManus's office in the Post on orders of Shubert.

MEN'S AND BOYS' CLOTHING WORKERS TO GET PAY RISE

NEW YORK, May 3 (AP)—Some 150,000 workers in the men's and boys' clothing industry throughout the country will receive a 12½-cent hourly wage increase starting June 4 under a contract negotiated yesterday. Current wage rates were not disclosed.

The agreement was reached between the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America and the Clothing Manufacturers Association of the United States after several weeks of negotiations.

The contract also provides, subject to the approval of an insurance advisory committee, for increases of $9 to $11 a day for hospitalization, $200 to $250 for surgery and 31 to 60 days for hospitalization.

CEYLON TO CONSIDER TRADE WITH RUSSIA AND RED CHINA

COLOMBO, Ceylon, May 3 (AP)—Ceylon will explore the possibilities of trade with Russia and Red China, the country's new leftist premier told a news conference yesterday.

Premier Bandaranaike said he is sending trade missions there soon, and would consider setting up permanent embassies in Moscow and Peiping when they return.

Bandaranaike told a questioner the United Nations bar on shipment of strategic materials to China does not affect Ceylon.

DISCUSSES OUTLOOK FOR GERMAN UNITY

West Zone Ex-Official, on Visit Here, Says Russia, U.S. Hold Key.

Although the West German Federal Republic recently announced it would approach Moscow directly regarding reunification, unity of Germany can only come about through an agreement between the United States and Russia, a former Minister of Public Affairs from North Rhine-Westphalia, said here today.

Dr. Artur Straeter, who lost his position when the Christian Democrat Union lost its majority in Duesseldorf last February, said the German people know it will take a long time to reunify their country, but "it is dangerous to wait too long."

Young people in the Eastern zone do not know the Bonn Republic, he said. All the "lies the Soviet tells about circumstances in West Germany are the same propaganda used in Russia and in each totalitarian state," Straeter declared.

If youths in the Eastern zone knew what freedom was, he stated, they would prefer to rebel. Some people in the Bonn Republic would want it otherwise, but the common opinion in West Germany is for reunification with the backing of the United States and NATO, he said.

Straeter, presently a member of the North Rhine-Westphalia legislature and editor of the Westphalen Post, is in St. Louis with two other members of the Christian Democratic Union on a 45-day tour of the United States. They arrived here Tuesday and were scheduled to leave for Topeka this evening.

Traveling with Straeter, who was the Minister of Justice from 1946 to 1950 and Minister of Economics and Transportation from 1950 to 1954, are Friedrich Koehler, member of the provincial council of Westphalia, and Gustave Niermann, a county commissioner and member of the state legislature in North Rhine-Westphalia.

POLAND REPORTS 5000 PRISONERS HAVE BEEN FREED

LONDON, May 3 (AP)—More than 5000 prisoners have been freed in Poland since April 30 by government amnesty, Radio Warsaw said today.

The broadcast said women were among the first released under a Polish Parliament decree to liberate more than 70,000 political and criminal prisoners.

The broadcast added that the prisoners were released to right some of the wrongs done during the Stalin era in eastern Europe. It is in line with the Soviet Union's own denunciation of the late dictator.

The announcement said freed prisoners are given railway tickets home and will be helped to get employment.

(Among those released were 12 men sentenced as "saboteurs" following a huge factory fire in Elblag in 1949, the United Press said. They were proclaimed not guilty. The military prosecutor's office said the original investigation was trumped up and those responsible would be prosecuted.)

KING OF IRAQ OPENS FIRST TV STATION IN MIDDLE EAST

BAGHDAD, Iraq, May 3 (AP) King Feisal made the first broadcast from Iraq's new British-built television station yesterday—his twenty-first birthday.

Thousands of his subjects crowded into cafes and radio dealers' shops to watch the ceremony which marked the opening of the Middle East's first TV station.

Iraq hopes the new service will help meet a pressing educational problem. There is a great shortage of teachers in the country and the Government looks to TV to fill the gap.

STEVENSON HITS G.O.P. STAND ON DESEGRATION

Mixes Sharp Criticism With Handshaking in Drive for Califoria Delegates.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 3 (AP)—Adlai Stevenson mixed sharp criticism of the Eisenhowre Administration on desegregation and other issues with cheerful handshaking yesterday in a stepped-up campaign to win California's presidential primary.

He charged in the course of 12 appearances here that the President had not used the prestige of his office to help carry out the Supreme Court decision against separate public schools for white and Negro students.

He told longshoremen on the waterfront they would not see better protection for labor, better housing and better health benefits "until you return to Washington a fighting, liberal administration."

An outdoor "Night in Italy" audience applauded his demand for amendment of the McCarran-Walter Immigration Act which he said discriminated against Mediterranean peoples.

Predicts Victory.

"I think we're in now," was the comment by Attorney General Edmund G. Brown, Stevenson's state-wide chairman. Stevenson himself predicted victory in the June 5 primary. Other backers said he seemed to be on the upgrade in California, but that the vote would be mighty close.

Winding up the one-day tour of San Francisco, he left by plane late last night to attend the funeral of Senator Alben Barkley in Paducah, Ky. He plans to resume his California schedule in Los Angeles tomorrow.

There was nothing new in his getting around to shake hands—something he intensified after his unexpected defeat in Minnesota by Kefauver. Members of his staff and newsmen who covered his earlier visits were struck, however, by his relaxed, smiling approach. He said at one point he was enjoying it.

Co-operating with photographers, he put on a big sombrero at his Spanish-American headquarters. He munched pastry brought out by a young woman as he walked by a bakery. He patted babies and held a wide-eyed 2-year-old Negro boy for the cameras. He helped to push the Powell street cable car at its Market street turntable for its return trip up Nob Hill and hitched a ride to Union Square for a brief speech.

Stevenson concentrated on civil rights and social legislation to fit his audiences. He spoke chiefly to Negro, Spanish-American, Italian, Chinese and labor groups. Crowds ranged anywhere from 50 to 3000, by police estimate.

To one Negro gathering and again in a television interview, he said President Eisenhower has "withheld the prestige and power" of his office to make school integration an actuality. He added:

"If I were President, I'd make it a first order of business on my calendar."

Already aligned against use of violence to enforce integration, he did not elaborate on what he though Mr. Eisenhower might do.

He was asked by John F. Henning, research director of the California State Federation of Labor, on the television program about Mr. Eisenhower's 1952 pledge to revise the Taft-Hartley labor law.

Stevenson replied that well over three years have passed and not one word of the Act has been changed. He said the National Labor Relations Board has been "packed" with representatives of management; that 25 changes in interpretation of NLRB rules were for the most part unfavorable to labor.

FATHER OF SIX CHARGED WITH MURDER OF BOY, 4

PANAMA CITY, Fla., May 3 (AP) — Dallas Withers was charged with murder yesterday in the death of a 4-year-old boy whose brother is still missing following a boat ride with the man.

Withers, married and the father of six, was charged shortly after the body of Douglas Cecil Wilson was found in Cook's bayou. The body of 7-year-old David Earl Wilson is still being hunted.

Sheriff M. J. Daffin said Withers took the boys with him in an outboard motorboat Tuesday. Withers said he made a sharp turn and David Earl fell overboard and disappeared. This made Withers panicky and, with Douglas standing up in the boat, he purposely turned it hard, tossing the youngster into the bayou, because he was afraid the boy would tell on him. Withers said he had been drinking.

TWO TRAINMEN KILLED IN HEAD-ON RAIL CRASH

GALT, Ont., May 3 (UP) — Two trainment were killed and three others injured last night when two Canadian Pacific Railway locomotives collided at an overpass.

The crash hurtled the two locomotives off the bridge to the street 30 feet below. Part of the overpass collapsed.

The head-on smash between a lone locomotive and a double-header freight train speeding non-stop through Galt on the single-track Montreal-Chicago line awakened hundreds of nearby residents. The wreck forced rerouting of all Toronto-to-Chicago C.P.R. trains. They were diverted to Canadian National Railways lines.

GEN. CLARK 'SOLD OUT,' REP. POWELL CHARGES

NEW YORK, May 3 (AP)—Adam Clayton Powell (Dem.), New York, accused Gen. Mark W. Clark yesterday of selling out to the forces of segregation. The Negro Congressman said he had asked the Army for a record of statements by Clark.

"It is obvious that Gen. Mark Clark had his price and has sold out to the Eastland-Jimmy Byrnes fifth column against American democracy," he said.

Clark, former commander of United Nations forces in the Far East and now president of The Citadel, South Carolina military college, told a luncheon meeting in Charleston, S.C., April 27 he opposed integration of white and Negro troops when the Government adopted such a policy in 1950 and still believed his position was correct.

Describing his experiences as commander of the United States Fifth Army in Italy in World War II, Clark said "the worst division I had was a Negro division." He said the unit could not be relied upon and that the unit bolted in the face of the enemy.

ADMINISTRATION STUDIES RETREAT IN PENSION FIGHT

Compromises Considered on Social Security Benefits for Women and Disabled.

The New York Times News Service. (Copyright, 1956, by the New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON, May 3—The Eisenhower Administration is considering a strategic retreat in its fight against new social security benefits for women and disabled workers.

It was giving close attention to possible compromises as a showdown in the Senate Finance Committee was postponed yesterday until probably next week.

The committee had planned to vote this week on key provisions of a Democratic bill to add more than 1,000,000 beneficiaries to pension rolls of the old age and survivors insurance system.

The measure would lower from 65 to 62 the age at which women are entitled to benefits and extend benefits to totally disabled workers at the age of 50. No disability insurance is now provided.

To finance the added cost, the bill would immediately increase social security taxes to two and one-half per cent each for employers and employes and three and three-fourth for the self-employed. The taxes, now 2 and 3 per cent respectively, are levied on the first $4200 of annual income.

Threat of Desertions.

Faced with the threat of wholesale Republican desertions on the Senate floor, the Administration appeared to be about ready to modify its stand in the hope of avoiding a politically-damaging defeat.

It sought at all cost, however, to avoid a tax increase.

Under consideration was a proposal to provide scaled-down benefits for women at the age of 62 and start the proposed disability payments at the age of 60 instead of 50.

These changes could be instituted, according to social security technicians, without increasing taxes to preserve the actuarial soundness of the program.

Women retiring at 62, under the proposal, would be entitled to 80 per cent of the annual benefits due at the age of 65. If they retired at 63, they would get 86 per cent of full annual benefits. If they waited until their sixty-fourth birthday, 93 per cent of the full benefits would be paid.

On the average, total benefits from retirement until death would not be increased. They would merely be spread out over a longer period.

Negligible Effect.

Providing disability benefits at the age of 60 would have a negligible effect on long-range estimates of outgo and income required to keep the program financially sound, technicians said.

Democratic leaders were unlikely to accept any such compromise, but Republican strategists saw a good change of mustering sufficient votes to win. Avoidance of a tax increase was regarded as possibly the deciding factor in prospects for a successful compromise.

The apparent Republican strategy was to eliminate the two disputed provisions in the the Finance Committee and wait until the bill reached the floor to put forward a compromise.

Chairman Senator Harry F. Byrd (Dem.), Virginia, was counted on to vote with the Republican members to strike out the provisions.

Until the death Monday of Senator Alben W. Barkley (Dem.) Kentucky, the committee consisted of eight Democrats and seven Republicans. Senator Byrd said yesterday he expected the voting to be deferred until the vacancy was filled, probably next week.

2 ENTER CASEYVILLE HOME, ROB WOMAN OF $75 AND RING

Mrs. J. C. Hutson was robbed of $75 and her wedding ring by a young man and young woman who invaded her home at 27 Judith lane, Caseyville, early today, she reported to the St. Clair county sheriff's office.

Mrs. Hutson said her husband left for work shortly before midnight. About an hour later there was a knock at her front door. Thinking her husband had forgotten something and was returning, she opened the door.

The youth and the young woman, both described as about 19 years old, pushed their way inside. The youth flourished an automatic pistol, Mrs. Hutson said. After robbing her, the youth cut her telephone wire and the robbers fled in an automobile.

EX-ATTENDANT AT HOSPITAL HELD IN SCALDING OF PATIENT

A former attendant at St. Louis Chronic Hospital, 5800 Arsenal street, was held by police for investigation of the manner in which a patient was scalded in a bath last Monday.

Patrick Murphy, 77 years old, a patient at the institution 10 years, is in City Hospital with second and third degree burns of the legs and hips. He told authorities the attendant placed him in a tub, turned on scalding water and threw a bucket of water over his head when he complained about the high temperature.

The attendant, a 24-year-old Negro, was dismissed by Superintendent Joseph Shank. He denied scalding the patient and said there was no complaint about the temperature of the bath.

$6,600,000,000 AID MONEY UNSPENT, SENATOR SAYS

WASHINGTON, May 3 (UP)—Senator Harry F. Byrd said today the Administration would have 11½ billion dollars available to spend on foreign aid if Congress votes $4,900,000,000 requested by the Administration for the coming fiscal year.

The Virginia Democrat, one of the Senate's leading economy advocates, said the aid program has a total of $6,600,000,000 of unexpended balances from appropriations of previous years.

Byrd made his statement as chairman of the Joint Committee on Reduction of Non-Essential Federal Expenditures. The statement accompanied a report by the committee on unexpended balances in the aid program.

The committee said the $6,600,000,000 in unspent money includes three and a half billion dollars in "unreserved" funds and $3,100,000,000 "reserved" from old appropriations for military aid.

The Administration has said it wants bigger appropriations this session than it got last year or than it proposes to spend in the year ahead because of a need to build up a pipeline reserve.

JAMES H. FORBES CO. SOLD TO TOLEDO FIRM

St. Louis Tea, Coffee Concern to Be Division of Woolson Spice Co.

The James H. Forbes Tea & Coffee Co., 922 Clark avenue, has been purchased by the Woolson Spice Co. of Toledo, O., it was announced yesterday. The Forbes firm was acquired from the H. & B. American Machine Co. of Chicago, which bought it only last Feb. 2.

Nathanial L. Schmid, president and general manager of the Woolson firm, said the 103-year-old Forbes company would be operated as a division of the Toledo company, which has been established in the northern part of the country for 75 years. James H. Forbes will continue as general manager here, Schmid said.

Schmid declined to reveal the purchase price, but said it was a straight cash transaction. The purchase of the Forbes firm by H. & B. American Machine Co., was announced at slightly more than $750,000.

Schmid said his company would become the second ranking spice house in the country with the acquisition of the St. Louis firm. H&B American Machine Co. had four other divisions operating in such fields as aircraft parts and precision metal stampings, but none in the food processing line.

The local coffee firm was founded 103 years ago by James H. Forbes, grandfather of the present general manager. The founder, a grocer, proposed to retail roasted coffee to replace the usual method of those times, which was to buy green coffee and roast it at home.

With a coffee mill ordered from England and a steam engine from New York, Forbes began business at 29 Franklin avenue. The firm later moved to the Clark avenue location.

PERU CANDIDATE WITHDRAWS

LIMA, May 3 (UP)—Former War Minister Zenon Noriega has withdrawn from the campaign for the June 3 presidential election, charging that the prevailing electoral laws encourage "fraud and imposition."

Noriega, who was dismissed from the Cabinet and exiled in 1954, accused the government of ignoring popular "clamor for an unobjectionable election law."

HELPING HEART PATIENTS FIND WORK IS DISCUSSED

Members of the Illinois Heart Association, meeting at East St. Louis today, discussed ways of helping persons who have heart ailments find suitable employment in business and industry. The association is setting up work classification units for that purpose in various parts of the state.

At a dinner meeting last night, Rome A. Betts of New York, executive director of the American Heart Association, told how housewives who have heart disease can arrange their home work so it will not be too strenuous.

New officers of the Illinois organization are Floyd M. Seaton of Quincy, president; Dr. Arnold S. Moe of East St. Louis, vice president; Dr. Theodore Z. Polley of Joliet, secretary, and Leonard F. Hoffman of Springfield, treasurer.

HIROHITO HASN'T HAD NEW PAIR OF SHOES SINCE WAR

TOKYO, May 3 (AP)—The post of shoemaker to Japan's imperial family carries enormous prestige but it's highly unprofitable in itself.

Emperor Hirohito hasn't had a new pair of shoes—geta or zori—since World War II. He has just had new soles put on an old pair of oxfords.

The Empress and other members of the family have made an occasional purchase. But the two companies who by imperial appointment make the shoes—geta (clogged wooden sandals) and zori (flat-soled thonged slippers)—recall fondly the good old days before World War II when shoes were discarded after being worn a few times.

BOY, 13, STRANDED ON ROOF HELPED DOWN BY FIREMEN

Firemen were called late yesterday to rescue 13-year-old Grant Welty, stranded on an apartment roof at 5717 Maple avenue after retriving a ball.

The boy was playing in the yard at Dozier School, 5749 Maple avenue, when a ball was batted to the roof of the two-story apartment building. Young Welty climbed a tree to the roof and got the ball, then discovered he was unable to reach the tree limb.

Following a consulation with friends on the grouund, the Fire Department was notified. Members of Hook and Ladder Co. No. 17 raised a ladder and Grant descended from the roof. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Welty, 5656 Chamberlain avenue, were on hand to greet him.

STEVENSON GAINS HEADWAY IN BID FOR NOMINATION

The New York Times News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 3—Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois has moved ahead on the comeback trail he hopes will lead to renomination as the Democratic presidential nominee.

In two primaries Tuesday in Alabama and the District of Columbia he won a clear edge over his principal announced rival, Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee.

Delegate candidates announced as presently favorable to Stevenson's nomination were leading in 28 of the 52 delegate races in Alabama, each with one-half vote. None of the leaders was openly favorable to Senator Kefauver. Other delegate candidates had scattered preferences or were uncommitted.

A sweep for a Stevenson slate of 12 delegate candidates with one-half vote each in the District of Columbia was conceded by Senator Kefauver's national campaign manager, F. Joseph Donohue. Donohue said his team had been soundly whipped long before an interrupted count of ballots had reached a decisive margin.

Hopes Increased.

The favoritism thus demonstrated for Stevenson over Kefauver in these two areas increased the victory hopes of backers of the 1952 nominee in advance of three important primaries still to come. The first is in Oregon May 18 where both Kefauver and Stevenson have urged a "write-in" campaign. There are possibly decisive face-to-face direct clashes in Florida May 29, and California June 5.

Kefauver has not done well in contested primaries since he scored his upset victory over Stevenson in the March 20 Minnesota primary. That was one Stevenson was supposed to win handily, but he wound up with only four delegate votes in comparison to 26 given Kefauver.

Since then Kefauver failed in an effort to upset the Gov. Robert B. Meyner organization in New Jersey, winning only one-half convention vote, while the Meyner forces elected delegates with 35½ votes. A pro-Kefauver slate was defeated by a pro-Stevenson slate in Alaska, which has six convention votes.

In the hitherto voteless district, holding its first legal primary in 82 years, the counting machinery broke down Tuesday night and the tabulations will not be resumed until today.

Two-to-One Margin.

With about one third of the indicated Democratic vote counted, the margin for the Stevenson delegates was about two-to-one.

It was the second time in four years that Kefauver had been tripped in a district primary. The one four years ago was unofficial, organized by the parties themselves without benefit of an act of Congress. In 1952, Averell Harriman, now Governor of New York, beat Kefauver by a decisive margin.

By the Associated Press.

In Chicago, Stevenson's apparent victory in the District of Columbia, was "a welcome surprise," Chairman James A. Finnegan of the Stevenson campaign committee, said.

"Mr. Stevenson did not make an active campaign in the district," Finnegan said, "and Senator Kefauver has made his home there for many years. In addition, the Kefauver slate was headed by his national campaign manager, Joseph Donohue, who has long been prominent in Washington politics. We figured the odds were against us."

At Fort Walton Beach, Fla., Kefauver said he "was not surprised" at the result in the district.

"I went into this primary with some misgivings but if I hadn't it wouldn't have been a contest. I feel that the primary may at least help Washington secure home rule," he said.

CUBAN MILITARY LEADER TRANSFERRED IN SHAKEUP

HAVANA, May 3 (UP)—Col. Fermin C. Cowley, slated yesterday for the vacant post of Cuban military attache in Washington, was transferred abruptly and without explanation today to command of a rural guard regiment.

Cowley is one of some 25 officers loyal to President Fulgencio Batista who have been promoted in the army shakeup following the unsuccessful April 4 military coup de'etat. In Washington he was to have replaced Col. Ramon Barquin, imprisoned leader of the attempted coup.

A total of 62 army officers and noncoms have resigned or been forced into retirement in the shakeup. An official announcement today said four officers of the national police also have been retired. The government announced yesterday that 50 persons will be tried on charges of "direct or indirect participation" in a sivilian uprising in Matanzas Sunday.

ARGENTINE EPIDEMIC ENDS

BUENOS AIRES, May 3 (AP)—Argentina's Health Ministry says the polio epidemic is over in Buenos Aires and the surrounding province. The area was the core of the outbreak which caused the death of 270 of the more than 3000 persons struck down.

The Health Ministry said only seven cases were reported in the nation yesterday. At its peak during the late summer and early fall, more than 70 new cases were being reported daily.

4.35 PCT. REVENUE RISE FOR QUARTER ON GASOLINE TAX

City revenue from the 1-cent-a-gallon tax on gasoline for the first quarter of this year was $516,870, which is 4.35 per cent more than the tax brought in for the corresponding period last year.

The gallon total was 51,687,000. That is 2,156,000 more than the total for the first quarter of 1955.

The first-quarter usually is the lightest of the year, but this was third highest of all quarters since the tax has been in effect.

REDS 'ELECT' CHURCH HEAD IN SHANGHAI

Vatican Refuses to Recognize Move—Bishop Has Been Under Arrest.

The New York Herald Tribune-Post Dispatch Special Radio.

ROME, May 3—The struggle between Communism and the Catholic church in Red China has entered a new phase with efforts to install a "usurper" in charge of the Shanghai diocese, according to information received here by the Vatican's Sacred Congregation for the Propagation of the Faith.

The congregation's information section told this story:

Ignatius Kung Pin-Mei, bishop of the large Shanghai diocese, which boasts 400 Catholic churches, has been under arrest since last September. His vicar general, or substitute, Father Sylvester Tsu, who would normally take charge in his absence, has also disappeared.

"On the whole," the Catholics of Shanghai have remained faithful to their bishop, but "sad to relate," a "small number" of priests have "had the weakness" to support the government of Mao Tse-tung in the matter.

These priests have notified the congregation by telegram that Bishop Kung was jailed for breaking the "anti-patriotism" law and that they have "elected" 76-year-old Father Chang Tze-loang to take over the diocese.

Father Chang, according to the congregation's information service, "seemed" not to have "full use of his faculties." He formerly directed the main residence for Catholic diocesan priests in Shanghai.

The telegram from the Chinese priests was answered curtly by Cardinal Pietro Fumasoni-Boindi, head of the Congregation for the Propagation of the Faith. He wired that Bishop Kung was a "most worthy prelate, that his imprisonment was unjust and that the diocese would be ruled according to the 429th chapter of Roman Catholic canon law.

The comment meant the vicar general or any other priest designated by Bishop Kung, rather than the "elected" Father Chang, would have authority over Shanghai's Catholics.

CONVICTED OF KILLING WIFE

CHEYENNE, Wyo., May 3 (AP)—James V. Alexander was convicted last night of second degree murder in the death of his wife, Barbara, whose body was unearthed from a basement tomb last Dec. 6. The conviction carries a penalty of 20 years to life imprisonment.

Alexander, a former Casper school teacher, and his first and present wife, Rose, were accused of first degree murder. She is to go on trial next Monday.

Mrs. Tucker's High, Light and Handsome Biscuits

Sift and measure { 2 cups all-purpose flour } Cut or rub in { 4 to 6 tablespoons Mrs. Tucker's Shortening }
Sift again with { 3 teaspoons double acting baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt } Add . . ¾ to ⅞ cup milk

Dough should be soft enough to be handled. Knead lightly with fingertips on floured board about 30 seconds or until smooth. Pat or roll out to ½-inch thickness, fold in half and roll out again to ½-inch thickness. Cut with biscuit cutter. Place on an ungreased shallow baking pan and bake in a hot oven (450 to 475 degrees) 10 to 12 minutes. Makes about 14 two-inch biscuits.

So High, Light and Handsome... You Know They're Made with Mrs. Tucker's

No Other Type Shortening, Old or New, White or Artificially Colored* Can Make Biscuits Like These Wonderful Mrs. Tucker's Biscuits!

And that's why the best homemakers keep on baking and frying with this wonderful modern vegetable shortening year in and year out, cake after cake after cake, pie after pie after pie, and fry after fry after fry.

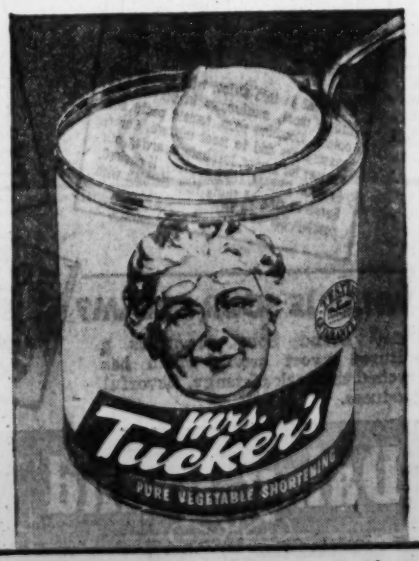

For white cakes that are really white, moist and tender! And Lady, those cakes—so much higher than the kind you've been able to bake with other types of shortening—so much higher with Mrs. Tucker's you can actually see and measure the difference. That's because Mrs. Tucker's is made with a patented special ingredient that helps your batter rise r-e-a-l high. And that's why more and more good cooks everywhere are turning to Mrs. Tucker's to get the kind of high, light and tender cakes they want.

For wonderfully light, golden-brown fried foods as completely digestible as baked or broiled foods.

Oh, yes! Mrs. Tucker's really is digestible. It not only gives you the kind of cakes, pies and biscuits you want—but when your foods are fried the Mrs. Tucker's way, they are every bit as digestible as baked or broiled foods. Proof of Mrs. Tucker's purity is its fresh look, even when you use it again and again for frying. So put Mrs. Tucker's in your frying pan.

Remember to get Mrs. Tucker's next time you shop.

*Read the ingredient statement on the label of any shortening before you buy. Then you'll buy Mrs. Tucker's Pure Vegetable Shortening.

Mrs. Tucker's Shortening—So pure, so white, you're sure it's right!

HIGH COURT GETS RAIL 'RIGHT TO WORK' CASE

Issue Is Whether Federal Law Supercedes State Legislation.

WASHINGTON, May 3 (AP) —The legality of state "right-to-work" laws as applied to the railroad industry, rested today with the Supreme Court.

The legal issue before the Court for decision is whether, in this instance, federal law supersedes state law or vice versa. There was no indication as to when it will rule.

The Court listened yesterday to conflicting arguments on legality of a 1951 amendment to the National Railway Labor Act. This authorizes railroads and labor organizations to negotiate union shop agreements regardless of state laws to the contrary.

Under a union shop agreement, a worker must join the union which represents his craft or class of workers in collective bargaining or lose his job.

Eighteen states have what they call right-to-work laws. These forbid making union membership or non-membership a condition of employment.

The case before the Supreme Court grew out of union shop agreements between 16 non-operating labor organizations and the Union Pacific railroad. Five workers who did not want to join a union brought suit. The Nebraska Supreme Court ruled the railway labor act amendment violated that state's constitution and laws and was unconstitutional. The labor unions appealed.

Assistant Attorney General Robert A. Nelson of Nebraska told the court the state laws against compulsory union membership implement the "principles of liberty embodied in the Bill of Rights." Congress, he argued, lacks authority to strike down such laws.

Edson Smith of Oamha, representing the five workers who filed the suit, said the federal law violates various constitutional guarantees, including freedom of association. "A part of freedom of association is freedom to decline to join an association," Smith said.

Lester P. Schoene, attorney for the 16 unions involved, said the 1951 railway labor act amendment was a proper exercise of Congress's power to regulate interstate commerce.

For more than 20 years, Schoene said, Congress has laid down specific regulations on the subject of union security agreements between railroads and their employes.

KEFAUVER DETECTS SMEAR IN FLORIDA

Denies Rumor He Would Enforce School Integration With Troops.

PANAMA CITY, Fla., May 3 (AP)—Senator Estes Kefauver says what he calls a "smear campaign" may be shaping up against him in Florida.

The Tennessee Senator told audiences yesterday and last night in several towns in northwest Florida that he had heard a rumor to the effect that he had said recently he would favor the use of federal troops to enforce integration in public schools. He spoke here last night.

Both Kefauver and Adlai Stevenson are seeking Florida's support in their campaigns for the Democratic presidential nomination. A slate of delegates with 28 votes at the Democratic national convention will be chosen in the state's presidential preference primary May 29.

Kefauver said he wanted to keep the Florida primary contest on "a truthful level," and added:

"I assume that my opponent —despite his intemperate remarks after his initial defeats in the primaries this year — would also rather keep the campaign on a truthful level.

"However, since he would be the direct beneficiary of any smear campaign on me, he must shoulder his part of the responsibility."

Kefauver said he would oppose the use of federal troops in the matter of integration.

(Stevenson said in a speech April 19 at Harrisburg, Pa., that he favored "no troops and no bayonets" in resolving the integration problem.")

(In California, where Stevenson was campaigning, his campaign manager, Roger Tubby, said last night, "The Governor does not know what Senator Kefauver is referring to." Tubby also said that Stevenson "would not participate in spreading false rumors about the Senator.")

Kefauver said the rumor probably originated with an incorrect account of a news conference in Florida in February. He said one erroneous dispatch was written but it was quickly corrected and that the reporter had acted in good faith.

But now, Kefauver added, he has heard that the story is being widely printed as a pamphlet that is to be widely distributed in Florida.

He said any attacks based on the story would be "shoddy politics."

Kefauver interrupted his Florida tour to attend the funeral of Senator Alben Barkley today at Paducah, Ky., but planned to return by plane to Florida tonight to resume his campaigning.

FRANK COSTELLO, FACING PRISON, SAYS HE'S VERY ILL

NEW YORK, May 3 (AP) — Racketeer Frank Costello disclosed yesterday that he has a new cancer as he made a last-ditch effort to escape imprisonment, "I am a very sick man," he pleaded in a court affidavit.

United States District Judge Sylvester J. Ryan then ordered a hearing Monday to decide whether to cancel or reduce Costello's five-year prison term for income tax evasion.

Costello first suffered from throat cancer 20 years ago. Now, his doctor said in an accompanying affidavit, he has a skin cancer on the left temple. He called it "notoriously one of the most malignant and fatal forms of cancer." The physician added that an operation is "imperative and mandatory."

C. OF C. REBUFFS EISENHOWER ON FOREIGN TRADE

Refuses to Indorse U.S. Membership in World Body and Calls Referendum.

The New York Times News Service.

WASHINGTON, May 3—The Chamber of Commerce of the United States rebuffed the Administration yesterday on a major feature of President Eisenhower's foreign trade program.

Despite indirect appeals from the White House, the group refused to indorse pending legislation calling for this country's membership in the international Organization for Trade Cooperation. Delegates voted 227 to 163 that the 3200 business organizations affiliated with the group be polled in a referendum on the subject before any policy declaration on OTC is made by the national body.

A referendum will require a minimum of two and one-half to three months.

Supporters of OTC wanted a favorable expression from the chamber to help them in getting the controversial measure through Congress. At present the bill is awaiting action by the House of Representatives after being favorably reported by the Ways and Means Committee there.

Result Is Surprise.

Although some opposition had been expected at the final session of the chamber's forty-fourth annual meeting yesterday, the actual vote came as a surprise. For the last 15 years the chamber has been in the forefront of business groups supporting liberal foreign trade policies.

Earlier in the day Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks had made a strong appeal for approval of the bill. He explained to the delegates that the Organization for Trade Cooperation was merely an administrative agency for the general Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, in which the United States has held membership for some years. The GATT, Weeks explained, is an organization of 35 nations dedicated to the reduction of world trade barriers.

In a stormy floor debate, William Blackie of Peoria, Ill., incoming chairman of the group's Foreign Commerce Comittee, read a letter from Dr. Gabriel Hauge, economic adviser to President Eisenhower. The letter said that the President "earnestly hopes" that the chamber would see its way clear to indorse the underlying principles of his foreign trade program. The latter also characterized the OTC as essential to his program and said it was vitally necessary "in the national interest."

"We face growing, aggressive, Communist trade action to cut into our markets," Blackie said. "It is essential that we combine with other friendly nations in the OTC to defeat the Communist threat to orderly international trade."

St. Louisan's Comment.

Walter Hardy of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce said that failure to indorse OTC would not only run counter to previous policy of the chamber but "would be a slap in the face to the Administration."

Pierre du Pont III, secretary of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., and delegate from the Delaware Chamber of Commerce, said chamber delegates were being asked to vote blindly on an important question that needed careful thought. He urged that the whole matter be referred to a referendum, adding "we must be careful of what sort of trap or traps we might be getting into by hasty action here."

Chase M. Smith of Chicago, a retiring director of the chamber, called OTC "an adventure into the dream world" and "an attempt to cartelize world trade." He, too, urged the referendum.

For Inquiry Into ILO.

By the Associated Press.

The delegates unanimously indorsed a resolution demanding an investigation by Congress and the executive branch of the Government into the International Labor Organization. This idea is to determine whether the United States should continue membership in it.

The resolution said the recent entry of Russia and the Soviet satellites into ILO has made "a mockery of free and independent empoyer and worker representation."

Another policy statement asserted the chamber's view that United States trade should be continued in some cases with the Iron Curtain countries. War-potential exports to the Soviet bloc should continue to be embargoed, the chamber said, but the severance of all trade relations "would in some cases be more harmful to the free world than to the countries behind the Iron Curtain."

On Domestic Front.

On the domestic front, the delegates adopted without dissent a long list of resolutions including these:

1. Calling for "rigorous governmental economy" as being the key to "lower taxes, reduced debt and a stable fiscal system."
2. Declaring that the goal of farm prosperity should not imply "an obligation of the Federal Government to guarantee the prosperity of any segment of the economy, including agriculture."
3. Opposing standby controls over consumer credit.
4. Urging increased postal rates to wipe out the postal deficit and put the Post Office Department on a "non-profit, self-support basis," as Mr. Eisenhower has recommended.
5. Demanding the withdrawal of the Government from enterprises in which it competes with private business.
6. Opposing proposals for federal indemnities against loss by floods or disasters.

Introducing Lever Brothers' new non-dairy spread for bread!

Keep in refrigerator to protect perfect flavor

THE FIRST MARGARINE UNCONDITIONALLY GUARANTEED TO TASTE LIKE THE HIGH-PRICED SPREAD!

All you need to do is try it once! You can taste that Imperial is a completely new kind of margarine . . . a product so superior that it carries a guarantee never before made in all of margarine history. But then, there's never been a margarine like it! Imperial is the first margarine unconditionally guaranteed to bring you the tantalizing flavor formerly found only in the expensive spread for bread.

Imperial's Got That Flavor

Flavor is what's been missing in margarine. And flavor is what Lever Brothers devoted seven years to achieve . . . seven years of testing formula after formula to bring you the incomparable flavor of the expensive spread for bread. It wasn't hard to make Imperial spread smoother and easier than any other margarine. And it wasn't hard to make Imperial as nutritious as even the most expensive spread you can buy. The trick was flavor. And Imperial is the first margarine to capture and hold that unmistakable flavor everybody loves.

Tastes Like the High-Priced Spread

We know you may find it hard to believe that a margarine could live up to all we claim for Imperial. So, we want you to give Imperial the toughest tests you know. Spread Imperial on bread or toast...use it for seasoning vegetables . . . plop a generous chunk of Imperial in your frying pan and set it sizzling with eggs for your fussy husband. Any way, and every way, new Imperial tastes like the high-priced spread.

Aroma to Match That Flavor

Imperial's superiority shows itself in many ways—as a matter of fact—in every way you use it. For instance, when you fry with Imperial, just lean over and sniff its sweet, fresh goodness. Imperial smells so good it makes you hungry just watching it melt. Hot or cold, in your frying pan, or spread on bread, Imperial is the one margarine you'll never have to make excuses for—no matter how fussy the company.

You Agree, or We Return Your Money!

Try Imperial and see. Remember—when you take home a pound of Imperial, you're not buying, you're just trying. Because Lever Brothers unconditionally guarantees Imperial will taste like the high-priced spread to you, or they'll return every penny you spent to try it.

P.S. Like the high-priced spread, Imperial is delicate and perishable. So to protect its perfect flavor, always keep Imperial in your refrigerator!

DON'T CHANGE YOUR TASTE! JUST CHANGE TO IMPERIAL!

REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

IMPERIAL'S GOT THAT FLAVOR!

CARDS SQUEEZE BY BUCS, BUMP INTO DODGERS TONIGHT

'LAST-MAN' MOVE WINS, 10-9; MUSIAL HITS SLAM

By Neal Russo

Manager Fred Hutchinson, who booted a protective helmet about the dugout as his Cardinals appeared to be kicking away another ball game, said today he might need a straitjacket if he has to go through many more games like the 10-9 victory last night over the Pirates.

"You're the last of the Mohicans; I don't have any other moves left, so it's up to you," Hutchinson told Alex Grammas as the shortstop grabbed a bat to swing for Joe Frazier in the last of the tenth. Alex, the twenty-first player used by the Redbirds, leaving only five pitchers for emergency duty if the game went beyond the tenth inning, then delivered a squeeze-bunt single that scored Rip Repulski.

Thus ended a three-hour, 46-minute marathon that put the Cardinals back in first place in the National League on the eve of the World Champion Dodgers' first invasion of Busch Stadium this season.

Brooklyn, smarting under a losing streak of four games, will start Don Newcombe, 4-0 against the Redbirds last season and 11-5 against the Cards in his lifetime, in the 8 o'clock game tonight.

Hutchinson will counter with righthander Ben Flowers, then follow up with Willard Schmidt tomorrow night and Tom Poholsky Saturday afternoon. Chuck Templeton, rookie lefthander, is likely to start for the Dodgers in the series on the strength of his one-hit, nine-inning performance in an exhibition with Cleveland Monday.

Walls Proves Strong.

The pesky Pirates, who had knocked off the Dodgers twice Sunday, were close to a sweep of the two-game series with the Cardinals. They had broken an 8-8 tie in the tenth on Curt Roberts' leadoff triple over Centerfielder Jackie Brandt's head and a two-out line double in left by Lee Walls, the fifth hit in as many official at-bats and the third two-bagger for the bespectacled Pittsburgh rookie. Repulski made a good dive for Walls' sinking drive, attempting to make the catch.

In the home tenth, ex-teammate George Munger, who had squeezed out of a three-on, one-out ninth-inning jam by getting Stan Musial to foul out, then striking out Dick Schofield, walked leadoff man Wally Moon on four pitches. After Brandt sacrificed, Repulski also walked. In came sidearmer Nelson King and Walker Cooper drove in the tying run with a hard single to left center that also sent Repulski to third. Frazier was announced as the hitter for Collum, but when Manager Bobby Bragan switched to Lefthander Lino Donoso, Grammas was called on for his bunt stint. First Baseman Dale Long bobbled the ball, but had little hope, if any, for a play.

Collum, of course, was credited with the victory, but old Ellis Kinder was the only effective hurler among the five pitchers used by Hutchinson. The 41-year-old righthander went to the rescue in the seventh with Walls on second base, none out, and the Birds clinging to an 8-7 lead that had been built up by Stan Musial's second grandslam home run of the season in the fifth.

After Kinder got the first two batters, pinchhitter Danny Kravitz grounded a single to right to tie the score. Then Ellie set the Bucs down in order in the eighth and pitched out of a jam in the ninth which Walls led off with an infield hit.

Mighty Busy Man.

Musial, who has taken over the league R.B.I. lead with 16, had put the Redbirds in front in the first inning with another R.B.I. on a sacrifice fly, following singles by Don Blasingame and Red Schoendienst and a passed ball. The Man, who also walked three times, caught hold of a slider off Jack McMahan, rookie lefty, for his fourth homer. The first-pitch drive carried onto Grand boulevard.

Doubles by Bill Sarni and Blasingame in the second and two walks followed by Ken Boyer's single in the fourth gave the Cardinals two more runs and sent Starter Ron Kline to the showers. Starter Harvey Haddix's failure to heed Johnny Hopp, coaching at third, cost at least one more second-inning tally. Haddix could have scored easily on Blasingame's double.

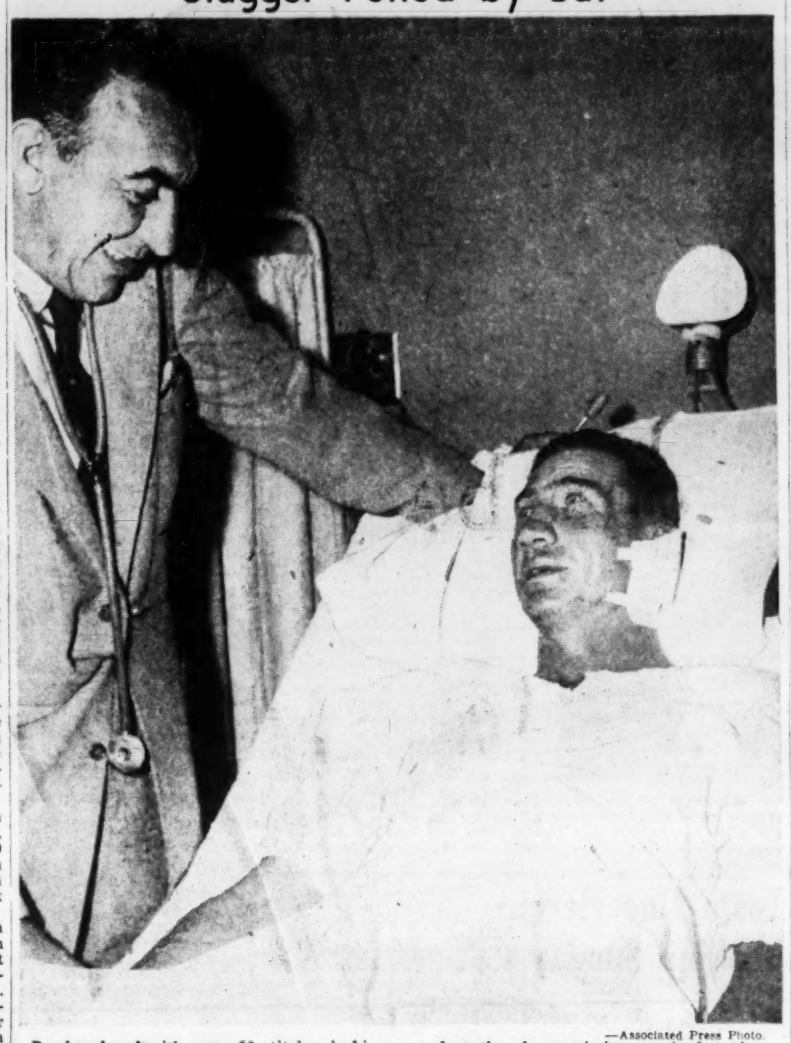

Pittsburgh pecked away at Haddix and routed him in the fifth. But Lindy McDaniel couldn't put out the fire which sent the Pirates in front, 6-3, before the Birds rebounded with five runs in their fifth. Preceding Musial's seventh grandslammer of his career, Hal Smith, a pinch batter making his first big league appearance, whacked a long double to drive in Repulski, who had bunted safely.

Baumgartner Wins 3 For Concordia Team

Three firsts by Willie Baumgartner and two by Roger Fink helped Concordia Seminary down Greenville College, 79 to 55, in a dual track meet on the Concordia cinders. Baumgartner won the high jump, and the high and low hurdles, while Fink was best in the 220 and 440 events.

Slugger Felled by Bat

Bandaged and with some 50 stitches in his ear, and another dozen stitches required to close a cut inside his lip, HANK SAUER is shown as he rested at Jewish Hospital early today after receiving treatment from DR. I. C. MIDDLEMAN, Cardinal team physician. Sauer, 37-year-old slugger with the Cardinals, was injured when hit by a flying bat during batting practice yesterday evening. Sauer's ear almost was severed. He was to be kept at the hospital for observation.

Season Going to Strange Lengths: Dodgers Lose Four In Row; Giants Win in 17th

NEW YORK, May 3 (INS)—The Dodgers aren't dead . . . yet. They're just in a coma. Their own anemic hitting and pitching, plus better-balanced opposition this year, has the world champions from Brooklyn wallowing in fourth place on the tail end of a four-game losing streak.

The opposition has belted 14 hurlers for 34 runs and 51 hits, against a total of 11 runs and 25 hits for Brooklyn.

No matter how you slice it, the Dodgers are hurting. Even when they regain their form at the plate, as they started to do in last night's 10-to-6 defeat at Cincinnati, Alston is left with a problem on the mound as he prepares to open a series tonight at St. Louis.

The Redlegs last night set a club record against Dodger pitching, banging out five home runs—two by Gus Bell and one each by Ray Jablonski, George Crowe and Wally Post.

The 13 blows against Craig, Jim Hughes, Ken Lehman and Ed Roebuck also included two doubles and a bases-loaded triple by Roy McMillan as the Redlegs' winning streak stretched to six games.

Two major league records were set when New York defeated Chicago, 6 to 5, in the only other scheduled N.L. game—a 17-inning marathon that lasted five hours, 15 minutes.

Idle Chicago backed into the American League lead when Detroit beat the New York Yankees, 8 to 1, on Frank Lary's three-hitter.

Jackie Jensen's run-scoring single in the first inning gave the Red Sox all they needed against Kansas City. Brewer didn't permit a man past first base as he won his second in three decisions and lowered his earned run average to 0.72.

The Giants handed the bewildered Cubs their ninth defeat in 12 starts this year, and seventh in succession, when Alvin Dark doubled in the seventeenth inning, reached third on a wild pitch by Jim Brosnan and scored on Daryl Spencer's sacrifice fly.

Spencer earlier homered for the Giants, who credited the victory to sixteenth-inning reliefer Joe Margoneri, and the Cubs got homers from Solly Drake, Gene Baker and Ernie Banks.

The game was only four minutes short of the longest major league game on record. Forty-eight players were used, to set a major league mark and the 25 used by the Giants was another baseball high.

Don Hoak of the Cubs struck out six times, setting a National League record and tying the major league mark established by Pitcher Carl Weilman with the Browns in 1913. Although Weilman's record came in a 15-inning game, he batted only six times. Hoak had seven at-bats.

Mickey Mantle saved the Yankees from their first shutout in 86 games when he homered in the ninth inning. It was only the third hit off Lary.

50 Stitches for Sauer's Ear, But X-Rays Show No Fracture

X-rays of Hank Sauer's skull and jaw were negative and the Cardinal outfielder, whose left ear was severely injured by a flying bat before last night's game, was expected to be back in uniform in a few days, the Redbird office announced today.

Further examination by an eye-ear-nose specialist disclosed that the eardrum was undamaged, Dr. I. C. Middleman, team physician, said. There are lacerations of the ear canal but the ear is expected to heal properly. Some 50 stitches were required to patch up the badly damaged ear and 12 additional stitches were needed for a cut inside Sauer's upper lip.

Sauer, who suffered a severe concussion, will remain at Jewish Hospital a few days before getting back in uniform.

Although Sauer didn't lose consciousness, he was dazed briefly when the bat slipped from Walker Cooper's hands and struck the outfielder, who had been standing just outside the cage after taking his swings.

Shortly before Sauer was hurt, the Cardinals had announced that first basemen Joe Cunningham and Tom Alston had been cut loose again.

Alston, who was shipped to Omaha, and Cunningham, who went to Rochester, both on 24-hour recall, were considered expendable with Wally Moon, the outfielder turned first baseman, hitting so well and fielding adequately. Neither Alston, in two times at bat, nor Cunningham, in three at-bats, had hit safely this season.

Ken Boyer, now hitting .476, had to leave the game because of a pulled muscle in his left leg following his turn at bat in the fifth. Trainer Bob Bauman said the third baseman probably suffered the injury while at bat earlier in the game.

If Boyer has to sit out tonight's game, Moon probably will move to No. 3 in the batting order with Stan Musial taking over Boyer's cleanup spot, Manager Hutchinson said. Tonight's contest will be No. 2000 for Musial. Only 54 players, including Enos Slaughter, have reached that mark.

Even if the Cubs and Giants hadn't used the 48 players they did in their game earlier in the day, the Cardinals and Pirates, by sending 41 men into action, would have missed the major league record. The Birds and Phillies used 42 players in 1954, and the Red Sox and Orioles tied that mark the following month.

Paid attendance was 6382.—N.R.

Injuries May End Career of Tony DeSpirito

LAUREL, Md., May 3 (AP)—The jockey career of Tony DeSpirito, the hard luck kid of the silks and saddle set, may have ended yesterday on an operating table at Prince George's General Hospital, Cheverly, Md.

One kidney and the spleen of the 22-year-old rider were removed in an operation performed by Drs. William Chase and Louis Bachrack, it was reported here.

DeSpirito was injured Tuesday when his mount, Folderol, fell in the fifth race. A preliminary examination at the hospital revealed three fractured ribs. The more serious injuries were disclosed today following considerable hemorrhaging.

Doctors said he will be out of action for at least two to three months, and perhaps forever. His condition was described as good.

Last September, Tony was seriously hurt when he fell with Open Sesame in the Beldame Handicap at Aqueduct.

18 Horses Entered in Derby, One Scratched

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 3 (UP)—Eighteen three-year-olds were entered today for Saturday's running of the $125,000-added Kentucky Derby but before the entry box was closed one of them was scratched.

There were no changes or surprises from those expected to start. But T. A. Grissom's Reaping Right, the first horse to pass through the entry box, hurt his left hind leg while galloping at about the same time Stable Agent Felix P. Aime was filling out the entry slip.

Trainer V. R. (Tennessee) Wright said the injury wasn't too serious but he did not want to take a chance with the colt by running him in the Derby. The $250 he paid to pass through the entry box, however, was lost.

Needles, the Calumet entry of Fabius and Pintor Lea, the C. V. Whitney entry of Career Boy and Head Man; Invalidate (another horse owned by Grissom), Countermand, Terrang, Count Chic, High King, Besomer, Jean Baptiste, Black Emperor, Ben A. Jones, No Regrets, Come On Red and King O' Swords were those expected to start.

Needles, the favorite owned by the D and H Stable, drew the No. 1 post position. Only two days ago, when the actual starting field loomed large but uncertain, Trainer Hugh Fontaine said he was willing to take the outside and let the others draw. But in the draw Needles, winner of the Flamingo Stakes and the Florida derby this year, got the coveted starting berth. Dave Erb will be his rider.

The only horse without a jockey was one of Calumet Farm's pair. Bill Hartack was named for both Pintor Lea and Fabius. But if both start, Bobby Baird is expected to get the mount on Pintor Lea.

Career Boy, who like Needles is noted for his late drive rather than his early foot, got the second post position. Eric Guerin will ride this son of Phalanx.

With 18 horses entered and 17 starting, the Derby will be worth $167,550 with a record purse of $123,450 going to the winner.

(The Derby field, with jockeys and post positions, will be found on next page.)

BETWEEN ROUNDS

By W. J. McGoogan

Slimy Episode in Boxing On Screen.

BOXING fans and many others, too, will remember Primo Carnera, the Italian Giant who came to this country almost 30 years ago. Under the auspices of mobsters out of New York he toured the United States as a heavyweight boxer, winning a long string of victories, many of which were said to be "fixed" fights.

He went on to win the championship from Jack Sharkey in a bout at which the finger of suspicion has always been pointed, then lost the title to Max Baer, after absorbing a terrific beating.

A thinly disguised version of this slimy part of boxing's history has been turned into a movie called "The Harder They Fall," which opens at Loew's State Theater Friday.

The movie is adapted from Budd Schulberg's story of the same name and it sticks about as close to Schulberg's story as the book did to the facts.

"Adapted from the best-selling novel that was written by Budd Schulberg in honest rage—and filmed in anger by people who shared his hatred of the racketeers who trade in human flesh," reads an advertisement for the show.

That from Hollywood!

The part of the over-sized fighter is played by Mike Lane as "Toro Moreno," from Argentina. He bears enough of a resemblance to Primo to do justice to his role and he does so. He is billed as "The Giant of the Andes" instead of the "Ambling Alp" as Carnera was called—among other things.

But the story is built around a former sports writer, turned publicity agent by the chief gangster "Nick Banco, played by Rod Steiger, who does an excellent job.

The press agent is Humphrey Bogart who acts as "Eddie Willis" as though he didn't have much heart in the whole performance.

He is engaged to exploit the huge fighter who is surrounded by other boxing men who attempt to teach him enough about boxing so that he will not make things look too bad. One of the helpers is Joe Walcott who acts as sparring partner and second for the giant.

Toro is sold to the public with a series of framed fights, beginning in California and working back east.

There is nothing resembling the three fights he had in St. Louis, all of which he won by knockouts over Buster Martin, Chuck Wiggins and John Schwake.

Nothing was wrong with his triumph over Schwake because John fought his heart out that night after he had been seriously hurt by two low blows by Carnera. Schwake was permitted a rest of 30 minutes, after which he went back into the ring, finally to be stopped in the seventh round.

Ernie Schaaf Recalled.

AFTER the troupe reaches Chicago, Toro is matched with "Gus Dundee" (played by Pat Comiskey, a former second-rate heavyweight in real life) whom he knocks out and who dies from the effects of the beating, so Moreno thought.

Instead the physician who attends "Dundee" hinted strongly that his injuries were probably due to an earlier fight which "Dundee" had with Bud Brannen (Max Baer).

The whole sequence parallels the unfortunate history of Ernie Schaaf who was beaten badly in 10 rounds by Baer in Chicago, the final bell finding him on the floor knocked out. Later he fought Carnera and was knocked out by the giant and died in a hospital.

In the picture, the death of his opponent so upset Toro that he wanted to go home without fighting the title fight but is persuaded to do so by Willis, who had a 10 per cent cut of the profits to think about.

He fights "Brannen" for the title and is severely beaten. The picture shows him cut and bleeding all over the place until he is counted out in the third round after suffering a broken jaw, among many other injuries.

And when it comes time to collect his money, the bookkeeper for Banco shows that Toro has $49.07 coming for his efforts, although the title bout alone drew $1,200,000. The share of Willis was $26,000.

The finish makes an honest woman out of Willis's wife who, in the book, was something quite different, something Hollywood thought too indecent to screen.

Also it shows Willis sitting down to a typewriter to do an expose of Banco and other racketeers. In the book the ending found Willis in quite a different situation. Again Hollywood changed the script out of deference to the sensibilities of the public or, perhaps, through fear of the censor.

That the movie has caused some commotion around the country, there is no doubt. And it will be viewed with relation to boxing according to the prejudice of each individual.

Here it is felt that it is a distortion and an exaggeration of a situation which was bad enough as it really was.

Head Man 'Fair' in The Mud

By Robert Morrison
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff

LOUISVILLE, May 3 — It was a cool, gray, soaking wet morning on the back side where the barns are at Churchill Downs and the Whitney trainer, Syl Veitch, looked in mock surprise at his visitors.

"What are you fellows doing out on a morning like this? It'd be much better to find a nice dry place like a bar," said the distinguished-looking horse handler who, in different attire, would pass for a Wall Street broker.

This was the morning after Head Man had run a questionable third in the Derby Trial and also was the kind of morning on which it seemed appropriate to bring up a question about the other Whitney hope, Career Boy.

Career Boy doesn't like an off track and the dark brown son of Phalanx dislikes it so much that if it comes up rain or mud for the eighty-second running of the Kentucky Derby Saturday, Career Boy isn't too likely to start.

Weather Big Factor.

He was today but the weather now figures to have more to do with his running Saturday than does his hind-foot injury which is healing.

"It's up to Mr. Whitney, of course," said the 46-year-old Veitch, who started out this spring with a great deal of hope of upsetting the favored Needles in the Derby.

"But if it is left to me, I won't start Career Boy unless it's a good track. Career Boy doesn't like it muddy. He slips and slides and falls all over himself, but as I say, it's up to Mr. Whitney."

The Whitney name runs like a bright thread through many years of Kentucky Derby history but C. V. (Cornelius Vanderbilt) Whitney has yet to get a winner. His father, Harry Payne Whitney, from whom he inherited the thoroughbred racing interests, won with Regret and Whisker, and his aunt, Mrs. Payne Whitney, won with Twenty Grand and Shut Out.

Veitch, who began training horses for the famous stable in 1948, and C. V. Whitney came close to having a winner in 1947 when Phalanx made up several lengths in the stretch to lose by only a head to Jet Pilot. But with six horses in four derbies since, the Veitch-Whitney combination all but once has been unplaced.

Can Go Route.

Career Boy could do it this time, though—if the track is fast. There isn't any doubt about his ability to go the mile and one quarter Derby route.

"He runs better at a mile and a quarter than he does at a mile," said Veitch, as the subject of the conversation — Career Boy—showed a delicately turned ankle as he was walked around the barn after his morning workout.

It was a good morning for ducks, and there were a couple hanging around the barn area. And the rain brought on further pertinent notes (1) that Come On Red will start only if the track is slow and (2) Calumet's Jimmy Jones says he doesn't think Derby Trial winner Fabius can handle an off track.

But with regard to fast or off tracks, the Whitney Stable was pretty well fixed. Head Man is fair in the mud and though Veitch was a bit disappointed with his third place in the Trial, the trainer was inclined to blame it on himself.

Veitch had given Eddie Arcaro orders to stay close to the pace in that test. "I wanted Head Man to get a real good stiff workout. It could be different in the Derby when Arcaro will ride his own race, and undoubtedly hold him back for a while."

There's one thing about this Whitney pair. Career Boy and Head Man haven't been out of the money in the seven races they have had since wintering in South Carolina. Career Boy won the Gotham Stakes at a mile and one sixteenth in one of his three races. Head Man took the six-furlong Experimental Handicap and then the mile and an eighth Wood Memorial when fouled by Golf Ace.

All Carry 126 Pounds.

The three-year-olds all will carry 126 pounds in the Derby, of course, and that, too, will be another factor working for Head Man, a big strong roan. Both Head Man and second-place Countermand were carrying 118 pounds in the Trial while the winner Fabius was assigned only 112.

The six-pound margin was sufficient to raise a doubt about what might have happened at equal weights. Countermand was just a length behind Fabius at the wire, and Head Man another three-quarters length back.

"It could make a difference," admitted Jimmy Jones, who will saddle both Fabius and Pintor Lea if both start for Calumet Farm. Jimmy added:

"I've seen horses that reach the breaking point pretty sharply, like Armed, for instance. He couldn't carry the weight when it was increased from 130 to 132."

And speaking of weight, Jones recalled that the extra five-pound, homebred allowance that Needles received in the Florida Derby might have given that probable Derby favorite a set back in the second of his two big stakes wins this winter.

"Count Chic wasn't very far back in that race," said Jones.

Two Rams Signed.

LOS ANGELES, May 3 (UP)—Woodley Lewis, an end halfback, and Jack Bighead, an end, have signed their 1956 contracts with the Los Angeles Rams.

Hurdle Record By Comfort in U. City Trials

University City has won its invitational track meet every year except one, 1953, when Kirkwood triumphed, and judging by the two days of trials which ended yesterday the Indians will be difficult to dethrone in Saturday's finals of the nineteenth annual affair.

The Tribe of Henry Schemmer qualified just as many as Kirkwood, 30, and between them they spread-eagled the nine-school field. Ladue, in third place, had 11, seven of which were in the junior division where the Rams should do fairly well.

Two records were set in yesterday's preliminaries. Bill Comfort, the district's best hurdler, ran the 180-yard low hurdles in 20.6 seconds, which broke the mark of his University City predecessor, Dick Hammerstein, who was clocked in 20.7 seconds in 1954 and 1955.

Mexico Soccer Team Due Here Today; Plays Simpkins Sunday

By Dent McSkimming

His team could do with a bit more speed at the wings but in all other respects Joe Numi is prepared to field a strong eleven against the Occidente team of Mexico Sunday evening. Their game, at Public Schools Stadium, will start at 8:30.

"We'll be well fixed in the center of the forward line with Ruben Mendoza and Bill Looby flanking Dean Wilson or Guenther Reinhold," said Numi. "But I'd like to have a couple of race horses out on the wings." At the moment he is counting on starting Gino Pariani at outside right and Frank Wallace at outside left, but there is a question about Wallace's playing. He suffered a leg injury in the District soccer final three weeks ago and has not been in training since.

Makeup of Squad.

The St. Louis squad, playing in the uniforms of the Simpkins club and sponsored by the Khoury League, is as follows:

Goal, Frank Borghi; full backs, Sammy Davis, Bob Fitzgerald and John Galimberti; halfbacks, John Traina, Charley Colombo, Harry Desmuke and Sepp Lorenz; forwards, Gino Pariani, Bill Looby, Dean Wilson, Ruben Mendoza, Guenther Reinhold, Frank Wallace, Ray Foster, Johnny Barrale, Larry Miriani and Nick Borzillo.

Numi said he is not certain where he will start Reinhold, the clever, big center forward of last season's Meramec club.

The touring Mexicans, who later will play at Chicago, Detroit, Toronto, Pittsburgh and elsewhere, were scheduled to arrive in St. Louis today. They are making their trip in a chartered bus. Their headquarters during their stay in St. Louis will be the Downtown Y.M.C.A. at Sixteenth and Locust.

Several on National Team.

Occidente, at last reports from Guadalajara, is second in the First Divisibn of Mexico's amateur soccer field. Several of its players have been honored by selection on the national team, including Center Forward Nino Flores, Center Halfback Jorge Rodriguez and Inside Right Jose Mercado.

Occidente had allowed only 11 goals scored by all opponents in the last 11 league games, indicating a tight defense in which Goalie Elias Vasquez and his understudy, Lupe Alvarez, have been standouts.

Kammer Hurls Second Victory In State Tourney for Normandy; Mehlville Beats Brentwood, 2-1

By Harold Tuthill

The Kammer boys certainly are in the baseball news these days. Gene Kammer, who pitched a no-hitter against Wellston last Friday, won another state elimination game for Normandy High yesterday, 5 to 2, over St. Charles.

Emil Kammer, Gene's brother, is the third baseman on the University of Missouri team who distinguished himself Monday with a three-run homer in the Tigers' 7-4 triumph over Colorado.

Gene Kammer, who let St. Charles down with three hits, got some unexpected help from the Pirate fielders in the sixth inning when the Vikings of Art Shipherd pushed across four runs to go ahead, 4-1.

Pitcher Steals Home.

Tom Cooper started the rally with a single. Steve Lewis bunted for a sacrifice and was safe when the St. Charles first baseman missed the throw, Cooper scoring and Lewis advancing to third. Bob Meyers walked and stole second. Kammer grounded to third baseman Hollrah who threw the ball past first, Lewis and Meyers scoring, Kammer reaching second. He went to third as Gregerson bounced out. Kammer then stole home for the fourth and final tally.

The Vikes picked up an extra run in the seventh which St. Charles matched in the home half.

Normandy, state champion in 1953, now has reached the final round of District One and will meet the winner of the St. Mary's-Washington Tech match for the right to oppose the Hannibal district winner there.

In other state games, Cleveland advanced in District Two by beating Du Bourg, 7-1, and U. City and Laboure moved out into the final round of District Three. University City defeated Maplewood, 8 to 3, and Laboure won from Hadley Tech, 6-2.

Southwest defeated Hazelwood, 7-1, in District Four and Country Day and Mehlville gained the final of District Five. Country Day defeated McB

Florida, Louisville Penalized

NEW ORLEANS, May 3 (UP)—Reaction from officials of schools jolted by some of the stiffest penalties ever handed out by the National Collegiate Athletic Association today ranged from surprised shock and amazement at the severity of the punishment to possible appeals.

Six schools were blasted by the N.C.A.A. policy-directing council for rule violations, with Auburn, Florida and Louisville drawing the stiffest penalties ever-imposed for such violations. The punishment in most cases barred the schools from participating in post-season bowl games, invitational tournaments, and N.C.A.A. championship events but did not affect their regular season competition or their participation in conference tournaments.

The Council's action definitely will hurt some of the schools which have strong returning football or basketball teams with tournament and bowl hopes.

Auburn, Florida and Louisville felt the whip of disapproval in yesterday's closing session, while Texas A & M, little Mississippi College and Kansas were penalized Tuesday.

Brothers Paid to Enroll.

The council lowered the boom on Auburn. The Alabama school was placed on three years probation, the longest term ever handed out, because an assistant coach gave twin brothers Harry and Robert Beaube $500 each to enroll at the school.

And it barred Auburn from participating in N.C.A.A. championship and invitational events for the first two years of the probation, and also warned any further violations might bring expulsion from the N.C.A.A.

Florida was given a two-year probation and its athletic teams barred from competition in N.C.A.A. and invitational events for offering prospective student-athletes financial aid in excess of that permitted by the association, including illegal transportation to home and back.

Louisville's basketball team was placed on probation for two years and ruled ineligible to participate in N.C.A.A. and invitational events. It was found guilty of offering excessive aid and illegal transportation to players.

Both Auburn and Florida are members of the Southeastern Conference, which already had taken action against Auburn.

Hopes for Reversal.

At Jacksonville, Fla., Chairman Fred Kent of the State board of control said he was working "to find whether there was any possibility of our being able to obtain a reversal of the decision."

Prof. H. P. Constans, chairman of the Florida Faculty Committee on Intercollegiate Athletics, said he was "deeply concerned" at the severity of the penalty.

Dr. Ralph B. Draughon, Auburn president, said "we took our medicine on the Southeastern Conference ruling and we'll take it on this one. We will do everything possible to get back in good standing. I felt like the penalty was rather severe, but we are going to accept it and live by it."

Kirkwood Wins at Golf.

Kirkwood high school's golf team defeated John Burroughs, 279 to 300, in a dual match at Crystal Lake. John Ross of John Burroughs won individual honors with a score of 40 for the nine-hole competition. John Silver paced Kirkwood with a 41.

—Associated Press Wirephoto.

It looks like the light fantastic on the diamond but actually it's a collision between Detroit outfielder BILL TUTTLE and Yankee First Baseman BILL SKOWRON (14) in the second inning of the game at Yankee Stadium. Tiger Coach JOE GORDON (33) watches the incident in which Tuttle, though shaken up, remained in the game. Skowron retired in the fourth inning with a bruised knee.

Colclasure Adds Three Winners At Fairmount

All Tilly, Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Holman's five-year-old mare, with Billy Gummow aboard, won her fourth victory of the year last night as she beat Clynon of the Red Diamond Stables in the featured six-furlong seventh race at Fairmount Park.

The daughter of Holdall and Morvim was at her best following her second-place finish to King Bebe in the $2500 Inaugural Handicap last Saturday. All Tilly broke fast and was out in front until the pack entered the stretch run. She dropped back momentarily but managed to come back strong during the final 100 yards to win the thriller.

The veteran Jake Colclasure, a product of Louisville, Ill., rode three winners on the third night's program — Bevsboy in the first, Derby Play in the sixth and Woodmore in the eighth—to swell his total to six for the meeting. He's leading the Fairmount riders at the present. Derby Play, with $23, $7.80, $3.60 mutuels, paid the biggest prices for Colclasure.

The chilly weather held the crowd down to 4091. Mutuel handle was $164,228.

Smith Loses Third Straight Non-Title Bout

HOUSTON, Tex., May 3 (INS)—Joe Brown of New Orleans won a unanimous 10-round decision last night from Lightweight Champion Wallace (Bud) Smith of Cincinnati in a non-title fight that was televised nationally.

It was the third straight non-title upset Smith has suffered since he won the crown from Jimmy Carter last October.

Brown, who weighed 139½, opened a cut on Smith's lower lip in the second round. In the eighth, Brown opened cuts over Smith's left eye and left cheekbone.

The referee was Jimmie Webb, former St. Louis boxer.

These Predictions Are Based on Normal Water and Weather Conditions.

The Big Piney, Black, Current, Gasconade, Meramec and White are reported from "dingy to muddy." Better consult a conservation agent before planning a trip on any of these streams. Some of their headwaters may clear up by the weekend. The Eleven Points is "crystal clear."

The upper portion of Bull Shoals is dingy. Crab Orchard also is slightly off color. Little Grassy continues to furnish fine black bass fishing. Kentucky Lake is murky but clearing. Tr

Griesedieck Capture Major City Pin Title

The Griesedieck Bros. five dropped two games to Kutis but clinched the Major City Scratch League's tenpin championship for the fifth straight season last night at Du-Bowl Lanes. Second place Falstaff won two games from Coffee Time, Math Hermanns defeated Albert Picks, 2-1; Monnigs, Surbans Suburbans and Valley Farm did the same to Thurmers, Fred Willens and Nordmanns, respectively. Fred Taff of Falstaff had individual high three of 670. Fred Moll and Joe Glader shared high single honors with 246 games each. League season ends next week.

North County Meet.

Riverview Gardens, which picked up 36 points in the three finals held already, will be a heavy favorite when the North County League high schools complete their track and field meet this afternoon at Ferguson High. Starting time is 2:45.

FACING TRIAL IN BRINK'S CASE

Stanley A. Gusciora is disheveled and defiant as Boston detective Sgt. John Howland places shackles on him in the sheriff's office at Pittsburgh, Pa., yesterday. Gusciora, "a handy man with a gun," was in prison in Pennsylvania when arrested last January as a suspect in the Brink's case and was taken to Boston yesterday to stand trial with seven others in the $1,219,000 robbery.

ACTION ALOFT

Firemen at Detroit joining forces in street- and upper-level assault on blaze in main business district yesterday. Extension ladders were called into play as the fire spread rapidly in the six-story building on Woodward avenue in the heart of the downtown district. Building, occupied by confectionery company, was a total loss, with damage estimated at $1,000,000.

PITTSBURGH ROAD BLOCK

Errant streetcar is center of attraction after rush-hour accident in which 10 persons were injured at Pittsburgh, Pa., Tuesday. The streetcar jumped the tracks and rammed a utility pole after a wheel from the front truck came off. Ten passengers were injured, none of them seriously.

Psychiatrist's Theory

Wives Talk More, Rest More--And Live Longer

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK, May 3 (AP).

WOULD American men, if they talked as much as American women, live as long, too? Dr. Ira M. Altshuler, a Detroit psychiatrist, at least sees this as a possibility.

HAL BOYLE

He has a theory that the big silent male, by keeping his trap shut too much, bottles up his latent hostilities and vexations. But the little lady, when she riles up, gets it out of her system pronto via her vocal cords. She talks herself calm.

Dr. Altshuler, who may fail to emerge as the average American woman's No. 1 pinup hero of the year, also leans to the view men shorten their lives by working too hard to keep their wives happy.

He points out that the average wife "can rest when she chooses." He says household gadgets and the supermarket have made her life "one long day of leisure."

★ ★ ★

There certainly is a great deal of truth in his observation that housewives know the art of resting better than their husbands.

They are never more than 30 paces from a couch or sofa at home and all day long, in between chores, they flop down, stretch out for a few quick moments and take life's load off their minds as well as their feet.

If men had half as much sense, they'd run their life at the office the same way. What makes the tired business man so tired is that, after a wearing three-hour luncheon, he returns to his job and makes one big decision after another.

What he should do is this: After making a decision, he should stretch out on a sofa for half an hour and rest his huge clashing brain cells. Then he'd be ready to arise and resolve another of those crucial issues that confront him all day long—to hear him tell it.

At the end of a day spent alternately in making decisions and taking siestas he'd return home as full of eager energy as his wife. He'd be glad to take her out more often for a night on the town.

★ ★ ★

Women worked themselves to death fairly young in the old days. Boredom also probably helped shorten their lives.

The ordinary active housewife today gets more done about the house in a few hours than her great-grandmother did in two days. She runs a prettier house, too. But she doesn't stop with that.

The home doesn't circumscribe her universe. She takes more interest in the school her children attend. She takes an interest in the fields of sport, art, politics and culture—and even her husband's work. She isn't merely a slave to her home, as her great-grandmother was. She knows five times as much about what is going on in the world.

★ ★ ★

THERE ARE PROBABLY many reasons why women live longer than men, including the fact they may be basically built of sterner stuff.

But surely one reason for the superior longevity of woman is—aside from her greater common sense in taking proper rest when she needs it—her superior curiosity. She is actually intellectually more interested in exploring the endless and stimulating variety that life holds.

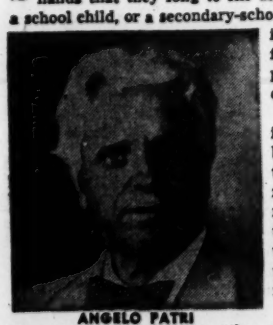

Interest is what keeps people alive. Men usually get bored with life easier than women do, and that certainly is partly why they let go of it sooner.

Men in later years have to find a hobby to keep from drying up—and giving up. But with women life itself is their favorite hobby.

Summer Vacation

By Angelo Patri

SCHOOL closes soon for the summer vacation, and many of the pupils are going to be left with time on their hands that they long to fill usefully. To be as young as a school child, or a secondary-school student, and have nothing to do is a dreadful affliction and one no young person should be asked to endure.

ANGELO PATRI

Our young people are intelligent. They have been reared in our national tradition of a job for everyone. Then summer comes, a season when they are at the peak of their growth and longing to exercise it, and there is no place for them.

This is something for the community leaders to take over. The Chamber of Commerce, the business men's clubs, the church leaders, the social workers, are the people to handle this important matter, important to every citizen in the town.

★ ★ ★

BUSY PEOPLE are happy people. They are unlikely to get into any mischief and more than likely to be gathering experiences and skills that develop them intellectually, spiritually and physically.

Boys and girls cannot locate the summer job without advice and help. Their teachers should list those who want to work during vacation and, armed with the list, consult with the people I have enumerated.

The guidance teacher, if there is one, or the class teacher, could help by talking with the pupil to help him to get a clearer idea of what he wants to do, why he thinks he wants to do it, what background of experience or skill, or both, he has that will strengthen his claim to the place. This will prepare the young person for the interview with the responsible person in charge of the program or the job itself.

IT IS IMPORTANT that this summer job be such as to strengthen the young worker's knowledge and skill in the field he thinks he will make his own. If he or she is planning on engineering, he belongs in that sort of shop or firm. If teaching, he belongs in a summer school as a helper, or in a camp as an assistant—the idea being that the summer job is an introduction to the young person's elected life-work. It is not the best idea for a prospective salesman to take a job on a farm. He should do that only if association with a sales job is closed to him.

What I would impress on the adults in every community is their personal responsibility for the useful occupation of every young person of working age and ability. The neighbor's child does concern each parent and each neighbor. Each child's life influences every other child's in town. Every family, too.

The Search for Good Soft-Boiled Egg

It's One of the Hardest Things to Find—Some Helpful Suggestions

By Hoyt Alden

NEXT to a good nickel cigar, one of the hardest things to find in this country is a good soft - boiled egg. This sounds surprising, especially in view of the fact that boiling an egg seems like a fairly simple procedure, but it's true.

There is considerable difference in the flavor of an egg that has been boiled one minute and one that has been boiled three minutes. Not to mention in the consistency. Most people have discovered, at one time or another, how long they like their eggs boiled to get just the flavor they like. Then they spend the rest of their lives trying to get them that way.

The chief trouble seems to lie with a lack of knowledge of some of the simple fundamentals of boiling an egg. Some people try to time them from the time they put them in the hot water, others, after putting them in cold water, try to time them from the time the water boils. As a matter of fact these are two entirely different methods of boiling an egg.

★ ★ ★

THE usual method (mind, I didn't say the best method) is to have enough water boiling to cover the egg. Lower the egg gently into the water, and start timing from that moment. At one minute it's very soft with the white still liquid. At two minutes it's still quite soft with the white beginning to coagulate. At three minutes the yolk will be soft, the white coagulated but still a little runny. At four minutes, which is usually the preferred state for people who like to use an egg cup, the white will be stiff with the yolk soft. At five minutes the whole egg is stiff.

When you're boiling eggs this way it's a good idea to have them out of the refrigerator long enough to warm up a little, or they may crack wide open when they hit the hot water.

A better way to boil eggs, if you have the time, is to start with cold water. Put the eggs in enough cold water to cover them and then let the water come to a boil over a moderate fire. Watch it carefully and start timing the moment the water comes to a rolling boil.

THE CHIEF TROUBLE SEEMS TO LIE WITH A LACK OF KNOWLEDGE OF SOME OF THE SIMPLE FUNDAMENTALS OF BOILING AN EGG.

BUT—you don't use the same timetable. Take two minutes off. For instance, if you like four-minute eggs by the other method, you will cook them only two minutes this way. Don't ask me why, but the fact remains that eggs boiled this way are tenderer and have a better flavor.

But for the best flavor and the tenderest of all, the third method, usually known as "coddling" is the best. It takes time, however. Bring enough water to a boil to cover the eggs. When it reaches a galloping boil, put in the eggs and turn off the fire. Cover the pan and let them stand for eight minutes.

Poached eggs are something else again. It takes great skill and years of practice to be able to properly poach an egg, and even then it's a hazardous proceeding considered by many hardly worth the trouble.

To begin with, the average egg seems to resist poaching. You drop it in the water and it swirls around a couple of times, the white seems to dissolve into nothing, and you wind up with the yolk cooking gaily away with a nimbus of about a quarter of an inch of white surrounding it.

But there are tricks by which you can outwit the egg. One thing to remember is that rapidly boiling water agitates the egg, which is what disseminates the whites. Also the white of an egg seems to dissolve in lukewarm water, so the water has to be hot enough to make it coagulate immediately.

So the trick is to get the water to a galloping boil, turn off the heat, slide the egg immediately, let it stand off the fire for a half minute or so, and then put it back on the fire over a low flame. Don't let it boil again. After about three minutes, you should have a poached egg.

For added insurance, put a half teaspoon of vinegar in the water before you boil it. This speeds up coagulation, but doesn't affect the taste of the egg.

And drain them well before you put them on toast. Ring Lardner once said of someone that he reminded him of the toast under a poached egg: Useless and all wet.

COOK BOOKS say that eggs should be fried in moderately hot fat. Me, I like them country-fried, and there's nothing moderate about that. This method is best if you've just cooked a big slice of country ham and have a skillet full of ham grease.

Have the grease smoking hot and break in the eggs. The grease should be bubbling and popping. Tip the skillet and with your egg turner keep flipping hot grease on top of the eggs. As soon as the whites are coagulated the eggs are done. Scoop them out. A little salt and pepper, plenty of buttered toast and the above mentioned ham, and that's fried eggs, country style.

Designing Woman

Selecting Summer Rugs

By Elizabeth Hillyer

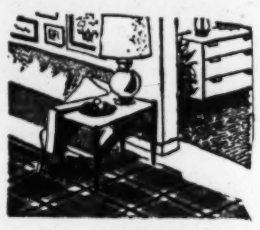

SHOULD all the summer rugs be in the same pattern, or can there be a change from room to room? Even in the simple rugs that cool the scene for summer, more than one pattern can be chosen.

Mrs. G. F. asks: "Would it be a mistake to choose a big plaid for one of the fiber rugs we plan to change to for summer, when we need two more for adjoining rooms? The plaid, which would look good in the living room, would be too much for the hall and the dining room, both of which open onto the living room."

Even the good-looking plaid designs of fiber rugs have a smartly tweedy look, which relates them very definitely to the plain tweeds. There's no reason you can't have the plaid if it suits the living room best, Mrs. F., and tweeds for the hall and the dining room because the relationship of the two patterns provides a smooth continuity from room to room.

★ ★ ★

MRS. C. G. "I'd like to change a wall in my kitchen to relate it to a window. It's now covered with a provincial patterned wallpaper. The other walls are bright yellow, the cabinets are natural birch with yellow counter-tops and the floor covering is a green spatter linoleum. The window, above the sink and opposite the papered wall, is a picture window type with casement windows on the sides. It faces south and needs protection from the sun. I'm not especially interested in draw draperies if there is another solution."

A GOOD LOOKING PLAID DESIGN.

A matching wallpaper and fabric would relate the wall and the window. The best fabric would probably be a semi-sheer which protects against too much light but does not cut it off entirely. A lightly traced pattern in black on white is the easiest to find in a semi-sheer which matches wallpaper and would look good in the room. A simple straight-hanging curtain will look best, and there are advantages in rigging it to draw or hanging it cafe style so it can be drawn by hand. You could also use fine wood slat or matchstick shades or draperies which also filter light—and relate it to the wall with color.

Woman Who Is Afraid To Marry

By Dr. Paul Popenoe

EVERYONE knows a few men and women who profess to want to marry but are actually avoiding marriage, throwing away every chance—and then complaining about it. Augusta tells me she is among those. She writes:

"Why would a woman of 29 want to turn away from what could have been a good marriage? I am on the verge of losing a young man with whom I have gone, more or less steadily, for two years. He is a little older than I, doesn't drink (which is of great importance to me because of some things that have happened in my own family), we have no religious differences, have hobbies in common, and from a common-sense point of view, I'd say he would be a good husband for me."

★ ★ ★

SHE CONTINUES: "Well, what's the matter, then? I don't know. I seem to feel that he isn't good enough for me, and I tell myself that he only finished the tenth grade in school. (He had to go to work to help support his mother.) Actually, I only have a high-school education myself. I have never had many boy friends and have never been serious about any. I live at home and will admit I have depended a great deal on my family. I realize I will face a big responsibility if I marry, and at times the prospect appalls me. I have a good job, but am not wedded to it.

"Although I have tried to find fault with this man, I guess most of the fault lies in myself. At one time he was very much in love. Now, he seems as mixed up as I am. A successful marriage would be of great importance to both of us. Can you do anything to help us clear up our confusion?"

★ ★ ★

YES, AUGUSTA, I can do a great deal—but not much in a newspaper column. Your story is identical with at least a hundred others that we have heard in the last year at the American Institute of Family Relations. You don't believe in yourself, are too dependent on your own family, and have never been taught to stand on your own feet, make your own decisions, and live a full and useful life. You weren't born that way, but are the victim of wrong education, as are a million other girls in North America. Fortunately, you can be re-educated. It will take a little time, but you will enjoy life more each month as you progress.

It is not easy for you to do this alone, so I am sending you the name and address of a marriage counselor. Like many other young women, you are merely afraid to marry because you were never taught to live fully. Start today.

Potato salad on the menu? You'll need to cook five medium-sized potatoes (in their skins) to peel and dice to make about three cups.

Let's Explore Your Mind

By Dr. Albert E. Wiggam

Answer to Question 1

MANY men do. One of the quickest ways to lose your wife's love is to fail to tell her you love her, in so many words. Many husbands think when they have promised to "love and cherish," that ends it. Such men say, "She knows I love her. It's silly to keep telling her so." Maybe, but most wives love that kind of silly husband.

Answer to Question 2

This is one of the worst habits in the world. Writers who "wait for inspiration" usually keep on waiting. Work is what brings inspiration. I have talked about this with many leading writers, and, while, of course, they feel more like writing some days than others, they all say plunging in and hammering away is the main thing that brings inspiration. So, the way to get that long-delayed letter written is to sit down and begin. Before you know it, the thing is done.

Answer to Question 3

No. Woodrow Wilson said, "Every generation has to learn its financial lessons all over again." The same with political and social lessons. Over 400,000 volumes have been written on human history, and it would be a dull intellect that could not find some points of similarity between various periods; but history has been mainly a vast pageant of swirling human passions, and the notion that we're simply going around and around in circles, I think, has little support.

Brain Game

1. Can you name the father of Methuselah?
2. Which of Joseph's brothers pleaded for him?
3. Can you name the three sons of Noah?
4. Who killed Absalom?
5. Can you name the father of Ahab?

ANSWERS

1. Enoch. 2. Reuben. 3. Shem, Ham and Japheth. 4. Joab. 5. Imri.

My Neighbor Says:

Put up a narrow stainless steel rack (with hooks on it) in your kitchen. These racks are usually sold for mixing spoons, spatulas and so forth; but an extra one (with eight hooks on it) will be fine for hanging four graduated measuring cups and four graduated measuring spoons. If you like to have two sets of the cups and spoons on hand, you can hang both sets on the hooks of the rack.

Sprinkle biscuit dough with cheese and shape jelly-roll fashion; cut off slices and bake in a hot oven. Good with creamed fish.

On Broadway

CURTAIN-TIME: "Goodbye Again," last week's only offering (at the Helen Hayes), didn't stay long enough to say Hel'o. . . . It closed after a run of half-a-week. . . . Donald Cook, Poliy Rowles, Hiram Sherman and Tom Preston gave the dated comedy its only tone of professionalism. . . . A first-nighter summed it up in the foyer with: "It's so Poughkeepsie!" . . . "Waiting For Godot" (at the Golden) is selling more controversy than tickets. Several newspaper intellectuals called it various things, except entertainment. . . . But Variety's reporter concurred with the dissenters, noting that "without Bert Lahr's canny, precise hokum playing, 'Godot' might be downright appalling" and "to find explicit meaning in any specific bit of dialog is like trying to make sense of the disconnected palaver of a couple of maudlin souses.". . . James Hilton's "Lost Horizon" is now a musical named "Shangri-La." . . . One New Haven critic mourned, "If the book matched the lavishness of its scenery and costumes this would be a terrific show." . . . "The Ziegfeld Follies," despite tepid notices in the tryout towns, is a sellout.

THE CINEMAGICIANS: "Jubal" presents a triangle with the familiar angles. Ernest Borgnine and Glenn Ford give it more assistance that it deserves. . . . "The Creature Walks Among Us" is a nightmare searching for an audience to sleep with. . . . Metro's "The Swan" is charming. The stars are Grace Grimaldi, Alec Guinness and Louis Jourdan. . . . "Godzilla, King of the Monsters" (an import from Japan) is science-fiction. Several episodes are banzai-worthy. . . . An Italian satire named "The White Sheik" is sharp, slick and sassy funtertainment. . . . "The Birds and the Bees" leans clumsily on George Gobel for support. His wink-sly drollery is frequently jolly, but the film is more ho-hum than ho-ha.

STAIRWAY TO THE STARS: Leslie Caron, the Parisienne star, is now a N.Y. landlord. Prop of a swank apartment house. . . . Ronny Graham, a Blue Angel feature, is busy making lucre. In addition to his late spot stint, he authored Tallulah's sketch in the "Follies" and is writing several for "New Faces." . . . The advance word is sugary for Carol Haney in the "Follies." Her best number, they report, is "The Night The Lion Broke Loose." . . . "Silk Stockings" left town (after a 15-month-run) with a profit of $50,000. One of the clicks most critics rejected. . . . Newcomer James Holden won the Andy Griffith star role in the Chicago troupe of "No Time for Sergeants."

THE INTELLIGENTSIA: Sam Shaw (his camera-art is on the cover of Look) leads a dream life. Just spent weeks on location with Marilyn, months in Paris with Gina and is now in Spain with Sophia. . . . Marjorie Farnsworth (N.Y. Journal-American reporter-ace) has put Flo Ziegfeld between covers. Putnam will publish in Oct. . . . Tin Pan Alley's newest song hit is "Treasure Of Love." The parent is J. Shapiro, of the English department at Lafayette High (Bklyn.). . . . Talk about lucky. Newcomers to the Broadway producing ranks include Brisson, Griffith & Prince. Their first two offerings are over the $1,500,000 mark, "Pajama Game" and "Damn Yankees." . . . Nat Benchley, John Steinbeck, Marc Connelly, et al, dreamed up these Indian-tribe-song-titles: "Mohawk Belongs To Daddy" . . . "Algonquin Buy a Paper Doll That I Can Call My Own" . . . "I Navaho I Could Love Anybody Honey Like I'm Lovin' You" . . . "Aztec the High Road and You Take the Low Road."

'Bad Medical Advice'

By Peter Steincrohn, M.D.

THOMAS HARDY, the English novelist, said: "The man who writes stands up to be shot at." You don't have to dig too far into that sentence to recognize what he meant. However, one can read into it more reasons than one. For instance, the doctor who expresses medical opinions easily available to millions of readers is an inviting target for pot shots from persons who disagree (laymen and doctors alike). He gets letters of appreciation; but also his share of letters of mild or bitter disagreement.

DR. STEINCROHN

But I hope to have Hardy's good fortune: although he stood up in full view, no arrow of reader-discontent ever found a vital spot: he lived to be 88 years old.

★ ★ ★

ANY NUMBER of subjects will especially irk readers. For example, if I write that I do not advise EVERYBODY to stop smoking (even though I have emphasized that many should stop) I am sure to get protesting letters against this "bad medical advice." Some persons have said that I'm instrumental in spreading cancer of the lung by such dangerous suggestions.

If I mention that alcohol is occasionally of value in medical treatment, the arrows whiz by thick and dangerously close. The readers skip my exclamatory sentences which emphasize the dangers of chronic alcoholism. All they remember is that I am advocating we become a nation of topers.

★ ★ ★

BUT THESE WELL-MEANT RECRIMINATIONS are as nothing compared to what I have been hearing for years in answer to my convictions against exercise. From all over this globe I have been getting shot at by the arrows of exercise-zealots.

I have been writing for years that over-exercise can kill you. And I write about it again today because I have just heard that one of my doctor friends (who should have known better) was recently carried off the tennis courts with a "coronary." When he recovers, I shall have another convert. (I can't talk people into being on my side; it seems they need to be in a near-tragedy first.)

★ ★ ★

UNTIL NOW, my friend the doctor has disagreed that exercise will hurt the normal heart. I will suggest that he continue with that disbelief. What needs emphasizing again, however, is this: when you go out on a tennis court or engage in 36 holes of golf on a weekend, are you sure that you have a NORMAL HEART?

I found some interesting statistics written by Dr. Louis H. Dublin in his book, "The Facts of Life": "It is a common but erroneous belief that strenuous physical activity can damage the heart. The healthy heart can stand almost any physical exertion without being impaired. However, over-exertion can prove fatal to the person with the diseased heart."

Therefore, the problem boils down to one of "early recognition." Do you—or don't you—have a normal heart? If you do, you may exercise moderately. If you don't you may kill yourself.

Exercise Advice for the Housewife

Rosemarie Archangel of Fontbonne Tells How to Keep in Shape While Doing Daily Chores

By Clarissa Start

HOUSEWIVES should stop thinking of their home chores as a bore and think of them, instead, as an easy and inexpensive way of keeping in trim. The stooping, bending, reaching movements involved in the average homemaker's daily routine, if done properly, can be as beneficial as salon supervised setting-ups.

"Many women don't realize they're getting anything out of household exercises," says Rosemarie Archangel, director of the physical education department at Fontbonne College, "but if you just ate and did nothing you'd soon be as big as a blimp. The ordinary household tasks help retain your weight where it is."

Miss Archangel, whose duty it is to work with young and, for the most part slim, college girls who may some day be housewives, doesn't maintain that keeping house will make you look like a slender youngster. Nor does she hold with the theory that 10 minutes of salon-type exercises a day will "do wonders for you."

"You can't lose weight by exercise alone," she says. "You know that old bumping exercise which went on the theory that you can break down the fat. Well, that's not true. Fat is a chemical compound; it can't be broken down physically. It has to be broken down in the same way it's built up, by using it.

However, she adds, household exercises while making no claims to pare you down, will keep you fit and, if done properly, should not tire you.

"Good body mechanics are important in the use of the body in the home," she stresses, "in order to have enough energy to do your household tasks without great fatigue and have enough left over to entertain or go bowling with your husband."

One of the first things necessary to daily exercise is a period of warmup, of three to five minutes every morning, she says. These should be gentle, stretching motions—bending over at the waist and just hanging, for instance, is a good one.

"Most people think if they bend over at the waist they have to do something," Miss Archangel says. "Touch their toes, or it's useless. But just hanging from the middle can stretch the back and leg muscles which is important for women who wear high heels. The warm-up prepares the muscles for activity. It's like a car; you have to start out slowly or the engine will die."

Once she's started her day, the average little woman around home should remember that good posture is the best insurance against fatigue. This doesn't mean an exaggerated chin out, ramrod spine type of posture but a general consciousness of straight, head-reaching-toward-the-ceiling posture. Good posture involves not only standing but sitting, walking, running, even sleeping. Probably the worst posture fault most people have is lying on the back and piling on blankets so that their toes are pointed down all night. A half face, half side posture is much better. If you sleep on your back, a pillow under your knees is helpful; if you sleep on your face, one under your stomach.

As for sitting, Miss Archangel deplores the habit of using your hands to push you up or help you down. Just sit, she urges.

Around the house, there's a right and a wrong way to do practically everything, and how you do your work will determine how you feel at the end of the day.

"Carrying is the thing most women do," Miss Archangel says. "Carrying furniture, carrying clothes to the washing machine, to the cleaners. The ideal method woulld be to carry everything on your head, as the African natives do, but since this probably would cause comment in your neighborhood, the next best thing is to shift the weight of whatever you're carrying. Children often get spine curvatures from carrying books on one side and women can tire themselves by habitually carrying objects around the home on one side. Try to alternate.

* * *

"If you're carrying a bulky object lake a washbasket don't rest it on your abdomen and sway back as many women do. The easiest way to carry a bulky object is on the shoulder, hand outstretched under it as waiters carry a tray. Waiters incidentally use very good body mechanics; they have to or they'd collapse. In carrying something big and bulky, get as many bases of support as you can.

"If you carry an object that is heavy and has no way to grasp it, say a portable radio, let it rest on your arms in front of you. If it has handles, like a portable sewing machine, carry it as closely to your side as possible."

In operating a vacuum cleaner, too, avoid push-pull operation and try to swing into the movements.

In reaching, the best advice, Miss Archangel believes, is "don't overdo it." If there's something on a top shelf that you can just barely reach, don't strain to grasp it. Stand on a sturdy box or chair, or, best of all, that handy helper, the kitchen step-stool. When lifting objects, it's best to stoop down to them, keeping the back straight and bending the knees. Then lift with the leg muscles brought into use; don't bend over and put all the strain on the back muscles.

Unfortunately, she points out, women don't get as much exercise around the house as they once did. Appliances, like dishwashers, now do many of the things women formerly did by hand.

"Not that I object to household gadgets," she adds hastily, "I love 'em, wish I had all of them myself."

However, since women often miss some of the exercises they used to get, such as beating a cake by hand—a good toner-upper for the flabby upper arm muscles—she suggests that they take time out to do specialized exercises for those special places in which fat seems to build up. The idea that exercise might build up unsightly muscles is a popular misconception, she adds.

"Some exercises will build up muscle," she says, "but ordinary housework or ordinary exercise won't do it."

There are three spots where bulges tend to form on the average woman—(1) just below the armpits, (2) around the waist, the typical sparetire, and (3) upper thighs. Since summer sheath dresses, bathing suits and shorts are revealing ("in winter you can hide under a boxy jacket,") Miss Archangel suggests that even the housewife in good trim might try a few specialty numbers for the bulgy spots.

For fat on the upper body, she suggest a twisting exercise, like this:

"Swing arms across body in front, crossing them until you can feel a definite pull. Do this a few times the first day, gradually increase the number."

* * *

"Do twisting exercises again, this time turning the body halfway. Don't go crazy about it," she warns, "you might strip your gears. Take it easy until there's a pull felt.

"Another good one for the waist is to lie on the floor, cross hands on chest, and raise head and feet, simultaneously. Again, don't work too hard at this one. After you've mastered it, you can add to the basic exercise by putting the arms behind the head so you have to lift them, too. Then trying raising them over your head and letting them trail as you pull up. This," she adds with a fiendish look, "will kill you."

For the thigh bulges, one of the best is the tried and true airplane exercise, lying on the back, arms outstretched, and bringing the leg across the body to touch the hand on the opposite side. Again, slow motions to provide muscle pull are better than a fast movement which builds up momentum. Another good outer thigh exercise is to lie on the side and lift top leg as high as possible.

"Bring it up as far as you can and relax and let it down slowly, very slowly," she emphasizes, "like putting on the brakes of a car."

She's got 100 others.

"But the important thing," she says, "is not to go at household exercise or special exercises too strenuously. Don't work at them so hard that if your husband surprises you by saying, when he comes home, 'Honey, let's go to a movie tonight,' all you can give him is a blank stare."

Mr. Champion got off to his best opening, the singleton deuce of clubs. Mr. Muzzy won with the ace and lost no time returning a club. Mr. Champion ruffed this trick but there was no way for him to re-enter his partner's hand to get another club ruff.

Thus Mr. Abel made four, losing only a club, a club ruff and the ace of hearts. He had plenty of time to pick up the trumps and discard his two small diamonds on dummy's good clubs.

Mr. Muzzy loves to ruff and to give his partner a ruff. In this case, however, it was necessary to look ahead and to realize that the best chance to defeat the contract probably lay in deferring the club ruff.

If Mr. Champion had held the East hand, here is how he would have reasoned: "If my partner has as many as three trumps, he will get to ruff two club leads. But it is unlikely that he has as many as three trumps because that would leave Mr. Abel with a four-card heart suit. With only four hearts it is probable that Abel would have bid three no-trump rather than game in hearts.

"If my partner has the ace of spades, he will always win with it. But if he has the king of diamonds, that will require a lead through Abel's hand. Our diamond winner, if any, must be set up while I still have control of trumps."

As you see, the lead of a diamond at trick two defeats the contract. Even if Mr. Abel should elect to go up with the ace of diamonds and fire a trump, Mr. Muzzy could win and lead a club. Mr. Champion would then get his club ruff at a time when he could lay down the king of diamonds for the setting trick.

Notes on Exterior Materials.

RAN across a sad case the other day of a chap who a couple of years ago made some real nice looking outdoor furniture out of plywood. His trouble, and it's a big one, is that now the plywood is coming apart. He didn't know when he built the furniture that there is an interior grade of plywood and an exterior grade and when something is going to be exposed to the weather, it should be made of the exterior grade plywood.

Today we use a lot of materials other than wood for various projects that are exposed to the weather and so it's important to be sure to select a material that will hold up to the elements.

When you want to use plywood, you should, of course, use the exterior grade stuff.

If a porch floor is going to be exposed to the weather and maybe get a soaking from a heavy rain it should not be covered with linoleum or a similar product because moisture will get under the linoleum and rot both it and the subflooring. For porches that are exposed to the weather, better stick to wood or masonry.

Asbestos board stands up well against the weather and so does hardboard. Both, of course, can be painted. There are some grades and types of exterior insulating board or sheathing that will stand the weather and which can be painted and there are others that should not be exposed for too long to rain and which can't be painted. Be sure you use the one best suited to your needs.

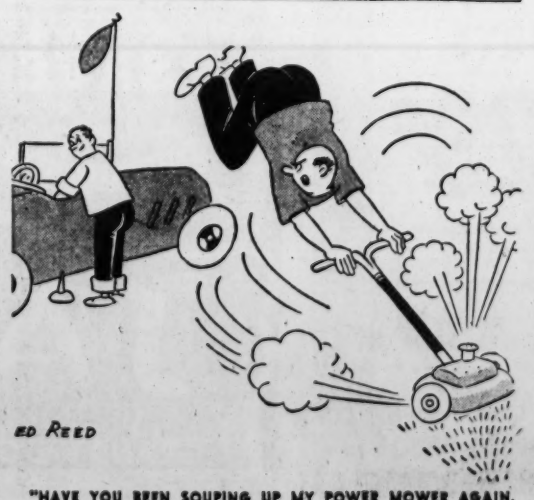

You also need special hardware and fasteners for work that is exposed to the weather. Ordinary steel nails are fine for interior work but they do rust and so if the heads are exposed it's best to use non-corrosive nails such as aluminum ones. Screw and hardware should be of brass rather than steel for the same reason. If you are putting something together with a glue or adhesive, be use that it's the water proof type.

Pineapple Sirup

When you serve pineapple rings as part of a fruit salad, you may have the syrup left over. Add a tablespoon of soy sauce to it and boil gently in a small saucepan until reduced in quantity and serve with a slice of broiled cooked ham.

Visitors From Germany Guests of St. Louisans

By Marilee Chadeayne Martin

VISITORS from Germany in St. Louis are Mr. and Mrs. Egon Anheuser of Bad Kreuznach, who are guests of his cousin, Mrs. Theodore Middleton Simmons, and Mr. Simmons, 4499 Lindell boulevard. Mr. Anheuser, who visited here as a boy, has many relatives in St. Louis, including his uncle, Louis J. Nicolaus, Mrs. Simmons's father; an aunt, Mrs. Edwin T. Stanard, and several cousins among the Anheuser family. He and his wife, who has never been to America before, arrived Sunday for a stay of two weeks, and are being entertained extensively at luncheons and dinners. They will remain to attend the Bal Masque at the City Art Museum May 11. In the United States on a combined business and pleasure trip, the Anheusers have been in New York and Chicago and will continue on to California after they leave St. Louis.

Dr. and Mrs. Bernard J. McMahon, 4 Willow Hill road, Ladue, had with them briefly last week for a few days their son-in-law, Capt. Alfred J. Reese Jr., U.S.A., who was in St. Louis on a transportation assignment. Capt. Reese is married to the McMahons' youngest daughter, the former Miss Pamela McMahon. The Reeses make their home in Fairfax, Va., while he is stationed in Washington.

Another son-in-law and daughter of Dr. and Mrs. McMahon, Mr. and Mrs. John Overton Dozier, 37 The Orchards, Clayton, became parents in March for the third time. The infant, a girl, has been named Lisa Ann. The Doziers also have a daughter, Lynn, who is 6 years old and a son, 4, John O. Jr. Mrs. Dozier was Miss Polly McMahon.

Tindall-Boles Wedding Date Set.

THE marriage of Miss Emily Marie Boles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ashleigh Pannell Boles, to Cordell W. Tindall of Fayette, Mo., will take place at 4:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon, June 3. The Rev. Dr. R. Calvin Dobson will officiate at First Presbyterian Church. Later there will be a small reception at the Boles home, 769 Yale avenue, university City.

—Martin Schweig Photograph.

MISS BOLES . . . PLANS WEDDING.

Miss Boles will have as her only attendant her sister, Miss Elizabeth Alicia Boles. Best man will be Robert Burns and ushers will be the prospective bride's brothers, Dr. C. Read Boles, William Ashleigh Boles and James Carl Boles; Paul Chenoweth and William Schulten.

Serving at the reception will be Mrs. Read Boles, Mrs. William Boles, Mrs. William W. Carter and Miss Betty Read, Fayetteville, Ark., cousin of Miss Boles. Mr. Tindall's daughter, Miss Connie Tindall, will be in charge of the guest book.

Among the parties being planned for the bride-elect is a luncheon May 22 with Mrs. Hugh M. Bowen as hostess. A similar party will be given by Miss Joye Siroky and another affair is being planned by Mr. and Mrs. William Boles. The dates for the parties will be announced later as will those for the spinster dinner, to be given by Miss Elizabeth Boles, and the rehearsal dinner with Dr. and Mrs. Read Boles as host and hostess.

Mrs. Guy S. Forcier, 4925 West Pine boulevard, departed last week for Louisville, Ky., where she will visit her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Forcier, for two weeks. While there she will care for her young grandson, Robbie, while Mr. and Mrs. Forcier (Frances Simpkins) attend a convention at French Lick Springs, Ind.

Mrs. Forcier's other son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Guy S. Forcier, 11 Lenox place, had a family party a week ago Sunday in honor of the christening of their second child, John Marshall Forcier, who is four months old. They have a daughter, Anne. Mrs. Forcier was Miss Nancy Marshall, daughter of the John N. Marshalls, 410 North Newstead avenue.

Prizes for Bal Masque Announced.

TWO grand prizes, one for the most original mask, the other for the most decorative, are announced today for the Bal Masque Italien to be given at City Art Museum Friday night, May 11. A framed portrait of the winner, be it man or woman, will be painted by Charles F. Galt, well-known St. Louis artist, and will be hung in the Art Museum for two weeks after its completion. A painting by Aimee Schweig (Mrs. Martin Schweig) will be donated by the artist. In addition there will be five small trophies for runners-up in the mask competition.

At 11:45 the night of the ball, merry-makers in harlequin costumes, together with a drum-beating clown will circulate through the galleries to advise guests that prize-awarding time is approaching. The judging of winners will have been done previously by three men in a group of 40 hosts, according to Mrs. Thomas W. Pettus, chairman of that committee. After the awards a buffet supper will be served.

The identity of the three judges will be kept secret. The entire list of hosts follows: L. Guy Blackmer, David R. Calhoun Jr., Daniel K. Catlin, Warren T. Chandler, Charles E. Claggett, Richmond Coburn, Fred E. Conway, William H. Cunliff, J. Lionberger Davis Jr., Roberto de Cardona, Charles S. Drew, Ewald R. Froese, Russell E. Gardner, David L. Grant, John Moss Hall, James P. Hickok, Henry Hitchcock, Oliver M. Langenberg, John N. Marshall, Morton D. May, Donald J. Meyer, Marion Niedringhaus, Henry B. Pflager, William Julius Polk Jr., John J. Powers, Joseph Pulitzer Jr., Siegfried G. Reinhardt, Roland W. Richards, Ethan A. H. Shepley, Bradford Shinkle Jr., Robert H. Shoenberg, Sydney M. Shoenberg, Dr. Andrew J. Signorelli, James W. Singer Jr., Philip Platt Smith, Mahlon B. Wallace Jr., Edward D. Weakley, Dr. Walter L. Wiedmer, Orrin S. Wightman Jr., and Eugene F. Williams.

My Day

A Wonderful Evening at The Theater

By Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK.

JUST as I was going out to dinner Monday night my telephone rang and I was given the sad news of Senator Alben W. Barkley's death. At 78, he was serving in the Senate and living a very active life—in fact, was stricken while making a speech at Washington and Lee University.

He had a warm, colorful personality and he will be much missed by all his friends and associates. The country has lost a valuable public servant.

★ ★ ★

I ATTENDED a mental health forum at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel for two hours Monday morning at which Dr. Margaret Mead presided. While I was there international tensions were discussed and Senator Mike Mansfield and Representative Walter Judd both made excellent speeches.

In essence, they emphasized the fact that we must learn to live with tensions and to welcome them for they mean that we are aware of the need for action in various fields of endeavor and we must prepare to make that action useful to ourselves and to the world.

★ ★ ★

FINALLY, in the evening I was taken by a friend to see "My Fair Lady." Shaw's "Pygmalion" has been made into a delightful musical comedy, starring Rex Harrison and Julie Andrews.

Moss Hart staged the production and I wonder how he managed to make it so nostalgic to those of us who think back with joy to Gertrude Lawrence in "The King and I" and to "South Pacific."

Somehow I kept being reminded of both productions and wishing that John Golden could be here to see this perfectly delightful and enchanting musical, which I am sure he would have enjoyed as much as I did.

I want to thank the producers and the whole cast for a wonderful evening.

Hospital Group Plans Luncheon For Mid-May

By Fay Profilet

THE Women's Auxiliary of St. John's Hospital will hold a "May Bonnet-Mercy Centennial" luncheon followed by a business session and program Monday, May 14, at 12:15 p.m. at the nurses' residence, 4961 Audubon avenue. Since the affair is being held during the hundreth anniversary festivities of the Sisters of Mercy, who conduct St. John's Hospital among other institutions in this area, the decorative theme will be reminiscent of the arrival of their first six members in St. Louis.

Mrs. Robert E. Ryan, luncheon chairman, will be assisted by Mrs. Arthur K. Friskel, Mrs. Robert F. Hickey, Mrs. Burch A. Merritt, Mrs. Pierce W. Powers and Mrs. Leon F. Weyerich. Mrs. James F. Dowd and Mrs. William L. Tomlinson Jr., wearing large hats of the pre-Civil War period, will welcome the guests on arrival at the residence, and give out the name cards bearing birthday greetings. Huge leghorn hats bedecked with flowers and pink ribbon will adorn the mirror at the entrance and the walls of the lounge.

The luncheon will be served from a large old fashioned table arranged by Mrs. George Stecker, the auxiliary's second vice president. The white scalloped tablecloth is of imported Irish linen, which she hand-embroidered, the centerpiece will be a copy of an 1856 carriage decorated with May flowers, and occupied by six miniature figures of Sisters of Mercy.

Mrs. George T. Gafney, auxiliary president, will preside at the business meeting in the auditorium after the luncheon. Mrs. Seymour Brown, program chairman, will introduce J. Herndon Kirkland who will show a color film titled, "Hawaiian Hospitality."

The Juno Club will meet May 9 at the Saum Hotel at 6:30 p.m. with Mrs. Marie Gill, chairman. Mrs. Hertha Huss Saussele, zither player, will entertain the group. A discussion of "Our City and State" will be conducted by a group of the members.

Martha Carr's OPINION

REG U S PAT OFF

Dear Martha:

WHAT would you do if you were married to a man who has his car, his insurance, in fact everything that he has worked for, in his father's name? We have a child three years old, rent our home, and if I should be left a widow I wouldn't have a cent that I could call my own or expect any help from his people. I am given $20 a week for groceries and of course can't save anything from the grocery money. I am not allowed to write checks. I am under a doctor's care from worry. I have lost 17 pounds in two months. He is good to us in every way but this. He gave his brother $1700 to help buy a new home but as far as I know has never received any payment on the loan. I am 35 and he is 40 and I am very much concerned about this set-up. S.O.S.

I don't blame you, but frankly I don't know what can be done now, except to try to make him see your need for security and your desire to have some say in the family budgeting. This is a question which should be explored and settled before marriage, because money, lack of same, or its mismanagement have wrecked more marriages than any starry-eyed, impractical sweethearts ever dreamed of. But don't add to the problem by worrying yourself sick. You need all your strength to solve it. If he won't listen to some straight-from-the-shoulder talk about the family budget, seek professional help or you'll be miserable the rest of your life.

Dear Martha:

I AM SUCH A WEAK PERSON and I'm ashamed. No matter how I've tried to overcome my fears, such as storms, going to the doctor or dentist and quite a number of other things, it just doesn't work. I would so much like to become a stronger person and I wondered if a person could be helped or do you think this is something you have to learn yourself? I have three children and though I outwardly don't show my fears, I'm afraid they can still sense it. I want them to grow up, not as I am, but stronger and I think in order to do this I should be the kind of person I want them to be. But how? A READER.

Your longing to overcome this, not only for the sake of your own happiness but to set an example for your children, certainly is a giant step in the right direction. I imagine everyone has some fear. Certainly most of us are haunted by spectres of illness or poverty or inadequacy. And what one does to combat it might not work for another. A strong religious faith, of course, has given many the strength to analyze and face and dissipate their fears, but this faith is something that everyone must find for himself. I can only give you the small comfort that you are not alone in being afraid, and suggest that your pastor might be able to help you in constructive thinking to conquer your feelings of weakness.

Art Comes to the Dinner Table

By Mary Kimbrough

THERE'S a new place for fine paintings in addition to the walls of museums and mansions. It's the shelf of the china cabinet.

In a move designed to bring art to the family dinner table, a china manufacturer has collected original paintings executed by famed artists, from which hand-painted and decorated china was created. Part of the exhibit, which includes paintings by Dali, Picasso, Bacon, Modigliani, Schreiber and others, is being shown this week in the china department of Stix, Baer & Fuller's downtown store.

Here to set up the exhibit of paintings and the china pieces on which the artists' work was copied, was W. Craig McBurney, of New Castle, Pa., director of design for Castleton China.

For the most part, as McBurney pointed out, the hand-painted pieces bearing the work of the famed artists are decorative and some are more suitable to be hung on the wall as plaques than to be placed on the table as dinner plates. Others, however, can be used as accents for a table, particularly as cover plates to be removed from the table before the first course is served.

There is, for instance, a colorful scene from the opera "La Boheme," painted by Bemelmans and transferred in exact detail to a dinner plate. There is a platter bearing four figures in a show spotlight, painted by Schreiber and entitled "Performance." A figure in modern motif and executed in simple black lines on a white background was painted by Modligliani.

Although many would not be suitable for actual serving dishes or plates, one colorful design by Picasso in brown and red has been utilized in a set of china with only a small detail of the painting repeated on cups and plates for a bright accent.

Such an accent is important on the modern dinner table, McBurney believes. Even for a formal dinner, color may be used.

W. CRAIG McBURNEY . . . ATTRACTIVE CHINA IS JUST AS IMPORTANT AS WELL-PREPARED FOOD IN MAKING ANY DINNER A SUCCESS."

"Attractive china is just as important as well-prepared food in making any dinner a success," he said. "And china should be changed from time to time, just as the menu must be varied.

"Cracked or chipped plates and cups take a great deal from the beauty and enjoyment of a meal. I have never been able to understand why women cling so to cups with broken handles. They just seem to hate to throw them away."

McBurney also finds it hard to understand why families think nothing of buying a new automobile every few years, yet they want their one good set of china to serve them throughout their lives.

"It's not really as fragile as people seem to think, but, for that matter, why not change the pattern and type from time to time?"

In selecting a set of china, he pointed out, families should be guided not only by their taste in color but by the type of life they lead. For the extremely casual, the colorful pottery is suitable, whereas those who entertain formally need the more classic and traditional pattern.

"BUT the color should be such that blends with the room, the draperies, the walls. And dont' think that a formal dinner calls only for the time-honored pattern of gold rim on white. Turquoise and pink rims, for instance, can be used in a beautiful formal setting, or, for a little more informal table, the same colors with a delicate pattern superimposed."

Those colors have been utilized in some of the table settings created by members of 11 St. Louis women's organizations in a contest being conducted in connection with the exhibit. Club groups represented are the Women's Advertising Club, St. Louis Council of Parent-Teacher Associations, Monday Club of Webster Groves, Junior Women's Chamber of Commerce, Greater St. Louis Bridge League, Zonta Club, Business and Professional Women's Clubs, all at the Downtown store; and Panhellenic Association, College Club, Eighth District, Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs and Women's Chamber of Commerce of St. Louis, at the Westroads store.

"Christmas and Thanksgiving Day," said McBurney, "are the times of the year when families particularly want to bring their best china out and create a beautiful table. And, surprisingly enough, birthdays come next.

"There is a growing interest, even in our casual times, in the appearance and beauty of the table. And I feel that the dining room will be coming back.

The Dean Speaks Up

Business Is More Than Bookkeeping

By Adele Starbird

BUSINESS is more than bookkeeping; it is relationship, and therein lies its fascination. Mrs. George W. Cieslak of Webster Groves recently had an experience with an English firm which was as personal and neighborly as handing a pie over the back fence.

Adele Starbird

Five years ago in Detroit Mrs. Cieslak purchased a flannel-backed oilcloth table cover which she liked so much that she tried without success to duplicate it. Through the British Consulate in St. Louis she learned that it had been manufactured at Storeys of Lancaster, England. A letter to that firm inclosing a drawing which she had made of the design brought a response which was more than courteous.

"Unfortunately this design was withdrawn from our range several years ago and the printing rollers are no longer in existence. We did hope that we would be able to find an odd cover but our entire stock had been cleared out, both in perfects and seconds. Seeing, however, that you had taken so much trouble to obtain one of these covers, we have made inquiries and have found that one of our executives obtained a half-dozen of these at the time that the last of the stock was sold, for his mother, who also was very keen on this design. He has managed to persuade her to part with one of these covers and we have pleasure in sending you this separately by surface mail. As she has been storing this cover for several years it may not be absolutely perfect, but it does not seem to have deteriorated very much with keeping.

"In view of the determined attempts you have made to obtain this particular design we are very pleased to send you this free of charge, with our compliments, and hope that it will arrive safely."

In her letter of thanks Mrs. Cieslak wrote to Storeys of Lancaster that she had great pleasure in telling the "Storey" of her table cover.

IN 1946 I had a reservation on a TWA plane for France. A few days before leaving I called the St. Louis office to ask how much I should have to pay for 50 pounds excess baggage. I expressed surprise when the amount was set at $4.50, but I was assured it would be no more than that. (I should have known better, having paid excess charges often enough in this country.)

But I went out and bought 50 pounds of chocolates, cheese, sugar, tea, coffee, and cigarettes to take as presents to friends.

The Skymaster was to take off from Chicago. It was midnight and most of the passengers were already on the plane when my name was called and my bags weighed. "That will be $90 excess," said the clerk.

I protested that I had been misinformed, but I paid the charge, reflecting ruefully that seldom had food been so expensive.

An official of the company, Mr. Gano Lightfoot, came up to question me. Just when had I called the St. Louis office? By some freak of luck I knew precisely the day and the hour. Would I repeat the conversation? As I have a memory for dialogue that is like a tape recorder, I could.

I had been in Paris three weeks when a letter came from TWA that they had checked my story, that they stood behind the mistakes of their employes and that they were enclosing a check for $85.50.

The French who heard about it— and everybody who knew me did hear about it — went into raptures. Now that was truly American! That was chic! Only Americans conducted business on the grand scale—large, generous, without pettiness.

I basked in the glow of their praise for my country. Because that is the way we do conduct business. Sometimes.

Family Closeness

By Ruth Millett

EITHER a mother or a father, or both, can do a great deal to keep brothers and sisters close after they have scattered across the country to make homes of their own. One father managed this by writing family letters and making enough carbons as he wrote so that each child received a copy.

RUTH MILLETT

The family letter worked even better than individual letters. It could be long and newsy and in reading the father's special remarks to each son and daughter all had the feeling of a family discussion, even though it was not around the dinner table as it had been in the old days.

A mother accomplishes the same thing by sending on the letters received from one child to another with a notation to mail after reading to still another child, and so on until the letter completes the rounds of the family. Another mother encourages family closeness by maintaining the family farm, even though she lives there alone most of the year. By so doing she made it possible for children and grandchildren to have a happy meeting place for summer vacations.

It is sad for a family to drift apart simply because they live far from each other and are busy with their own lives. And it is entirely unnecessary. One member of the family—mother, father, son or daughter—can prevent it by taking on the job of keeping each member of the family informed about the others.

In a family there should be no feeling of "I never write so-and-so because so-and-so never writes me. Any member of a family should be willing to do more than his share of writing or visiting if by so doing he can help to keep a family circle unbroken through the years.

Beauty After 40

By Edyth Thornton McLeod

"I AM five feet tall and weigh 90 pounds. My eyes are blue, and I have fair skin which is painfully dry. My hair is white but I have it tinted ash blonde which is becoming. I am 41. What colors in clothes would be best for me?—Sara."

As you are small and an ash blonde, I suggest pastels and fine, dainty patterns in prints. Keep away from bows and frills. Simple classic lines will be the most flattering to your figure. You should use makeup with understatement and never allow your hair to be too curly. The smoother look is the best for your height and type. To alleviate the dry skin condition, use cosmetic oil. If you want to know more about this, write to me.

"WHAT is a cream mask and can I buy any kind and where?—D.H."

You can buy a cream mask at any cosmetic counter. Some have a different base from others but any good cream mask will be beneficial for freshening your skin. A good one, very mild but pleasant, can be made at home by adding two teaspoonfuls of fresh mint leaves to a half-pound jar of cold cream. Also you can use vanishing cream as a mask. Apply a double film on neck and face. Leave for one minute. Remove the residue and apply your makeup.

Secrets of Charm

Putting on Weight

MANY problems accompany underweight conditions. How often have you heard those too thin claim that they ate more than anyone else in the family?

In their case the trouble may not be how much they ate, but how much value they are getting from their food. Then there is their slim-jim sister that "just can't face breakfast."

Unless health is under par, a picayune appetite or an improper combination of foods is usually the cause for persistent underweight.

★ ★ ★

HERE are a few tips for quick gains that you might give a try. Remember, something can be done. Follow conscientiously and consistently.

Arise a half hour earlier than usual; drink a glass of cool (not cold) water; breathe deeply before an open window; take a brisk shower and rubdown; dress fully; relax in a chair for 10 minutes. Don't light a cigarette. Don't rush through a meal. Eat your breakfast in a leisurely and relaxed fashion.

Eat more slowly, and chew your food more thoroughly than you have done previously.

★ ★ ★

EACH DAY eat a little more than you desire until you stretch your capacity for food.

When feasible, rest for 10 minutes after each meal.

PUTTING ON WEIGHT TAKES TIME.

Words, Wit and Wisdom —By William Morris

Conversation Clinic.

"HOW do you feel about the adverb after the verb 'feel'?" asks a reader. "I am looked at questioningly when I say, 'I'm sorry you feel bad.' I was taught that feel in this sense is an intransitive verb, expresses a state of being, and therefore takes a predicate adjective. But I seldom hear anything but the adverb 'badly.'"

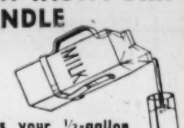

If you want to say that you feel unhappy about something or that you're not in the best of health, say, "I feel bad." "Feel" in this use is what grammarians call a "linking verb" and takes a predicate adjective. However, if you mean to say that you have lost your sense of touch, go ahead and say, "I feel badly."

★ ★ ★

"A FRIEND OF MINE insists on saying 'between you and I.' Maybe if you spoke out about this common error," writs a St. Louis reader, "she would believe me when I tell her she's wrong."

This is a common affectation —but it couldn't be more completely in error. "Between" is, of course, a preposition and the object of a preposition must be in the objective case. "You" is the same form whether nominative or objective case, but the first personal pronoun changes from "I" (nominative) to "me" (objective). The only correct formulation, therefore, is "between you and me" and people who insist on saying "between you and I" only convict themselves of ignorance.

Television Notes and Gossip

DANCER-COMEDIAN RAY COLGER has been signed by NBC to star in 16 one-hour musical television shows starting in September. The series, titled "Washington Square," will be presented on Tuesday nights, alternating with the Martin and Lewis, Bob Hope and Dinah Shore Shows. The programs setting will be Greenwich Village.

Ray Colger

The Eddie Fisher show will go off the network June 8 and return Aug. 29.

* * *

The cost of the live production of "A Night to Remember," repeated on KSD-TV last night, was $100,000. The repeat showing, on film, cost $60,000. According to Variety, the only saving the second time was on sets, since all of the 106 actors were paid the same fee as before.

* * *

Sonny Fox of "The $64,000 Challenge" is Sonny again. When he took over as master of ceremonies of the new program his name was changed to Bill. But it was discovered that another television personality had that name so Fox went back to his original name. Actually, his first name is Erwin.

* * *

Mickey Rooney and Jayne Mansfield will be visited on "Person to Person" on KTVI at 9:30 p.m. tomorrow.

* * *

"Has Anybody Seen My Gal?" on Lux Video Theater on KSD-TV tonight will be in color.

* * *

* * *

Eddie Bracken will star in "Formosa Patrol" on KWK-TV's "Playhouse of Stars" at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow.

* * *

"Mama," one of television's oldest shows, has lost its sponsor, who will drop the program July 6. Future plans for the show have not been announced.

Uncle Ray's Column

By Ramon Coffman

According to my plan, this will happen while I am riding northward out of Italy.

That event will mean only a little in my life, but it meant a great deal to Julius Caesar to cross that river while moving southward. He was leading his forces past the southern limit of Gaul.

* * *

IT SEEMS that Caesar was accompanied by only one legion (about 5,000 soldiers) when he crossed the Rubicon. As he marched toward Rome, however, he was joined by many former soldiers.

Before long, he learned of the trip of Pompey across the Adriatic. On the other side of that sea, said the reports, Pompey was adding to the size of his army.

Fearing that Pompey might return to Italy with powerful forces, Caesar decided to pursue him. After crossing the Adriatic, he suffered defeat in an early battle but saved most of his army. Thousands of additional soldiers joined him.

Then came a deciding battle. With 24,000 men, Caesar marched to a district near the town of Pharsalus in northern Greece. There he attacked Pompey's forces, which contained more than twice as many men.

* * *

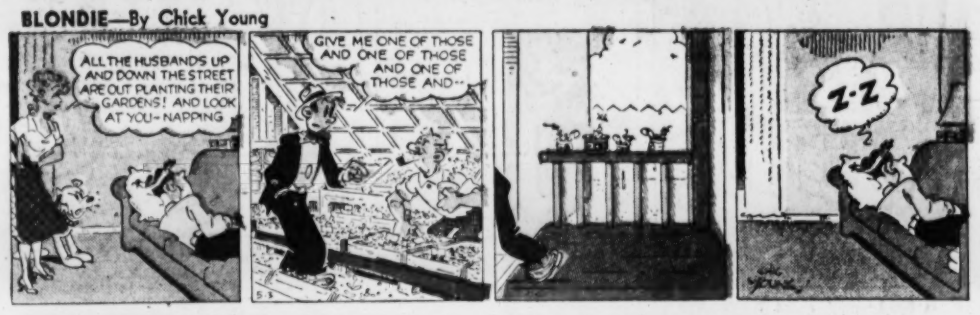

CAESAR was the victor, and returned to Rome in triumph. There the Roman Senate named him dictator ("the one who says") for a period of 10 years. Later he was made "dictator for life." As it turned out, his life lasted only two years after his first appointment as dictator.

A legend in Caesar's family spoke of the goddess Venus as one of his ancestors. Perhaps this story suggested to him that he was really a god who had come to earth to rule a mighty empire. A statue of Caesar was set up in a temple, and carved on the statue were Latin words meaning "To the Unconquerable God."
